MOSIER APPLES IN NEW YORK

Mosier apples have been causing much favorable comment in "high" circles of New York City lately. During the bankers' convention at Gearhart this summer, R. M. Ross, Mosier's banker, met F. W. Ellsworth, the publicity manager of the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York. Mr. Ross, like all loyal Mosierites, talked "Mosier," and told Mr. Ellsworth of the perfection and keeping qualities of our apples. The New York man was much surprised that apples could be kept in good condition for a year, and said he would like to see some of them. On the 10th of the present month Mr. Ross sent him some Spitzenberg apples of last year's crop. The apples were duly delivered and the following letter of acknowledgment was received by Mr. Ross this week:

New York, Aug. 15, 1912.

MR. ROBERT ROSS, Cashier, Mosier Valley Bank, Mosier, Ore.

Dear Mr. Ross: It was not my intention to put you to so much trouble but I am mighty glad to receive the apples nevertheless. They arrived in good condition and stood the journey wonderfully well, with the exception of a little spot on one of them. They are all hard and look like the real article that they are. The folks here cannot understand how apples can keep so long. Here, you know, we are used to seeing them get soft in December or January at the latest. You may be sure that the Mosier label will be kept prominent.

Yours very truly, F. W. ELLSWORTH, Publicity Manager.

WILL START BOX FACTORY

Samuel Bradley, proprietor of the saw mill back of the Sundborg place, has installed machinery in his mill for the purpose of making fruit boxes. It is reported that Mr. Bradley has already received orders for 9,000 boxes from parties at The Dalles at a figure said to be a cent per box lower than they can be purchased at The Dalles.

The making of boxes for the fruit interests in this and other sections opens up a large field for a profitable industry, at the same time reducing the cost of the boxes to the consumer. Mr. Bradley realizes the importance of this new industry, both to the community and to the individual and his pioneer enterprise should meet with success.
