The St. Patrick's Day entertainment and dance in Chown's Hall, last Monday night, was a very enjoyable and successful affair, in spite of the fact that it was hastily arranged and that it was necessary to cut out part of the entertainment on account of not having sufficient time or opportunity for "dress rehearsals." However, all acquitted themselves very creditably.

We understand that the entertainment given at Ortley on Wednesday evening was a great success and efforts are being made to induce the Ortley Dramatic Company to put their play on in the Mosier opera house in the near future. More Houses Wanted

There is urgent need of more houses in Mosier. There are frequent calls for five or six room cottages with modern conveniences, and as we have before remarked, it would be a good investment if such houses were built on some of the vacant lots in town on which taxes are being paid, but which are bringing in no revenue.

Church of Christ Notes

Our subject for next Lordsday morning will be "Christ, Our Pattern," and the evening subject will be "What think ye of Christ?" Come and hear these sermons.

Some people do not want to hear a sermon if it makes them feel uncomfortable. Such people, it makes no difference what kind of a life they live, want to be patted on the back and told that they are just as good as a true, conscientious Christian. Don't expect us to pat you. If you do that which is wrong, you are a sinner in God's sight, whether you are dressed in rags or silk, live in a hovel or a mansion. You can go to perdition just as quickly in silk from a mansion as in rags from a hovel. God is no respecter of persons, but is of character.

For the triumph of truth, H. CAMPBELL CLARK, Minister.

John Wellberg, who is cooking for the crew of railroad men who are making the big fills on the trestles across the river, spent Wednesday here with his family.

Mrs. Wm. Hudson left the latter part of last week for her old home in Iowa, where she will remain several months keeping house for and taking care of an invalid sister.

Don Littlepage left the first of the week for Corbett, when he will stay this Spring and take care of his father's farm.

DRESSING FOR ROYALTY.

The Proper Case When One is Invited to Windsor Castle.

Those who are invited to spend a few days with the king at Windsor are sometimes apt to be rather overcome by the grandeur they find, and an excess of shyness, something like stage fright, is in some cases the inevitable accompaniment of the first evening at the castle.

In Queen Victoria's time guests were bidden only to "dine and sleep." Therefore all they saw of their royal hostess was comprised in a few moments' conversation in the drawing room after dinner unless they happened to be near the queen at the dinner table.

This is all altered now. Guests are bidden to stop two or three days and consequently see much more of the king and queen than in former times. The question of dress always is a great problem with the ladies "commanded" to Windsor castle, for, instead of acquiring only one smart evening toilet and suitable jewels for a "dine and sleep" visit of one night, quite an outfit must be laid in for three or four days' stay. No particular dress is required on arrival, as guests are shown at once to their rooms, but next morning it is necessary to appear rather smartly dressed for breakfast, which is quite a formal meal at the castle.

Then another change of toilet is required when the time comes to join the shooters at luncheon and yet another on returning to the castle for 5 o'clock tea. Every night, too, a different toilet must be worn, suitable to the royal surroundings and proportionately expensive.—London Answers.
