J. M. Elliott returned Wednesday night from a visit to Portland on the steamer Tahoma. A week ago he went down on this boat and stated that the day was perfect and the trip ideal.

Halloween pranks did not result in any serious damage this year. Some of the boys stayed up until a late hour but were satisfied with doing a few little stunts.

Miss Georgia Fisher returned on Wednesday from Hood River where she has been here for several days. Her sister, Mrs. H. W. Winkler, whom she has been visiting, accompanied her to Mosier for a visit.

Miss Alice Shogren was hostess at a Halloween party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Shogren, for a number of her young friends. Games were played followed by light refreshments. Those present were Nellie Higley, Bob Fisher, Alice Shogren, Carroll Cole, Frank Procter and Roland Depe.

L. Lamb returned to Mosier yesterday on the early morning train after a month's absence. He spent three weeks at the home of his sister, Mrs. G. W. Millerson, in Polson, Montana, and visited the past week at the home of another sister, Mrs. A. J. Knight, at Dayton, Wash.

A petition has been presented to the school board by the pupils of Dist. No. 52 asking for the erection of a covered playground. The matter will be discussed informally at the special school meeting on November 13, and it is desired that representative taxpayers of the district be present and voice their opinion on the subject.

F. G. Patterson, who was employed by J. N. Mosier on the bottom land below the railway track where extensive gardening was carried on and where several head of hogs are penned up, is now located in the Hood River valley in the vicinity of Pine Grove, where he has leased a few acres of land. Mrs. Patterson and children left Monday for their new home.

J. P. Tryon received a wild goose by parcel post Tuesday morning, which had been shot by John Wellberg, who is now located at Blalock, Or., where he has been acting as cook on the big Smith ranch. Mr. Tryon stated that he has killed all kinds of game, but that he never killed a goose, and was glad to get a taste of this wild game meat.

J. K. McGregor came down from The Dalles Wednesday on a short business trip. Mrs. McGregor, who remained in The Dalles, has just returned with her husband from a motor trip of nearly a month to Prineville and other eastern Oregon cities. They expect to remain in The Dalles for a few days' visit before going to Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Cask, of Wyeth, visited for several days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. E. Carlson. Mr. Cask, who is now retired, was formerly located at Mosier, and for a number of years had been in the employ of the O.-W. R. & N. Co. as road watchman.

H. M. Seacree returned Tuesday from an extended business trip through Washington, stopping at all the larger cities. He will remain for some time looking after his orchard interests, which are now in charge of W. L. Roland. Mr. Seacree is managing the orchard tract owned by Prof. J. E. Stasmusen, of Lincoln, Neb.

L. J. Merrill left Tuesday night for Des Moines, Iowa, where he will visit with his parents. He will also make short visits in other middle western cities, returning in about two weeks.

L. M. Baldwin, who is connected with the First National bank at Hood River, has taken his place as cashier of the Mosier Valley bank during his absence.

Miss Anne Shogren and her friend, Miss Kate Wintler, expect to leave today for their homes in Portland and Vancouver, Wash., respectively, after spending several weeks at the M. & A. Shogren ranch. Little Miss Elizabeth Shogren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Shogren, will accompany them to Portland, returning Saturday night with her sister, Miss Marie Shogren, who will spend the week end with her parents.

Honor Roll

With the purpose of organizing the Brotherhood of American Yeomen Lodge, D. G. Copple, accompanied by Mrs. Copple and children, Delbert, Maude, Lawrence and Gladys, arrived Monday from Heppner and will make their home in the house owned by Mrs. V. C. Young. Mr. Copple has many acquaintances here, having been here five years ago, when he conducted a restaurant. He will make his headquarters in Mosier, and will attempt to organize lodges in Hood River and The Dalles as well as here. He stated that he has been the organizer of good strong lodges in Heppner and Lexington, Oregon.

Grange Fair on Saturday

On Saturday, November 6, the local Grange will hold a fair in Lamb's hall to which all the people of Mosier Valley are invited to come with exhibits. There will be an open session in the afternoon, at which time the exhibits will be examined and awards made. The Grange is anxious to make as large a showing of local products as possible, and extends invitations for everyone to come and bring their lunch.

Duvall-Procter

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Procter, their daughter, Miss Gertrude Procter, was married to Roy Duvall. The ring ceremony was held at 6:30 p. m. on Saturday evening, October 30. The marriage rites were performed by Rev. Fredric J. Stoetzel. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Procter, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Lelliott, Jack Lelliott, and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Taylor. The young people are now at home to their friends in the place owned by Mrs. Frank Page, east of the city.

O.-W. R. & N. PRE-PARES FOR CORN SHOW

(From Hood River Glacier)

The O.-W. R. & N. Co. is making preparations for its annual corn show to be held at Walla Walla, December 2, 3 and 4. J. H. Fredrick states that he will ship free of charge all exhibits that are brought to him packed in boxes or in some other receptacles suitable for shipment without injury to the grain.

Since a large amount of corn of excellent quality has been produced in the northwest the past season, it is expected that a number of exhibits will go forward from Hood River. The O.-W. R. & N. Co. having distributed free seed corn for the past several years, is largely responsible for the increased acreage of this grain.

Entry blanks for the show may be procured from Mr. Fredrick. The rules of the corn show are in part as follows:

All prize winning exhibits to become the property of the company for exhibition and seed purposes.

Entries for all prizes must be accompanied with the name of the exhibitor, the location of the land and character of the soil. Where the term "non-irrigation" is used, the reference is to all lands where the crop production is carried on without artificial use of water. When the prize is for one acre or more, the entry must designate the location, size and shape of plot; also state whether it is a separate plot grown especially for exhibition or experimentation, or is a part of a general field crop. In the latter case state the size of the field and whether it is one acre or more. Ground to be measured and the yield certified to by two or more disinterested parties. This report must also show the character of the soil, kind of fertilizer used, if any, quantity, and time applied; when the land was plowed and how deep; how often tilled and harrowed before planting; late and method of planting; how often watered after planting; how often the crop cultivated; what kind of cultivator used and date of harvesting.

Samples of corn and stalks should be as nearly as practicable a fair average of the crop except where the specification is for field selected ears, in which case the grower is supposed to go over the plot some time previous to harvesting, and mark those stalks containing the earliest maturing ears of good even size growing on strong, well developed stalks. These marked ears are then harvested separately, sorted, and are dried, and from these he may select the 50 or 100 of most perfect ears.

All entries in the acre contests must be accompanied by a statement which will name the varieties of corn, and if the seed was grown on that farm; how many years the variety has been grown on that farm or in that neighborhood, and state the date of planting, the number of minutes in preparation of the ground, planting, cultivating and harvesting. Also the use made of the main crop. Was any part of it cut and fed green? Was any of it hogged off, or eaten off livestock without harvesting? Was any of it cut up and shocked, or was it husked and stalks left standing on the field, or was any of it put in the silo? If so, state the size of silo and number of acres required to harvest the crop and place it in the silo. Was any seed corn saved? If so, how much, and how was it saved?

If you have any seed corn to sell, tell us just how much of each variety.

One person may compete for two or more prizes, but separate exhibits must be made for each entry. Where the prize is offered for one acre or more, a separate plot must be assigned for each entry. Where the prize is given for ears of corn, the corn may come from the acre or more that is in competition for another prize, but a separate exhibit from that required by the acre contest.

SPROUT OPTIMISTIC OVER APPLE DEAL

(From the Hood River Glacier)

"I feel optimistic over the prices that we will receive from the late sales of Hood River apples," says C. H. Sproat, formerly manager of the Apple Growers Union, who has been here this week looking after the harvest of his crop in the Van Horn district. "All indications point to a top price for the extra fancy grade of product." Mr. Sproat, who during the season of 1912 managed the National Apple Company, which the following year sold its storage plant to the Apple Growers Association, except to interest himself in the disposal of his own crop of apples each year, has retired from the apple deal. During his management of the Union local apple prices were soaring, the novelty and excellence of the perfectly packed and well colored fruit at that time sweeping the trade of the larger eastern cities.

All local apple dealers are optimistic. Not since 1910 has there been so "bullish" a feeling about the market. As a usual thing market men have begun at this season of the year to placate affiliated growers by making explanations of the conditions that seem bound to cause poorer returns than will be warranted by prevailing expectations.

FINISHING TOUCHES MADE AT MITCHELL'S

While the Mitchell's Point tunnel and viaduct of the Columbia river highway have been appealing points of the scenic route since the tunnel was opened early in September, the marvelous feats of engineering skill have been greatly enhanced during the past week by the completion of finishing touches. Motorists may now travel through the tunnel at ease, for the sharp-edged rocks left by the contractors as a surface have been covered with earth and sand. The timid may pass over the road's curves, rounding precipitous points, without a qualm of fear; for massive concrete-topped, rubble stone masonry walls guard the outer edges of the road.

The base of the windows of the great tunnel, too, have been spanned by these heavy walls, each with a series of little arched at its bottom. The pedestrian may lean over these parapets, 130 feet above the Columbia, and watch the lapping waters of the river directly beneath him. From the window nearest the east entrance of the tunnel a little trail has been built out around the bluff. None but the more daring ever traveled the bare trail. A protecting wall has now been built at its outer edge and any one may walk out on the face of the great basalt promontory and obtain the magnificent view of the Columbia stretches both to the east and to the west.

The work of finishing up the Mitchell's Point work has been conducted by the State Highway Commission.

KING PIP VIII WILL RULE OVER THE BIG NATIONAL APPLE SHOW

For six days beginning November 15 King Pip will hold high carnival at the eighth National Apple show in Spokane.

In many respects the 1915 apple exhibition will be the greatest in the history of this event. From the standpoint of the northwestern fruit growers' pocketbook it will be the most important apple show ever held, according to Manager Gordon C. Corbaley, who states that plans will be started to enable the northwest to market profitably an apple crop in 1916 which is expected to be more than twice as large as this year's output.

"Next year's marketing problem is the most vitally important question before northwestern apple growers," declares Mr. Corbaley. "The northwest in 1916 will be called on to sell between 18,000 and 22,000 carloads of boxed apples, as against 9,000 cars this year. Our ability to cause the market to absorb an increase of more than 100 per cent depends upon the way we systematize distribution. At the apple show the growers will consider the facts gathered by the Northwest Fruit Growers' council during the 1915 marketing season, and will appoint committees to work out details to permit final and definite action at the annual meeting of the council in January."

The development of the orchard-by-product business, which has been at a standstill since the European war commenced, again is a live subject. The growers' conferences on the last day of the show will be devoted exclusively to that problem.

Chairman Robert H. Kipp of the board of trustees has issued orders to make the 1915 apple show the most beautiful of all, and unusual efforts are being directed toward displaying the northwest's most perfect apples in an inviting manner.

Mr. Kipp promises that there will be something doing every minute of the week for King Pip and his court from all parts of the Inland Empire. Each night a score of Spokane's leading beauties will pose as living models, wearing the latest gowns and hats decreed by Dame Fashion. Classic dances such as the ancient Greeks and Romans enjoyed will be given in the apple auditorium each night by twelve Spokane society girls. The classic dances are enjoying a revival in eastern society circles, and are to be introduced in the northwest for the first time at the apple show.

The big entertainment feature of the afternoons will be a series of baby pageants, somewhat on the order of the baby parades which have been a feature of social life at Astoria Park, N. J., for 25 years.

Afternoon and evening concerts by a noted Italian band, and other popular features will round out the amusement side of the show.

The women's department, which had 1,200 entries of home-made by-products of the apple last year, will be repeated on an enlarged scale, it is announced.

The railroads have granted round trip rates of fare and one-third for this event. The reduction applies to the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana and the province of British Columbia.

ROBERT H. KIPP Chairman National Apple Show. GORDON C. CORBALEY Manager National Apple Show.

I have been to the Expositions and I want to tell you that every man, woman and child who can, by any means, should go. Children of today may again enjoy such an opportunity, but you and I — in the prime of life — never.

World conditions are such as will prohibit similar gatherings during our generation. That is why I say to you — GO! The San Francisco Exposition closes December 4th. There is plenty of time yet to see it, but not more than enough. Now is the best time of the year in California, and of the Exposition season. Therefore GO NOW!
