GOOD ROADS MEETING SATURDAY, NOV. 27

To the Voters of Wasco County: The Wasco County Good Roads association promised the people of Wasco county that as soon as an estimate of the proposed improvement of the trunk lines of Wasco county could be secured that a meeting of representatives of the entire county would be held in The Dalles for the purpose of discussing the amount of the proposed bond issue, and the amount to be apportioned to the different sections of the road.

The estimates have been secured by the county court from the state highway engineer, and the good roads association has set Saturday, November 27, 1915, at 2 p. m., as the time for holding this meeting at the circuit court chambers in the court house, The Dalles.

Every voter of Wasco county is invited to attend this good roads meeting, November 27. It will be impossible for all to be present and the good roads association suggests that any district which can not be represented by a large number, select delegates to represent the district.

The Wasco County Good Roads association is not fostering any private propaganda; it is not representing any one district. It believes that the greatest need of Wasco county is better roads, and it is doing all in its power to bring about such an end, but it does not propose to go ahead with any plan of bonding until it is assumed that a majority of the votes of this county are behind the move. For that reason the November 27 meeting has been called. All districts should be represented and heard and then the association can be advised what to place before the voters for their final decision. Therefore, the association itself hopes to see the largest and most representative meeting of voters that has ever held in Wasco county.

S. Benson, "Oregon's leading citizen," the man who has given hundreds of thousands of dollars for the improvement of Oregon's roads, and who has done so much toward securing state aid for Wasco county's roads; his son, Amos Benson, who is also devoting his time and money to good roads; L. B. Covert, an attorney who is employed by Mr. Benson for no other purpose than to look after road matters—the man who attended to the legal end of the Multnomah county road bonding and whose valuable services have been offered to Wasco county by Mr. Benson without one cent of cost; J. B. Yeon, a retired capitalist of Portland, who is roadmaster of Multnomah county without pay; Rufus Holman, county commissioner of Multnomah county, and many others will attend the November 27 meeting and offer their expert advice.

Be sure to attend this meeting. Wasco County Good Roads Association, By J. L. Kelly, President.

5 MILL TAX VOTED AT SCHOOL MEETING

For the ensuing year a tax levy of five mills, four mills for maintenance and one mill for general purposes, was voted upon by the taxpayers of District No. 52 at the annual school meeting held on Saturday in the schoolhouse. J. M. Carroll made the motion, which was seconded by O. E. Wilson. The school board asked for a seven mill tax, 5 1/2 mills to be used for maintenance and 1 1/2 mills for general purposes. After a discussion of the issue wherein it was shown that the cash on hand was sufficient to run the expenses of the school for the current year with the money to be received from the county district tax, the question was put to a vote, the result being 20 to 1 in favor of the five mill tax. The meeting was very harmonious in every respect. Dr. David Robinson, chairman of the school board, acted as chairman of the meeting, and H. W. Danielson, clerk, acted as secretary.

$2898.20 has been received from the county treasurer from the district tax and $1475.05 from the county school fund. The bank balance on November 1 was $4134.10. The monthly expenses average between $400 and $500.

The question of starting a sinking fund to pay off the $4800 bonded indebtedness came up for discussion, but no action was taken when it was learned that the first bonds do not fall due until 1925.

O. E. Wilson stated that the time had come for the district to build a $10,000 school house on a more suitable site, where level grounds might be obtained.

In order to ascertain the opinion of the taxpayers concerning the building of a playshed for the children to cost approximately $500, a straw ballot was taken resulting in an overwhelming vote in favor of the idea. The board will now order the construction of this building.

APPEAL FOR DEPENDENT CHILDREN

The Boys' and Girls' Aid Society is making its annual appeal to the schools and the public for Thanksgiving contributions of money, food supplies and clothing. For thirty years the Society has been caring for the dependent and neglected children of Oregon, and it should have the generous support of all citizens interested in child welfare.

During the past year, the Society has cared for 491 children in its Receiving Home, and supervised over 500 children, whom it has placed in private homes. Whereas it is the aim of the Society to place the child as quickly as possible in a suitable home, the care of children at the Receiving Home is necessarily a large factor in the work. Such care includes scientific treatment, for over 80 per cent of the children committed are not placeable until physical defects and ailments have been remedied. Until they are placeable children must live in the Receiving Home where everything is done to give them the advantages of normal children. It is in furtherance of this work that the cooperation of public spirited people is sought.

All contributions should be addressed to The Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, Portland, Oregon, and should be shipped over the following railroads, which carry all donations to the society free of charge between November 15 and December 31:

Oregon-Washington R. R. & Nav. Co.; Portland Ry. Light & Power Co.; Southern Pacific; Oregon Short Line; Sumpter Valley R. R. Co.; Central R. R. of Oregon; Dalles, Portland & Astoria Nav. Co.; Spokane, Portland & Seattle Ry.

James E. Sheldon

After a lingering illness, the past six weeks of which he had been confined to his home and bed, James E. Sheldon died Wednesday as a result of internal injuries received about a year ago when a barn door fell upon him. Services were held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the Immanuel church and were conducted by Rev. Fredric J. Stoetzel. The burial rites and services at the grave were conducted by the Oddfellows lodge of which he was a member of the Michigan chapter at the place of his birth.

Born in Lexington, Michigan on May 4, 1847, James E. Sheldon lived there until eight years ago when he came to Portland. Three years ago he came to Mosier, securing a place in the Grand view district. He was a member of the Adventist church and was a man well liked by all who knew him. He is survived by a widow and son, James.

Alring Mattresses.

If you have a flat roof take every mattress in the house up there once a week and leave them in the hot sun for several hours. They will then be fluffy and sweet smelling. It would be well for the pillows and bedding to receive the same treatment.

A mattress will be easier to handle if straps are attached to the sides, and for this purpose pieces of old suspenders are very satisfactory, or straps made from bed ticking. Sew the straps or handles on firmly, two on each side.

BUTLER OUTLINES THE NEW PLANS OF COUNCIL

(From Hood River Glacier)

While the Northwestern Fruit Growers' Council, organized last February at a meeting of fruit growers at Tacoma, Wash., will remain intact, according to Truman Butler, a member of the executive committee of the organization, who returned Thursday from a session at Seattle, it will cease active measures.

"We feel," says Mr. Butler, "that the Growers' Council has justified its existence since it has brought about a co-operation between the shippers of the northwest. The agencies conforming to the principles of the Council are handling 75 per cent of the tonnage of the orchardists of the northwest. However, in the future, we expect to accomplish all of our results from a closer co-operation among the market men, working with an advisory board, composed of a representative business man from each of the cities of Seattle, Spokane and Portland. We will keep the Growers Council intact, as an organization, in order that, in case plans fail to carry, we will have something to fall back on."

According to the plans advanced, a member of the Portland clearing house will be chosen as the Rose City's representative on the apple men's advisory board.

"The magnitude of the fruit business in the northwest," says Mr. Butler, "is not comprehended until one is presented with the amount of the investment involved. A total of $200,000,000 is tied up in orchards and storage machinery in the fruit industry.

"All market men and growers versed in the status of affairs realize the vital necessity of getting a working machine ready for the handling of next year's crop; for it is estimated that the crop of apples from all northwestern districts next year will treble that of this season, when we will market about 6,000 carloads."

By means of a tax of one cent a box on all apples a fund will be raised in 1916 to be used in market extension and market development.

This fund is to be administered by a committee of three leading business men, one from Seattle, one from Portland and one from Spokane, with W. H. Paulhamus, chairman of the Growers' Council, as an ex-officio member. The business men are to be the joint selection of the clearing house associations and chambers of commerce of their respective cities.

This committee will have the advantage of the complete figures on the distribution of the 1916 apple crop now being gathered by the United States office of markets and the benefit of the data and experience of the shippers composing the council.

From these facts they are to prepare and carry into execution a broad plan of market extension and market development that it is hoped will send northwestern boxed apples into many domestic and foreign markets where they are unknown and will greatly increase their sale in domestic markets where they are now little used.

Chairman Paulhamus and a number of the associates of the Growers' Council participated in the several meetings held to work out the marketing plan, and as perfected, the plan has their full indorsement, subject to the approval of the meeting of the entire membership of the Growers' Council, to be held in Spokane this week, at the time of the National apple show.

A joint committee composed of Wilmer Sieg, of the Apple Growers Association of Hood River; W. F. Gwin, of the Northwestern Fruit Exchange, and George W. Coburn, of the Wenatchee Valley Fruit Growers' Association, to represent the Shippers' Council, and W. H. Paulhamus, of Puyallup; Truman Butler, of Hood River, and Gordon C. Corbaley, of Spokane, to represent the Growers' Council, was appointed to present the details of the plan to the respective organizations.

The following Hood River men are attending the Spokane meeting: Wilmer Sieg, E. H. Sheppard, H. C. Ritz and Truman Butler.

APPLE NOTES

A tiny worm found in the last box of Oregon apples examined by the jury of awards at the Panama-Pacific exposition, according to Anne Shannon Munroe, writing in the Oregonian, lost the world's championship for Oregon.

The jury began its work Monday, Nov. 8. Box after box was carried upstairs from every state, and there the arduous work of comparison went on. Every famous apple center in America was represented. Gradually state after state was eliminated until the contest lay between Oregon and Washington. Friday it was a tie; Saturday Oregon was in the lead with a rating of 99 per cent perfect. Saturday afternoon a box was taken at random from each of the two states and the apples were examined and compared apple for apple.

Oregon had all but won when the judge picked up the last Oregon apple, turned it carefully over, and discovered that the bloom end was a shade dark. He adjusted his magnifying glass, then slowly halved the apple; and up peeped the head of a tiny worm. This three Oregon out and Washington was proclaimed the grand prize winner on perfect Winesap from Okanogan. This one worm lost Oregon the grand prize.

Apple exports from all ports for the week ending November 6 were 51,207 barrels against 75,941 barrels the same week a year ago. Boxes are figured in the above at three to the barrel. The actual exports of boxes to Europe were 15,654.
