The comedy drama, "A Woman's Way," which is to be presented at the opera house tonight, appeals to the young and old alike. It is a story from real life, and while there are here and there serious lines, the play fairly bubbles with comedy and the ludicrous situations will confuse any audience with laughter.

MOSIER BOOK STORE.

The Betty Barrows players who appear at the Mosier opera house tonight are not to be confused with barnstormers of indifferent, mediocre ability. Each lady and gentleman in the cast is an artist, and their interpretations of their various roles, as well as their quiet dignity in private life, has a gratifying tendency to uplift the thespian profession. (This is not a paid "ad," but the expression of one of the BULLETIN force who has seen and heard this company.)

The Bazaar held at Stroup's Hall last night was a social and financial success. Many of the townspeople took supper at the hall and nearly $30 was raised in that way. The fish pond and grab bag was a source of delight to the youngsters. Everything in the booths was sold and about $100 was realized.
