CROP SURVEY IS MADE

O.-W. R. & N. Officials Look for Increased Grain Next Season.

Following a survey of the crop situation in the grain belt east of the Cascade Mountains tributary to its lines, the O.-W. R. & N. Traffic Department finds need for advising farmers as to how to proceed with planting. The unfavorable season, so far, for Fall sown grain gives point to the suggestions.

Traffic Manager Miller and "Farmer" Smith have gone over the situation carefully and they believe that in view of the high price for cereals of all kinds and the probability of heavy demand the coming season, wheatgrowers will get best results if they follow the course outlined.

"There are two situations confronting the farmer," says Mr. Miller. One is the possible necessity for reseeding in the Spring and the other is the advisability of Spring seeding of land that otherwise would be in Summer fallow. All indications point to the fact that the year 1915 will see a demand for all forms of cereals in excess of the supply, and therefore it is probable we will have the largest acreage of Fall and Spring sown grain in the history of the Northwest.

"Farmers who have retained enough seed for either reseeding in the Spring or Spring seeding in Summer fallow are fortunate considering the present price of wheat.

"The exceptionally high price for wheat will mean correspondingly high prices for all classes of feed, and farmers should grow as much corn as possible, as with proper selected seed and careful tillage of the ground, corn will produce more stock feed than any other plant, and it has been demonstrated that with acclimated seed, corn can be grown successfully in all parts of the Pacific Northwest."

SOME RECORD

The newspaper has made presidents, killed poets; made bustles for beauties and punished genius with criticism. It has curtailed the power of kings, converted bankers into paupers and graced pantry shelves. It has made paupers college presidents, it has educated the poor and robbed the philosopher of his reason; it smiles, cries, dies, but it can't be run to suit everybody, and the man will be crazy who tries.

The situation in Baker county in regard to rabies is growing serious. Not only dogs, but cattle are being bitten by mad coyotes, and nine cows on one farm have had to be shot as a result.

SING A SONG OF 'BUSINESS

Suppose we hadn't ever heard about this blooming war; suppose the cables had been cut that run from shore to shore; suppose that England, Germany, Russia and Japan and France had cut the cables off before the war began; suppose we never heard a word of shot and shell and flame—we guess the great United States could go on just the same.

We're big enough and strong enough and have enough of crop. We need the stuff the farmers raise, the farmers need the shops. If Europe wants to scrap around and spend its cash in hand; if Europe wants to make itself look like cut-over land, then we should worry quite a lot about the fighting game—we guess the great United States can go on just the same.

So let's forget about the war, the battles and the bombs, and keep on doing business here until the tempest calms. Instead of shipping stuff to France, to Germany or Rome, we'll make the stuff our people need and sell it here at home. We'll sow and reap, we'll make and sell, and fortune win and fame—we'll prove the great United States can go on just the same.—American Lumberman.

TO OUR LOCAL READERS

It is a great misfortune that newspaper men are not omniscient and omnipresent. These are two qualities very much needed by the editor if he would publish a local paper that would please everybody in the matter of local news. It would be impossible to please everyone at all times or any of the time. Whatever is said or left unsaid, someone is displeased. We can't help it, being only mortal as are our critics, and lacking the aforesaid qualities.

One subscriber will complain that the paper doesn't get all the news items from his locality. Another says he didn't see anything in the paper about a party at his neighbor's house. No, he probably did not. And why not? Simply because he or his neighbor didn't take the trouble, or think to send in the news items of his neighborhood. We are well aware that a weekly resume of the happenings of various districts about Mosier makes the paper more interesting to our subscribers and their neighbors who don't subscribe but who borrow the Bulletin every week, sometimes before the owner has read it. And that is just what we would like to have each week—a correspondent in every school district in the country, giving all the local news about the schools, public meetings, road and other improvements, prospects for farm crops, the parties in the neighborhood etc. These things are interesting to the persons directly concerned and are also of general interest.

But, as the unfortunate editor can't be in all places at once, and can't see and hear everything that transpires, he naturally misses many things, often things that may be important to the community to publish, unless he is put wise by those who know and could easily drop into the office when in town, or send the items in by mail.

Most communities recognize the impossibility of an editor, who hasn't a corps of reporters to run down news for him, to get all the local items of interest, and they usually take enough interest in the paper to jot down items as they hear them, and send them in. We state now, as we have stated many times before, that we will be only too glad if our subscribers would do this, and help make the paper more readable. We will gladly furnish stationery and stamps for the purpose. Let This SOAK IN.

WENATCHEE DIRECTORS ENDORSE DISTRIBUTORS

A strong endorsement of the North Pacific Fruit Distributors will form the basis of the report which F. L. Presnell of Cashmere and Ben F. Smith of Chelan, directors of the Wenatchee North Central Fruit Distributors, will make to the growers affiliated with that association, after having thoroughly investigated the sales methods and inspected the records of the central selling agency. Messrs. Presnell and Smith spent a part of this week at the Distributor's main office in Spokane.

"We believe," said Mr. Presnell, "that the Distributors embody not only the idea and form, but also the actual operation of the cooperative plan which the fruit growers of the northwest are seeking as the solution of their problem.

"The tendency of many growers after a disastrous marketing season is to try some new experiment, when perhaps their full support of an existing institution would provide the most efficient remedy.

"The absolutely dependable management and information which the growers affiliated with the Distributors have at the market end, coupled with the efficient system at the shipping end, is the most tangible protection for the growers that could be provided.

"This year the Distributor's local association at Cashmere shipped approximately 300 cars as compared with 78 last season handled directly by sub-central organization. This was the first year for the local organization, and a decidedly substantial increase is anticipated for next season. A like condition will undoubtedly hold true for the rest of the Wenatchee valley."

THAT SINFUL PRINTER

Unobserved and unannounced the president of a Church Society entered the composing room just in time to hear these words issue from the mouth of the boss printer:

"Billy, go to the devil and tell him to finish that 'murder' he began this morning. Then 'kill William J. Bryan's Youngest Grandchild,' and dump the 'Sweet Angel of Mercy' into the hellbox. Then make up that 'Naughty Parisian Actress' and lock up 'The Lady in Her Boudoir.'"

Horrified the good woman fled from that place of sin, and now her children wonder why they are not allowed to play with the printer's youngster.

GOES TO HONG KONG

L. Dunbar, of Portland who is a partner of K. L. Cooper in a fruit ranch south of town, will leave today for Hong Kong, China, where he will engage in the importing business. His family will join him in the Fall.

Springtime and Gardens

Now that Spring is near, the thoughts turn to cleaning up the refuse in the yard accumulated over winter, and making gardens. Even the housewife in town, with only a few square feet of soil in the yard, gets the fever to have a garden and figures on how many varieties of seeds she can plant in the limited space and how much "garden sass" she can raise to supply the table. Then she gives "hubby" no rest until the garden is properly dug up, fertilized and planted.

But the garden must be tended, weeds must be kept down and this means constant work; it must be cultivated and watered.

Eternal vigilance in keeping stray hens out is the price of a good garden, provided every thing else has been properly attended to. And when the season is over and the "old-man" balances his "farming" accounts, he generally finds that the little 2 x 4 garden has cost several times more, in time and labor, at least, than the vegetables would cost to buy. But think of the pleasure of seeing and eating things that you have grown yourself! It gets every one every year, and we will all try it again this season.
