Rev. H. Campbell Clark, of the Christian Church, received a call by phone, last Monday evening, to go to Carlton, his former home, and conduct the funeral of an old lady, a member of the church there, and a very dear friend. He left on Tuesday morning's train, expecting to be gone several days.

The Dalles Chronicle says that Albert S. Roberts of that city has lost five work horses lately from ptomaine poisoning. He had several loads of carrots piled in the barnyard which he was feeding to his hogs. The carrots fermented badly and the horses ate, with fatal results, some of the decayed vegetables, when they were placed in the barnyard for the hogs.

Prof Jackson to Lecture

Today, at 11 o'clock, Prof. H. S. Jackson, of the Oregon Agricultural College, will speak at Chown's Hall to the orchardists of Mosier on the subject of dry rot in apples, and other diseases of fruits and plants. This is a subject which vitally concerns all fruit growers and they will no doubt turn out in force.

Church of Christ Notes

Our subject next Lordsday morning will be "Going Afar with Christ." Our evening theme will be "The Human Heart in Salvation." A large chart will be used with the evening sermon. A little boy, on seeing this chart said, "See the valentines."

Any young man or woman, not in a Bible School, is given a cordial invitation to come and join our Loyal Berean Class of 16 young people, who do things worth while. Come and be one of the doers. We also have classes for any one from one minute to 141 years old. Fact.

Hear Poultry Lecture

Quite a number of Mosierites attended Prof. Dryden's poultry lecture at Hood River, last Saturday afternoon. They learned much about different breeds of poultry, but they don't know yet which Prof. Dryden considers the best breed for egg production, for he claims it is not so much a question of breed as of breeding. While the lecture was very interesting and instructive, it was a little disappointing to some because so little mention was made of the proper feeding of poultry to get the best result in egg production. Every one has his fancy as to the kind of poultry to raise, but not every one knows how to feed to get "more and better eggs," and this is just what they hoped to learn at the lecture.

There are good openings in Mosier for several lines of business which are not represented here. We need a haberdashery, a delicatessen store, a shoe shop, harness shop, a florist, a dress-making and millinery establishment, a dentist, occasionally a lawyer, a garage, etc. All these things will be supplied in time, would be a convenience to have but it would be convenient to have some of them now.

Hopkins May be Registrar

President Taft has sent to the Senate the nomination of Harold T. Hopkins to be Registrar of The Dalles Land Office, completing the slate submitted by National Committeeman Williams. For several weeks the Interior Department has interposed an objection to the appointment of Hopkins, saying he is not an attorney, but Representative Sinnott, on whose recommendation Hopkins was endorsed by Williams, succeeded in convincing the President that Hopkins is thoroughly competent, notwithstanding that fact, and on Sinnott's showing Hopkins was nominated, the President having overruled the Interior Department.

GREEK STRATAGEM.

Military Tactics That Won Where Strength Was Lacking. After the decline of Rome the center of the world's military progress was for seven or eight centuries transferred to the Greek empire. Constantinople ruled elements of a much less homogeneous nature than Rome in her prime had depended upon. There was less loyalty to the central rule there and far less liberty under it.

The decisive military fact of the east was, however, that Byzantium had to contend against overwhelming numerical superiority in its enemies. South of it, from the Indies to the Atlantic, was the Saracen empire, burning with the zeal of a new religion. To the east were the Seljuk Turks, while to the north were the Bulgarians and the Slavonian and Hunnic tribes.

Against such odds it was useless simply to match man for man. The military leaders of the empire were full of military spirit and took keen delight in war as a game, but they were the descendants of Ulysses, and they made of war a game of finesse, of cleverness—in short, a war of wits. By their spying and bribes, by stirring up treason in the enemy's camp, by surprises, simulated retreats and ambush, they illustrated the saying of Bacon that stratagem is a weaker kind of policy used by those who are not strong enough to win by fair methods.—Edward D. Jones in Engineering Magazine.

THE GAME OF GOLF.

It is a Very Serious Matter With the Real Scot Enthusiast. In Fife and the Lothians every one plays golf—men of leisure, workmen and loafers, the last class producing the finest players. Many of the Scotch towns have public courses, and even where they are private the artisan clubs may use them on generous terms. Says Stewart Dick in "The Pageant of the Forth:"

"There is something very Scotch about the Scotch golfer. He seems to suit the leisurely and contemplative game. 'Keep your eye on the ball,' 'Slow back' and 'Aye he up' are written all over him. As a nation one would say the Scotch were professional, the English amateur, golfers, for there should be nothing dilettante about the game of golf.

"How serious a matter it is may be judged from the old story of the Scotch minister. Emerging after a hot and unwholesome strife in the lumber, he mops his heated brow and exclaims bitterly: "Ah maun gie it up! Ah maun gie it up!" "What?" cries his partner in consternation. "Gie up golf?" "No," he replies, with sublime scorn; "gie up the ministry!"

"This is the real old golfing spirit which still survives round the shores of the Forth."

The Peacock at Home.

The real home of peacocks or peafowls is in India. There they were and are hunted, and their flesh is used for food. As the birds live in the same region as the tiger, peacock hunting is a very dangerous sport. The long train of the peacock is not its tall, as many suppose, but is composed of feathers which grow out just above the tail and are called the tail coverts. Peacocks have been known for many hundred years. They are mentioned in the Bible. Job mentions them, and they are mentioned, too, in 1 Kings x. Hundreds of years ago in Rome many thousand peacocks were killed for the great feasts which the emperors made. The brains of the peacock were considered a great treat, and many had to be killed for a single feast.

The Mystery of Sleep.

It is impossible to give any precise explanation of the phenomenon of sleep. Yet many theories have been advanced. Legendre has shown by fairly conclusive arguments that it is due neither to "brain pallor," nor to intoxication by carbonic acid, nor to the presence of narcotic substances in the blood, theories that have been in turn advanced. Legendre intimates his preference for the view that sleep is not the result of fatigue, but is an inherited instinct designed to protect the organism against the ill effects of fatigue.—Harper's.

The Pacific Fruit Association is the latest organization formed to encourage the best methods of fruit growing, packing and marketing. The establishment of uniform grades, distribution of reliable market intelligence and affiliation with central marketing agencies are among the objects aimed at. Fruit growers of Western Oregon are interested in the association and its headquarters are at Portland.

HOW TO KILL A TOWN

Buy from peddlers as much and as often as possible. They are a benefit to the community. Denounce your home merchants because they make a profit on their goods. Tell them how much cheaper you can buy from a mail-order catalogue. Glory in the downfall of a man who has done much to build up your town.

Refuse to unite in any scheme for the betterment of material interests of the people. If a stranger comes to town, get a face on you like a dill pickle and tell him everything is overdone and predict a general crash in the near future.

Patronize outside newspapers to the exclusion of your own, and if a representative of the home paper asks you for a news item, tell him you don't know of any, and when the local paper comes out, curse the editor because there was no mention made of your mother-in-law's visit.

If you are a business man, don't advertise in your home paper, but compel the editor to go elsewhere for his advertising, and how like a sore-head because he does. Buy a rubber stamp and use it. It will save you a few dimes and make your letter-heads look as though you were doing business in a one-horse town.

Refuse to subscribe to your local paper because you "would not read it anyway," besides it is only a charity proposition anyhow. But always happen in on paper day to see your neighbor and read, without cost, the local news.

All this may not kill a town as quickly as might be desired, but it will help a whole lot.
