GOVERNOR WEST INVADERS THE DALLES WITH MILITIA

That The Dalles never was in as good condition morally and that there was not the slightest reason or excuse for Governor West's interference in that city, is the broadest consensus of opinion as the result of the governor's grand-stand and notoriety-seeking methods which he pursued in closing the two local houses of prostitution Saturday night and then going there Sunday with a detachment of state militia.

West sent special agents to The Dalles over a week ago, without consulting any of the local officials. They took Truant Officer M. Remington into their confidence and he worked with them. After they had gathered evidence the governor ordered the resorts closed Saturday night.

May Sullivan and Gladys Desmond, the two landladies, and Charles Carroll, millwright for the Wasco-Warehouse Milling company, are the only ones of the 36 prisoners who were taken into custody that will be prosecuted. The women will be held on charges of conducting bawdy houses, selling liquor without licenses and white slavery. Carroll is to be accused of living off the earnings of a prostitute.

Governor West told a Chronicle representative that he has no desire to prosecute any of the girls caught in the raid or the so-called "guests." He said his only desire was to close the houses and prosecute the landladies and "macques."

The Dalles never was in such a fever of excitement and much indignation among citizens generally. Even strong political followers are criticizing his move. The universal opinion is that if West wanted the two houses, which are isolated, closed, he should have ordered Sheriff Chrisman to act, and that the sheriff would have obeyed his orders immediately. Not a single request has ever been made to local officials to close the two disorderly houses, they say.—The Dalles Chronicle.

THE DALLES, Or., June 3.—(Special.)—Governor West's vice crusade at The Dalles exploded Tuesday night when the grand jury refused to indict May Sullivan and Gladys Desmond, whose places were raided Saturday night, on anything more than police court charges. Charles Carroll, who was charged with being a hanger-on at a disorderly resort, was indicted on a simple vagrancy charge.

The 13 women arrested as witnesses in the raid have been released. Carroll is out on $100 bond and the two alleged proprietors of the resorts are free on $300 bond.

Sheriff Chrisman says he will comply with the Governor's orders and keep the resorts closed.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

On next Sunday the Immanuel church will observe the second anniversary of the federation by service which will extend through the entire day. Visiting friends are expected from Hood River, the federated church of Odell and the Greenwood Sunday School plan, to be present in a body.

At the morning worship there will be a number of special musical selections and Mr. Hargraves will preach. Following the service a basket dinner will be served, and at 1:30 the congregation will re-assemble for an open meeting in which several will have a part. In the evening the Sunday School will render the exercises of Children's Day.

A grand day is anticipated and all interested in the movement which the church stands, are cordially invited to take a part in it.

THE FIRST OREGON NEWSPAPER CONFERENCE

The following is a part of the brief report of the First Oregon Newspaper Conference, which was held at the University of Oregon in Eugene, May 17, 1913:

Immediately preceding the newspapermen's conference was the University luncheon in the Men's Gymnasium, at which 500 sat down to the tables at one time, and were served with a hearty meal by young women students of the University. From time to time different student glee clubs, men's and women's, burst into song in different parts of the big room, sometimes hidden away in one of the galleries, sometimes here and there at the sides of the room, always evoking applause and encores, especially the young ladies.

The meeting started with a presentation by the department of Journalism of the Cost-Finding System worked out by the United Typothetae for small shops, and this was followed by Frank Jenkins, editor of the Eugene Register, who told of the missionary work done by the local division of the State Press Association in encouraging an attempt in all shops to find costs accurately.

A. H. Harris, editor of the Portland Labor Press, related his experiences in conducting several country newspapers and the paper he runs at present. He was inclined to think the actual cost of advertising in the average country paper was between 12 and 15 cents. Because he believed the country editor was the most poorly paid of all men, he said, he had quit that field.

While Mr. Harris was talking, Mr. Sanderson, of the Freewater Times, came into the room, and after hearing some of Mr. Harris' remarks, shook his head vigorously at some of the things Mr. Harris said, for he believes after five years' experience that the country editor is the happiest and most fortunate of men, can make more money with less capital and worry than anybody else, can have more fun doing it, and can be more of a power for good in the community than all the clergymen and other leading citizens put together.

Mr. Sanderson was pastor of the largest Presbyterian church in Canada. On his forty-fifth birthday he took stock and decided that the calls on a minister's income would always absorb his entire salary, however large, and that he must now begin to lay by for old age. "I decided to get

ROCK CRUSHING PLANT TO LOCATE NEAR MOSIER

An engineer and crew of men have been at work in this vicinity for some time, looking for a location for a rock crusher. The bluff on the Chatfield place, just east of the tunnel was at first chosen, as the old road bed of the O-W R. & N. was so situated as to make but little grading necessary for side tracks. Some "hitch" occurred after the preliminary work had been done, and the deal fell through.

The Rock Creek proposition was the next one taken up, and while conditions were not as favorable in some ways, the deal was consummated and work will commence at an early date.

Prospect holes have been sunk to determine the depth of the rock, and while there is not the amount that one would suppose by a casual observation, still there is sufficient to keep a crusher busy for several years. The property has been leased for a period of five years, with the privilege of renewing the lease if desired.

Surveys for a side track 1200 feet long, have been made and grade stakes set. The siding will run up the east side of Rock Creek.

The plant will be one of the largest on the Coast, and will be operated by electricity throughout. It will have a capacity of about 35 cars a day and will employ about 20 men. The Pacific Bridge Company is at the head of the deal.

The rock will be used for ballasting the double track between The Dalles and Portland, and also for construction work wherever crushed rock is needed.

rich," said Mr. Sanderson, "and I decided the country newspaper offered the best opportunity." In five years since he began without any experience whatever, he has laid aside between $15,000 and $20,000, has entirely replaced his original plant with modern equipment and has supported and educated his children.

Yours fraternally,
ERIC W. ALLEN.
