TAKES OFF DANDRUFF, HAIR STOPS FALLING

Save your Hair! Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine right now—Also stops itching scalp.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store. You surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Save your hair! Try it!

Jackrabbit Stops Fast Train.

How a jackrabbit stopped the crack Great Northern passenger train was related to a Spokane reporter by H. H. Dean, 319 South avenue, Hillyard, Wash., the engineer who stood at the throttle when the incident occurred. Here is the engineer's own version of the affair: "We were coming through Naylor, 130 miles west of Spokane, at 5:30 o'clock p. m., when the accident occurred," declares Mr. Dean. "We were bowling along about 60 miles an hour, pulling our full complement of coaches, when I saw a jackrabbit coming toward us full speed in the middle of the track. The animal evidently was confused by the brilliant glare from the electric headlight and made no effort to get out of the way. Just before we struck him he stopped and crouched down, and after the engine pilot passed over him the airbrakes began to work and the train came to a sudden stop, the air register showing the brakes set on the emergency. The fireman and I got out to investigate, and found that the airhose had been uncoupled between the engine and tender. There were bloodstains and pieces of fur on the coupling, and it was evident that the body of the rabbit had been thrown against the hose with sufficient force to break the connections. While we were connecting the hose again the conductor came running up to discover the cause of the sudden stop, and when I told him we had run over a jackrabbit he thought I was 'kidding' him and got mad. He was from Missouri and we had to show him the stains on the coupling before he would be convinced. We were delayed but two or three minutes, and no one was injured by the sudden stop."

Finnigan's Rival.

A few years ago Engineer Donahue of the Missouri Pacific had a breakdown to his engine on the Kickapoo grade. He went to the telegraph office and sent the master mechanic, W. T. Hume, the following message, in which, to our notion, the famous "off again, on again" message of Finnigan is clearly outclassed:

"Mr. New:

VILLA ORDERS SPANIARDS OUT

Establishes Military Dictatorship in City of Chihuahua.

Millions of Property Seized and Tribute Demanded—Leader Illiterate and Arbitrary.

El Paso, Tex.—Americans, Germans and Spaniards, who arrived from Chihuahua, Mex., report that Francisco Villa, the rebel leader, virtually had constituted himself dictator there and that he refused to heed the requests of representatives of foreign governments.

They asserted that the rebel leader had seized $5,000,000 worth of property belonging to foreigners; had put to death about twenty Mexican civilians, including Sergeic Sanchez, a lawyer and former state official, and had commanded the American, German and British consuls to obey rebel orders.

The happenings in Chihuahua since Villa occupied the city on its evacuation by Federal troops, as given by the refugees, who numbered 1000, were:

Villa seized a large department store valued at $1,500,000 and owned by French, German, English and Spanish interests, but chiefly Spanish, and placed in command of the store General Chao, a rebel leader.

He also seized a brewery, a clothing factory and all the grocery and other stores owned by Spaniards, valued at $3,500,000. He called a meeting and told them they must pay him sums of money, aggregating several million dollars, to support the revolution. He gave orders that the so-called Constitutionalist money should be accepted as currency.

Villa's expulsion of citizens of Spain, all of whom were progressive merchants, was on pain of death. At first he informed them they must be out of the country in five days, but later after an appeal to Harry Scobell, the British consul, he exended that time to ten days. The Spaniards were not allowed to take anything except personal effects and were told never to return.

Wallace, Idaho, Postoffice Robbed of $17,100 Cash

Wallace, Idaho—Without leaving so much as a finger print as a clew, burglars early Sunday morning robbed the local postoffice of a little more than $17,000 and apparently made good their escape. The robbery was committed sometime between 1:30 and 6 o'clock in the morning.

The registered mail on the Spokane train contained three $5000 registered packages, consigned from the Old National Bank of Spokane, to the First National Bank of Mullan. The money was forwarded in order that the local institutions might be able to handle the pay checks of the Morning, Gold Hunter, Snow Storm and other mines of the Mullan district, which pay their employes on the 15th.

Suffragists Votes Not Purified By Lime

New York — Senator Helen King Robinson, of Colorado, told those who attended a tea of the Women's Political Union Monday that to deprive the women of the vote was like putting a cat in a bag. She said it was hard on the cat, but harder on the bag.

She also said that some time ago she heard a distinguished anti-suffragist argue that because there is only 5 per cent of lime in women and 7 per cent of it in man, nature evidently had intended that the right of suffrage was not for the female of the species. Some time later, said the senator, she learned that lions have 2 per cent of lime and that chickens have 10 per cent.

Feudist's Secret Kept.

Chicago — A feud which began in Sicily 20 years ago claimed a victim here Sunday. Mike Laporta was called to the door of his home by shouts that his brother a dying. As he stepped out he was attacked by three men and stabbed in 20 places.

Antonio Laporta, brother of the murdered man, said he knew who had killed Mike, but he refused to give their names to the police, saying:

"It is my affair; I will find them."

Antonio admitted that his brother had been killed as a result of a feud.

"He was not the first," he said. "He will not be the last."

War Veteran Mason Dies.

San Francisco—Colonel A. Andrews, the oldest commissioned officer of the civil war, as well as the oldest Mason in California, died here in his ninetieth year. He was a veteran of the Mexican war. He was born in London, but came to this country as a boy. He was in Louisville when the Mexican war broke out and was elected an officer of the Second regiment of Kentucky volunteers. He came out of the war a captain, and then came to California, where he started in the jewelry business in Sacramento.

Trains Collide in Fog.

Fresno, Cal.—Twelve persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, when the northbound Santa Fe passenger limited crashed into the rear end of another northbound passenger train 20 miles north of here. The injured included eight passengers and four railway employes. Just where responsibility for the accident, which occurred at a siding after an accident to another train, should be placed has not been determined. A heavy fog is supposed to have concealed the light of the lookout brakeman.

FIGHT STOPS AT ADMIRAL'S WORD

U. S. Gunboat Threatens to Fire On Combatants.

Foreigners at Tampico Ordered to Congregate at Shore—Rebels Repairing Railroads.

Mexico City.—Rear Admiral Fletcher, commander of the American naval force in Mexican waters, Saturday ordered the rebels and federals fighting at Tampico to cease firing, threatening to open up on them with the guns of the gunboat Wheeling if his orders were not obeyed. The order was complied with.

This information is contained in a dispatch received by Sir Lionel Carden, the British ambassador, from Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Craddock, of the British cruiser Berwick, which is lying off Tampico.

The federals hold the center of the town of Tampico and the water front. Rear Admiral Fletcher ordered foreigners to take refuge on board ships or to congregate on the water front, where they would be under the protection of his guns.

How many rebels are engaged in the attack on Tampico is not known, but it is estimated that their number is at least twice that of the federals and their operations indicate that they expect more men from Victoria, capital of the state of Tamaulipas, which lies half way between Tampico and Monterey.

The rebels, who are in posesssion of the railroad yards and shops and large stores of material and equipment, have detached from their lines sufficient men to undertake repairing the railroad north and west from Tampico toward Victoria. The damage that has been done this line, while enough to prevent the operation of trains, is not so great that it will long delay a resumption of traffic. Most of the destroyed bridges are small and can be easily repaired.

Repairs to the roads southward from Victoria also are being rushed, and it is not improbable that the rebels will be able to transport fresh troops and additional artillery supplies in time to use them at Tampico before the government can send reinforcements to the port.

STOLEN "MONA LISA" IS RECOVERED IN ITALY

Florence, Italy — "Mona Lisa," Leonardo da Vinci's great painting, which was stolen from the Louvre in Paris more than two years ago, has been found. It is now in the hands of the Italian authorities and will be returned to France.

"Mona Lisa," or "La Joconde," as it is more popularly known, the most celebrated portrait of a woman ever painted, has been the object of exhaustive search in all quarters of the globe. The mystery of its abstraction from the Louvre, its great intrinsic value and the strange fascination of the smile of the woman it portrayed—a model, Lisa del Giocondo, the wife of a wealthy Florentine—have combined to keep alive interest in its recovery.

California Student Hits High Cost of Living

San Francisco — By discovering chemical secrets through which a suit of clothes can be made to hold the gloss of newness twice as long as the merchant bargains for, Miss Margaret Harvey, chemistry expert, has scored a blow against the high cost of living second only to the introduction of the penny.

Self-exiled in a stuffy laboratory at the University of California for months, Miss Harvey, whose home is in San Jose, since she received her diploma in June, 1913, has been laboring with the problem of fast colors for cloth.

Now she announces that she has been so successful that the whole problem of clothes will be made easier for mother and father and the kids, for she has discovered the mysteries of fast colors that "absolutely will not fade in the sun."

After disposing of her dye processes Miss Harvey plans to tackle the bugaboo of housekeepers, dish washing, in a studious manner, with the end in view of making the after-dinner cleanup a pleasure instead of a pain.

Fort McHenry Is Burned.

Baltimore—Fire, fanned by a high wind, for a time threatened to devastate historical Fort McHenry, birthplace of "The Star Spangled Banner." Burning grass ignited the administration building, and the officers' quarters and barracks were endangered. Before the fire was extinguished three rooms were wrecked. Fort McHenry has been a deserted post for some time. Caretakers set fire to an accumulation of dead grass on the lawn. A wind carried sparks against the building.

Advice Given to Women.

Vancouver, Wash.—"If the women of the clubs of the cities would raise more chickens and attend fewer clubs meetings the price of eggs would not be so high," declared Harry H. Collier, judge of the fourth annual Clarke County Chicken Show, held recently in this city. "The high price of eggs is not artificial, as many of our women friends believe. I look for the best year yet in poultry for 1913. Now is the time to start to raise poultry, and there is big money in it if carried on right."

It Won't Work.

"Pierpont Morgan," said a western congressman, "splendidly enlightened the money trust committee on the subject of credit when he said that, no matter how many billions of credit a man might have today, he'd lose it all tomorrow if he did a single wrong deed.

"Mr. Morgan declared afterward to me personally that credit depended altogether on integrity, and a man who tried to do wrong and at the same time maintain his credit was as silly as the Hartford schoolboy.

"This boy and some friends he explained, wanted to get in to a baseball game, but they had no money. How to cheat the gateman? They could think of no scheme. For a long while they were hopeless. Then suddenly the boy in question exclaimed, in a delighted voice:

Keeping the Body in Repair

Nature intended that the body should do its own repairing—and it would do so were it not for the fact that most of us live other than a natural life.

Nature didn't intend that we should wear corsets, tight collars or shoes, nor live in badly ventilated and draughty houses, nor eat and drink some of the things that we do, nor ride in street cars when we should walk.

The consequence is that the body when it gets out of order must look for outside help to make the necessary repairs.

Looking Far Ahead.

That the lawyer builds largely on the future was demonstrated the other night by a story told by Congressman Byron P. Harrison, of Mississippi.

Some time ago, so related the congressman, a handsome young woman entered the office of a prominent lawyer. Immediately the legal one rose to greet her.

"I am glad to tell you, Miss Smith," he pleasantly remarked, "that your breach of promise suit has been settled. The defendant has expressed a desire to compromise the case by marrying you."

"I am very glad to hear that," was the smiling response of Miss Smith. "It is much better than taking a chance on losing the verdict. You have managed the case very well. How much do I owe you?"

"Let me see," thoughtfully mused the lawyer. "Shall we say $100?"

"We shall not!" was the emphatic rejoinder of the fair plaintiff. "It is entirely too much."

"Well, then, I will tell you what I will do, Miss Smith," responded the lawyer. "I will just cut that bill in half if you will promise to retain me as your counsel when you sue for a divorce."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The women of early days possessed bronze bodkins made like those of our time, and in their toilet they employed small tweezers of a pattern that has not altered in 2000 years. To retain the hair in a desired fashion they had not, it is true, hit on the idea of bending a wire double, but they did employ for this purpose straight bronze pins exactly like the modern hatpin, and showing a big spherical head.

Strabismus.

The judge had the misfortune of being crosseyed and the result at times was rather amusing. One day he had three prisoners before him.

"What's your name?" he inquired of the one to the left.

"James Peterson," promptly replied the man on the right.

The man on the bench turned around quickly. "I was not addressing you, sir!" he snapped.

At this the one in the center, quaking and trembling with fear, stammered:

"I—I never opened my mouth sir."—The Wash.

Many a rheumatic sufferer has been to the drug store for a bottle of S. S. S. and been handed something claimed to be "Just as good." Truly, to ask for bread and be given a stone is still in practice. If you are troubled with rheumatism in any form be sure to use S. S. S. and note its wonderful influence.

S. S. S. has the peculiar action of soaking through the intestines directly into the blood. In five minutes its influence is at work in every artery, vein and tiny capillary. Every membrane, every organ of the body, every emunctory becomes in effect a filter for the blood of impurities. The stimulating properties of S. S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, kidneys, bladder to all work to the one end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflicting atom of poison; it dislodges by irrigation all accumulations in the joints, causes acid accretions to disolve, renders them neutral and scatters those peculiar formations in the nerve centers that cause such mystifying and often baffling rheumatic pains.

And best of all this remarkable remedy is welcome to the weakest stomach. If you have drugged yourself until your stomach is nearly paralyzed, you will be astonished to find that S. S. S. gives no sensation but goes right to work. This is because it is a pure vegetable infusion, is taken naturally into your blood just as pure air is inhaled naturally into your lungs.
