A well-meaning-but-nevertheless heartless individual wanted to pay his subscription, yesterday and offered us a ten-dollar piece to change. Think of it! Offering ten dollars to an editor, and the day after Christmas at that, when we didn't have enough money to change from one hand to the other.

Church of Christ Notes

We have been so busy with our Christmas doings that we have just time to stop and say that we will speak on suitable and interesting subjects next Lordsday morning and evening. We want you to be sure and be present to hear these sermons.

H. CAMPBELL CLARK, Minister.

Christmas at Christian Church

The Christmas doings at the Christian Church were good and went off very nicely.

The program consisted of songs by the choir, a male quartet, and individuals; Scripture reading and prayer; a Christmas Address; recitations; wreath drill; illustrated song by three young ladies garbed in flowing robes; a reading in Dutch; an organ and violin duet; a Santa Claus song, partly acted, in which Santa Claus appeared robed in bright red uniform, trimmed in white, made especially for this occasion. Then followed the distribution of the presents and the treat for the Bible School scholars and all children who were present.

The various numbers were well received and some were especially well rendered, and all were creditably given. No one made a failure.

During the illustrated song and a part of the wreath drill, the regular lights were turned out and the platform lighted with a soft, beautiful red light, which the Odd Fellows Lodge loaned for the occasion.

Everyone seemed to be well pleased.

Christmas Exercises at Immanuel Church

The exercises at Immanuel Church Christmas Eve, given by the Sunday School, were largely attended, the edifice being fairly crowded. The program was excellent and given mainly by the children of the school, who acquitted themselves very creditably. Whatever brief lapses of memory there may have been on the part of any of the little folks while unfolding their minds to the excitement of the occasion, for what youngster could keep his eyes and thoughts off the beautiful Christmas Tree standing in the corner loaded down with everything that a child could think of? Or what child could refrain from frequently "rubbering" to spy St. Nick when he came. However, each speaker received his share of applause, and Teddy Young was twice encored for a harmonica solo.

During the entertainment several telegrams were received from Santa Claus, informing the children of his progress on his journey to Mosier. Finally their (im) patience was rewarded and a typical Santa Claus strode into the room, delighting the youngsters and strengthening their belief in Old Santa, altho his voice did sound a little familiar.

When Dr. Santa Claus asked the children if there were any among them who had not been good all the month, only one little boy had the courage to stand up and confess his delinquency. That little chap deserved all the contents of Santa's sack. But when the presents were distributed it was noticed that all the youngsters who didn't "give themselves away" received their share of the good things.

The entertainment was a decided success and much credit is due the committee for making possible such a joyous time for the little folks.

An Heroic Rescue

NOTE:—This is not a patent medicine "ad." Yesterday afternoon, as Mr. Mark A. Mayer was bringing to town from Mayerdale a party of Christmas guests in his nice yellow "auto" (run by horse power) the aforesaid auto, in some unaccountable manner, managed to break its right hind leg. The accident happened at a danger place on the road and had it not been for Markey's wonderful presence of mind and great courage, a horrible tragedy might have resulted. Fearlessly springing from the vehicle and landing in the mud up to his hocks, he held the horses and his breath at the same time and, with his arms outspread as a life net, called to the other occupants to jump for their lives. Only the ladies toed the Mark and jumped, and of course they landed safely in the net. After the party had sufficiently recovered from their fright they walked into town, bringing the broken-legged vehicle, which was taken to Husband's Hospital for repairs.

Markey says that he doesn't know how the accident happened, but we'll wager a one cent cancelled postage stamp that Jack was sitting too heavy on one side, for he admitted that he was chock-a-block with the good things Markey offered his guests. The joke is on Jack, anyhow, for he had to walk to town.

The director of the census is preparing to issue complete figures on agricultural production of this state for 1909. He finds that Oregon produced crops in that year to the value of $49,041,000.

Oregon people who visited the land shows at Minneapolis and Chicago advise that this state make a stronger showing next year. They say many people were attracted to the opportunities here by the exhibit of Oregon products and next year will see many newcomers in the state as a result.

A much needed improvement was made at the depot this week when the walk was raised nearly a foot by a filling of cinders. This enables passengers to step on and off trains more easily.
