Halloween

Much amusement and more or less "cussing" was occasioned last Wednesday morning when the victims of pranks played the night before by certain "imps of darkness" were discovered.

Most of the jokes were harmless and only caused time and some annoyance to straighten out, but in some cases the enthusiasm of the jokers carried them too far, to no particular damage to property was done. There is too often a tendency to work a little spite in with the "practical" jokes that is not smart or manly and generally emphasizes the "empty-headedness" of the perpetrators. However, the old time license supposed to be allowed Halloween pranks is expected to cover a multitude of sins and the victims are expected to be "game" enough to grin and like them.

Mrs. F. H. Allington of Kelso, Wash., and her daughter, Mrs. Wm A. Blackburn and little son, of Bruce, Wis., who have visited here this week with their son and brother, E. A. Allington and family, will leave today for Kelso.

Aged Mother Slain

Another brutal murder was committed in Wasco county this week, when William Glisan, of Antelope, plunged a knife into his old mother's back while she was bending over the wash tub.

Glisan had recently come out of the mountains where he spent the summer herding sheep. His parent's home is a short mile from the town of Antelope, but he spent most of his time in town drinking at the saloons. The supposition is that he was crazed with drink and this together with the belief that he had had some quarrel with his family, led him to commit the foul deed. He was arrested and will probably be tried at the November term of court for the most horrible of crimes, matricide.

After a five years' fight, the woman teachers in the public schools of New York have won equal pay with men in all grades, Mayor Gaynor having on the 19th signed the equal pay bill and Gov. Dix having already made it known that if the Mayor accepted the bill he also would sign it. —The Public.

Commercial Club Entertains.

The "Ghost Party" given in Lamb's Hall last Monday night by the Commercial Club was a success from start to finish and the committee in charge are to be complimented, particularly Mrs. J. N. Mosier, who was the "main poke in the wheel," as it was to her indefatigable exertions that it passed off so satisfactorily. Most of the "shades" arrived on time from their habitations hither and yon and the hall was filled with a ghostly, crowd wrapped in winding sheets, as they were supposed to have departed from this mundane sphere. There were he ghosts and she ghosts, distinguishable only by the difference in their masks—and the size of their feet. In fact, one of the former had a white mask on, but his pedal extremities gave him away. Much amusement was caused by the spirits endeavoring to tell "which from tother," and the unmasking disclosed some surprises.

One of the features of the entertainment was the ghost Hornpipe danced by little Alice Shogren, who flitted around like a veritable shade, displaying no mean ability.

Partners for supper were chosen while the ghosts were yet en mask, and only the wise ones knew who they were drawing. The refreshments consisted of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee, which were much enjoyed.

The coffee, which was Closset & Devers best Golden West brand, was donated by Mr. Guy Phillips, who is the Company's Mosier agent. The Club wishes to publicly acknowledge the kindness.

The Mosier quartet sang several appropriate pieces and responded to encores. Next came some well executed shadow work, which caused much merriment. The work of extracting some superfluous wheels from the craium of one of our local business men, and the readjusting of the rest of them was skillfully performed by our two local sawbones.

At a late hour the ghosts repaired to their several abodes and each one said he had a joy-some time.

It would appear that while waiting for some land buyers to come along and beg him to sell them some Mosier soil, J. K. McGregor has branched out into other lines, according to an artistic sign that adorned his property at the edge of town, last Wednesday morning. The sign reads: "McGregor's Inn. Bide a wee. Wines, Liquors and Cigars," and is a work of art. It was suggested that some hobo artist, while resting committed the deed, which would serve as a "high sign" for others. Or possibly some of Jack's thirsty friends erected it as a monument to his liquid hospitality.
