The Big Franz Department Store at your door.

We'd like you to run over and become acquainted with our big Home Stove.

FRANZ LOW PRICES and excellent service is building up the most splendid business of the kind in the Columbia Valley.

Franz pays freight and Railroad Fare

This is the inducement offered our out-of-town friends. Every price is marked in plain figures—they are lower than any others. New Fall stock of Furniture, Rugs, Linoleum, Steel Ranges, Builders' and Orchardists' hardware and supplies are arriving daily. Spend a pleasant day with your neighbors in Hood River. You'll find a cordial welcome awaiting you.

Portland to attend the big Elk convention there next week, would be in Mosier about noon. The few Elks in town met them on their arrival here and escorted them to the residence of J. N. Mosier where, in company with J. M. Elliott and E. A. Race, brother Elks, and the Bulletin man (who isn't an Elk but should be) they were royally entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Mosier and daughter Alice. The table was decorated with the Elk colors, royal purple.

The three hikers, Messrs. Lyon, Clark and Stone, gave a very interesting account of their long walk across the western country, which was the result of a jesting remark of friends at home that they couldn't do it. But the "Show Me" boys were equal to the occasion and on reaching this place, 2,128 miles from their starting point, appeared to be good for as many more miles.

The boys traveled light, shipping their baggage ahead, and carried only canteens and a camera. They had been 81 days on the road, averaging 28 miles per day. They each wore the same pair of Crossett shoes that they started with, each pair having been half-soled four times en route.

After a delightful visit with the genial host and hostess, the boys left late in the afternoon for Hood River, hitting a four-mile gait out of town. They were met on the road by a bunch of Hood River Elks, who close herded them into town and gave them the freedom of the city. They reached Portland yesterday and were given a grand reception.
