General Weaver. Articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of the state for the Edward A. Weld's patent Wire Fence Fence, under the name of the "Medford Wire Fence Company." The incorporators are: E. A. Weld, president; C. I. Hutchinson, vice president and manager and J. E. Enyart, assistant cashier of the Jackson County Bank, as secretary and treasurer. Mr. Hutchinson having resigned his position in the general mercantile business of the late Henry Smith and together with Mr. Weld, the patentee will enter the field in the interest of the company, and with their agents will make a thorough canvass of the state of Oregon, and sell direct to the farmer the exclusive right to use this fence on his premises.

All farmers throughout the state can readily see the advantage of this improvement over the old styles of rail fences. This style of fence is in general use throughout the United States. Mr. Weld has disposed of nearly all the eastern states, either by state, county or farm rights. Jackson county can boast of energetic, wide-awake farmers. This fact being demonstrated by the many miles of this fence already built in this county. This invention is recommended by our most substantial farmers, to be the best and cheapest fence that can be constructed. The fact, that the Weld's Wire Fence fence is a saving of money, material, time and labor will be vouched for by all who have personally examined this invention. The MAIL wishes this new enterprise the success it deserves. Its members are well known men of Jackson county.
