COUNTRY HAS EYES ON OREGON

Among the people of the East and the South, Oregon is the most talked-of state in the union, according to Geo. H. Kelly, the big timber and realty operator, who has just returned to Portland after a six weeks' trip to the Atlantic seaboard and the Gulf section, says the Portland Journal.

"Everywhere I went," said Mr. Kelly, "I heard people talking of the marvelous opportunities they have been told offer themselves in Oregon."

"While in New York I met a number of well-known financiers who told me that Oregon securities are in demand on every stock market in the East. Especially is this true of timber lands, for which the large banks are daily receiving orders. I believe that within a year or two the timber business of this state will attract many millions of dollars of eastern capital."

"On other trips I have taken to the east in past years, Seattle seemed to be the principal city of the coast that attracted investors, but this time Portland held the center of the stage. A number of large life insurance companies now have agents here looking for building loans."

"The president of a large railroad told me that in his opinion that portion of the state west of the Cascades will within the next decade experience the greatest boom in the history of western land development. The only thing that has held the money of investors back heretofore is the high prices asked for farm lands and the fact that there has been too little railroad construction."

APPLE "TIP" IS GIVEN

SPECIALIZING POINTED OUT AS ROAD TO SUCCESS

[Oregonian.]

SPOKANE, Wash., March 1—If the Northwest is to make a success of the apple business it must specialize in certain varieties that do not thrive in the Eastern states.

This is the message brought back to the people of the Spokane apple districts by H. C. Sampson, secretary of the North Pacific Distributors' Association, who has recently visited practically every apple state in the Union.

"We need to eliminate certain varieties that the East can grow as good quality and cheaper than we can, in order to make our production a success," declared Mr. Sampson. "I would suggest that this elimination include Baldwin, Grimes Golden, Rome Beauties and Winesaps and that we want to emphasize and develop such varieties as Yellow Newtowns, White Winter Pearmain, Spitzenberg, Jonathan, Delicious and Winter Banana. Our Wagner apples are far superior to those grown in the East and we should continue this variety."

"My trip through 14 states has emphasized the fact that we need organization to make a success of the Northwest apple industry and by growing the varieties adapted to this country and not successfully cultivated in the East we can make a big success in the industry."

W. H. Weber, of Chicago, owner of the East Hood River Fruit Farm, spent several days here this week looking after his interests. We understand that he has made arrangements for a number of substantial improvements this Spring, one of them being a new house for the use of his foreman on the "south farm."

Hans Kollandsrud was a business visitor in Hood River last Tuesday.

PAY UP

With this issue we are starting another year on the troubled and uncertain sea of journalism. Expenses go on just the same, whether the subscriber pays up and renews, or the business man advertises. As we get cute little messages every month with such endearing terms as "please r-m-i" attached, we are naturally expected to do the remit act. As it is, oddly enough, necessary to have the wherewithal to remit, we do here and now respectfully request our subscribers to come forth and dig up. This means YOU, if you've't done so; and if you haven't, be good enough to do it NOW, for we are anxious to pay our bills as we are to collect them. If we can't do one, we certainly can't do the other. We need the money to liquidate some of our fine assortment of debts, so, gentle reader and dear pee-pul, come thru with your little mite and help to pull ye editor out of the slough of despond.

"SALMON DAY" TO BE OBSERVED

RAILROAD DINING CAR SERVICE TO FEATURE PALATABLE PRODUCT ON MARCH 14TH.

Friday, March 14th, 1913, is to be generally observed in Oregon and Washington, on all the railroad and steamship lines operating into and through these states throughout California and the Middle West and the East as "Salmon Day." Each patron of the dining car will be served a portion of salmon free of charge, the leading hotels and restaurants will feature salmon as the piece de resistance and the grocers will have special window displays of the canned fish which is conceded to be not only one of the cheapest but one of the most palatable products of the country.

The object of the observance is to interest the people of the country at large in salmon as a food product. United States Bulletin 142 shows relative food value of canned salmon as compared with other foods to be as follows:

Canned Salmon	.218
Sirloin Steak	.165
Sugar Cured Ham	.142
Macaroni	.134
Eggs	.131
Spring Chicken	.129
White Bread	.090

The cost of salmon is from one-half to one-third less than the cost of meat or poultry.

This industry gives employment to thousands and more than $6,000,000 is paid annually for labor in the fisheries along the Oregon, Washington and Alaskan Coasts.

The leading commercial organizations will partake of specially prepared dishes of the canned production Salmon Day, and the people in general are asked to observe it, in recognition of its importance as one of the great industries of the Pacific Northwest.

The commissary of the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation Company has furnished all the dining car chefs with special recipes for preparing salmon and some appetizing dishes, in addition to regular menus, are promised for March 14th.

Where He Shone.

The prisoner was charged with larceny, and a lawyer of dubious reputation was defending him. "I submit, gentlemen of the jury," shouted the lawyer, "that the facts disclosed do not constitute larceny, although I will concede that the district attorney is usually a better judge of stealing than an I!"

"But a less successful practitioner," was the discouraging reply.—Judge.

Clear Proof.

"You may talk as you please about the intelligence of animals, but dogs cannot reason."

"Of course they can't. If they could reason like human beings dogs wouldn't stick so to a man when he's down."—Baltimore American.

WOMEN OF DENMARK.

As a Rule, They Are Wage Earners Even Though Married.

There is an outstanding point of difference between the activities of women in Denmark and in other countries. In Denmark the sole aim is economic independence for women throughout their lives.

This in Copenhagen more than 1,000 married women work as clerks in offices. By far the majority of actresses are married. In order to enter the school of the corps de ballet it is necessary to be of good family. The greater part of the husbands of ballet dancers are in high positions.

Three hundred and fifty to four hundred of the teachers in the free schools in Copenhagen are married. They receive exactly the same salary as the men teachers—that is, 894 yearly. A head teacher, man or woman, commences with $100 and rises to $208. In the gymnasiums and secondary schools many of the professors are married women, who also form a considerable proportion of the private teachers in the universities. The municipal council of Copenhagen has several women members.

In brief, in Denmark it is the rule rather than the exception for the married woman to be economically independent through her own labors.—London Spectator.

WATCHING WATER FREEZE.

An Easy Way to Make the Growth of Ice Crystals Visible.

It is not commonly known that fresh water may sometimes be "colder than ice" and that the growth of ice crystals may be made plainly visible. An interesting experiment to show this may easily be made.

Fill a clean pint bottle with distilled water. Make a hole in the stopper large enough to let the thermometer pass through it. The kind of thermometer used in physical laboratories is most convenient. Insert the stopper in the bottle and let the thermometer reach nearly to the bottom.

Pack snow or ice and salt round the bottle as you would pack an ice cream freezer. If the bottle is not jarred the temperature may be seen to drop several degrees below the freezing point without freezing the water.

If the stopper and thermometer are now removed and a small piece of ice free from any trace of salt is inserted in the bottle and pushed down into the water crystals of ice may be seen to shoot out in all directions from it.

After this experiment has been tried you will have some understanding of the network of ice glaciers which is beneath the ice coating of small ponds.—London Telegraph.

Thackeray at the Minstrels.

When the Christy minstrels came to London in 1857 Thackeray was enchanted with them. "I heard not long since," he says in one of his letters, "a minstrel who performed a negro ballad that, I confess, astonished these spectacles in a most unexpected manner. I have gazed on thousands of tragedy queens dying on the stage and exclaiming in appropriate blank verse, and I never wanted to wipe them. They have looked up, he said, at many scores of clergymen without being dimmed, and behold, a vagabond, with a corked face and a banjo, sings a little song and strikes a wild note which sets the heart thrilling with happy pity." Glad stone, too, was an admirer of the Christy minstrels and was often to be seen listening to their songs with rapt attention.—London Chronicle.

Almanacs.

Almanacs were not allowed in the hands of the common people of Rome until about 300 B. C. Until that time all knowledge of the calendar was entirely in the custody of the priests. Did one wish to know the date of a feast day, the hours of the sun's rising or setting or when there would be a new moon he must consult the priest, as these occult laws were only to be revealed by him. But one day a presumptuous layman named Flavius, secretary of Appian Claudius, obtained access to the documents or by repeatedly consulting the priests. He engraved his records on white tablets and exhibited them openly in the forum and so became the publisher of the first almanac.—Harper's.

Our Dying Sun.

The time will most surely come when the sun will have ceased to throw off light and heat. Long before that happens, however, the earth and other planets will have become "dead worlds," like the moon—no life of any sort upon them. It has been calculated that the sun will cease to throw out its heat somewhere about 7,000,000 years from now.—New York American.

Conclusive.

Magistrate—And what was the prisoner doing? Constable—E were 'avin' a very eated argument with a cab driver, yer worship. Magistrate—But that doesn't prove he was drunk. Constable—Ah, but there weren't no cab driver there, yer worship.—London Opinion.

Her Intent.

"That dressmaker's model always wears a long wrap when she goes out."

"Hers is evidently a sinister motive. She wants to cloak her designs."—Baltimore American.
