MOSIER HOTEL OPENS

The Mosier Hotel opened its doors to the public yesterday under the management of F. R. Howard, and it will be conducted in a thoroughly up-to-date manner and "on the square," which means that a guest will be treated square, he can get a square meal and a good, clean, comfortable bed. In fact, he will be able to secure as near "all the comforts of home" as it is possible to get in a public house.

Mr. Howard is a young man of ability and integrity, well known here and in Hood River, where he has been employed for years by the Pacific States Telephone Company. He and his estimable wife know what is required of a good country hotel and they will make every effort to supply the wants of their customers. The traveling man, the man from the country, the laborer, or a family, will receive respectful and courteous treatment and will be made to feel at home there.

Mosier has long needed and the people have long wanted, a good hotel. The old building still stands, but it has been remodeled and renovated and the sanitary conditions have been greatly improved inside and out, and the hotel will furnish a comfortable home for the transient or the permanent guest. It will be a pleasant place for families to dine on warm days when the wife doesn't feel equal to preparing a meal over a hot stove. Mosier people should take advantage of this and patronize the new hotel.

Mosier visitors in Hood River last Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. McClure, Mrs. Jack Burtchett, Miss Myrtle Harvey, Miss Maud Evans, J. N. Mosier, Dick Wilcox and Wm. Thurston.

Mark A. Mayer is home again, having dropped off of No. 17 last Sunday evening, coming from "little old New York," where he went last Fall. Mark says he had a fine time but is glad to get back to Mosier.

SWEET DAINTINESS

is a feature of our candies. They tempt by their looks, as they delight by their taste. No matter whether you choose chocolates, bonbons, caramels, or any other of our many varieties, that daintiness is evident. If you haven't previously cared for candies or have become tired of the common kind, try ours. They will be a delighrful revelation to you.
