THREE DAYS FESTIVAL COMING IN MARCH

It is now an assured fact that Mosier will enjoy a festival which will last for three days, containing many splendid features. Guy Young, a representative of the Ellison-White chautauque lecture course, was in this city Saturday and secured the aid of local citizens who agreed to give their support in making the event a big success. The names of 12 citizens were secured on a contract, who guarantee the success of the enterprise.

The Ellison-White company for many years has been successful in the chautauque lecture field throughout the Pacific Coast and the Middle West. It is usual to go to much larger cities than Hood River, putting on a seven day chautauque. During the winter months, however, they are willing to come to the smaller vicinities, and will come to Mosier with a guarantee of 25 season tickets at $1.50 each. This will insure a total of six performances in Chown's hall to be held during the afternoons and evenings. Receipts from paid admissions will be divided into 25 per cent for the local citizens and 75 per cent for the company.

The citizens who have guaranteed the expenses of the undertaking will hold a meeting soon to devise ways and means to dispose of the tickets to all persons in this district. Wherever the Ellison-White company have played before they have earned an excellent reputation. A week before the festival begins a representative who is prepared to give a list of tickets will be sent here by the company to aid in the campaign. Every effort will be made by the company to assure the success of the winter festival, which will probably be held early in March or late in February.

The Mosier district is to be congratulated on receiving the concession, but it will mean that if it is to be a success, all citizens must render their aid.

The features, although not definitely decided upon, will include moving pictures, of an Antarctic expedition to the South Pole, which cost far more to produce than that spectacular film feature, "The Birth of a Nation," a high class Hawaiian quartet, lectures, actors who will stage a first class drama and many others. This chautauque course is usually held under a big tent furnished by the company during the summer months, but to fill in their time will spend three days in Mosier on their circuit.

Club Work Interest Increases

"A greater part of two weeks was spent with Field Worker Marks in visiting schools and evening meetings of pupils and parents in the interest of industrial club work," writes A. H. Chase, county agent. "From the most remote school seven miles above Mosier to Clarno on the John Day is something like 100 miles through Wasco county and making nearly 40 visits and lectures between makes a big circuit. With Superintendent Bonney, visiting schools in another direction it makes our club work campaign for the coming year cover all but a few districts which we expect to reach later. We anticipate increased interest in industrial club work for 1916-1917."

SCHOOL DIST. NO. 52 LEVIES 7 MILL TAX

At the special school meeting of District No. 52 held Saturday afternoon in the school house, it was voted to levy a tax of 7 mills for the coming fiscal year, 1 mill to be used to create a sinking fund and 6 mills to be applied for general school purposes. Two bonds, one for $1800, which may be paid in 1920, and the other for $3000 which may be taken up in 1925, were discussed. E. A. Rice, director, showed by a chart which he had made on the blackboard, that unless a sinking fund is made each year to retire these bonds, that within a few years it will be necessary to levy a special tax for this purpose. The meeting was called to order by G. L. Carroll, chairman of the board of directors, and the call of the meeting was then read by the clerk, Roger W. Moe.

A BOLT OF JUPITER.

It Was Sudden and Sure, and It Saved the Situation.

Jupiter—Oh! Best begin with time and place—namely, the noon hour and an untidy, semigrassy courtyard, the latter bounded upon three sides by decrepit tenement houses and upon the fourth a noisy garage.

Jupiter—Oh! Ladies first! The heroine has the right of way. Her name was Katie Finnegan, and she was as pretty as a heroine ought to be—merry, blue eyes, light, fluffy hair; pink cheeks and saucy tilted nose.

Just—But first, Katie was standing upon the rickety second story gallery at the back of the tenement opposite the garage and was pulling in dry garments that had been undecorating the scene all the morning.

Jupiter—Oh! Katie had a lover—Michael Rafferty of the garage. Michael was tall, good looking—a true son of Erin. He stood at the rear doorway of the garage and, spying Katie, stepped back a bit within the doorway and made a motion which she understood. He then disappeared, but next was seen at the window above the doorway.

Jupiter—but a word about the villains of the story! One was a mischievous boy, teasing a cat in a corner of the courtyard; one a sour faced girl sitting at a lower window and jealous of Katie, one a middle aged woman, the meddling gossip of the tenements, and one the manager of the garage. The manager stood in the spot vacated by Michael.

Jupiter—oh, yes, the plot! Michael attached it to the clothesline at his side of the courtyard. The plot was a folded paper which said:

Dearest Katie—Meet me at our corner tomorrow morning at 7 with your bundle. Father's party is at 8, so you can make the 8:40 train O. K.

YOUR OWN MIKE.

Jupiter—but wait—the tragedy! It happened when Katie had drawn the paper half way across. She jerked too eagerly. Down fluttered the plot wafting slowly, but surely, to the ground. A scream from Katie, a word of strength from Michael, a scramble from the villains, all of whom had witnessed the launching of the plot.

Jupiter—yes, now it is time to introduce the real hero. Mighty Jupiter himself interferred. With that proverbial calmness which is the ancient deity's attribute he reached for the paper which fluttered to his very feet and, regardless of anything so modern as the rules of Fletcher, swallowed it whole! He had saved the day.

Jupiter—ah, yes! No need to hold back that sentence any longer. Jupiter was a goat!—Blanche Elizabeth Wade in New York Post.

LIGHT VOTE CAST AT CITY ELECTION

Probably on account of the snowy and rainy weather, and also because a big majority are well satisfied with the management of municipal affairs, few persons cared to venture out to cast their vote at the city election held Tuesday. A total of only 37 votes were cast.

For the offices of mayor, recorder and treasurer, no opposition was presented. Five candidates were out for councilmen, three to be elected.

Edgar A. Race, P. L. Arthur and Jas. E. Cole were elected to the offices of mayor, recorder and treasurer respectively. L. J. Merrill and G. R. Wood were re-elected as councilmen and O. E. Wilson is the new member of the council, taking the place of W. E. Chown, present incumbent.

The election board was as follows: Judges, Mrs. P. L. Arthur and Mrs. W. A. Husbands; clerks, J. T. Davenport, Mrs. C. G. Nichol and Mrs. D. W. Hudson. R. W. Moe was officer of the day.

Some of the growers have apples which are yet in the orchards but it is expected, states Manager Chaffin, that within 10 days the balance of the crop will have been moved. Stored in the warehouse are a good many boxes of apples which will not be moved until nearly spring.

The most of the Spitzenburgs and Newtowns have now been shipped and by the end of the week it is expected that there will be few boxes of this variety for shipment.

HIGHWAY CONDITIONS BAD FROM RAINS

(From the Hood River Glacier)

With the advent of the steady rains of winter, the Columbia River Highway is fast losing its popularity. The heavy rains in the Cascade Locks district, according to reports brought by motorists who have negotiated the route recently, have made the road well nigh impassable. Several bridges, it is said, are in a dangerous condition.

"I hope I will not be called on to make the trip again," says Walter W. Shay, who traveled over the highway the first of last week. "I advise motorists to remain off the road until after the dry weather sets in next spring."

The highway between here and Cascade Locks would already have become impassable from slides but for the diligent work of Road Supervisor S. W. Curran, who remains constantly on guard and hurries to the scenes of slides with a crew of men. On several occasions Mr. Curran in the past several weeks has opened the highway, allowing blocked motorists to continue their journeys after but slight delays.
