

FOR THE LADIES.

BY ELLIE BLY.

FASHION NOTES.

A Watteau plan was never intended for anything but soft materials. Is anyone going to throw all shape and taste to the winds and wear those rich backed jackets? Not while those rich shapes can be found.

Sheer white linen handkerchiefs have lately been embroidered in silk upon their corners. This script letters are used.

This hot weather the trained skirt is losing all its charms. It is hot and requires extra exertion in the duty of holding it up. It makes a lining a necessity, and a pretty petticoat in actual wear is a thing to wear under these trained skirts.

The newest skirts and blouses are made of French batiste, Madras muslin and some of percale, colored or white, and have a broad turned down collar reaching almost to the shoulders. The skirt is a small edition of the "Winifred" type.

Belts are a necessity with the skirts, and there are many pretty ones to select from. Some are made of Russia leather, others in suede, and have leather buckles. There is also the Swiss belt which is laced in front. And one can also wear a girdle made of the same material as the skirt that is worn.

And now a word about the little things, or "trifles" as one might say, which are so necessary. A delicate perfume is always preferable to one that is coarse and strong; the one most used at present is the white lilac. It is lasting as well as fine and elegant. But the sachet powder has a more subtle fragrance and little scented bags can be sewed into facings of dresses and also the hems of silk skirts.

Cologne sprays are just now in favor. The novelty of this line is a tiny silver watering pot, perfect in every detail, spout and spray, attachment and all.

Then the old little jewel box especially designed for the sailor-maid girl, is made of card board, covered with silk and bolting cloth. It is shaped like a small anchor, the anchor thick, inside it is lined with tufted silk, while on the outside is painted a small portrait of the owner.

Talent Items.

(From the News.)

Heads are running and harvesting is in full blast.

Henry Hansen and wife, of Medford, spent Sunday on the Ore. & N. visiting relatives.

H. H. Goddard is building a new barn for W. J. D. on 20x20x10 feet in the dimensions.

James Garvin Sr., Earnest Purves, Harry Lynch and James Garvin Jr., have gone to Pokagon in search of employment.

J. E. Dyer has manufactured a wood working machine of his own invention and moved to John Holman's place to put it to work.

We learn on good authority that B. C. Goddard and M. H. Coleman were drinking heavily on the 4th, of soda water at Columbia.

Grant Taylor will teach the first term of school in the newly created Anderson Creek district. The school will commence in a few days.

Mrs. Augusta Boswick, daughter of Louis Schneider of Anderson Creek, was in from her home in Josephine county to spend the 4th with her parents.

Irene Carlyle, youngest daughter of B. Carlyle of Talent, fell from a horse on the 4th inst., resulting in a double fracture of her left arm above the elbow.

E. E. Jones, of Iowa, is visiting his brother-in-law, John Abbott, of Warrenton. Mr. Jones intends to spend several months in the valley and if he continues as well pleased with the country as he is thus far, will make his permanent home here.

Mrs. Olin Robinson, of Cottage Grove, Ore., who has been sick for some time, returned home last Saturday after spending several weeks visiting relatives and friends in this valley. Mrs. Robinson was Mary Barnberg, formerly lived several years in the family of John Holman and attended school in this district.

Unanimously Passed.

HALL OF MISSOURI FLAT ALLIANCE. No. 21, July 9, 1932.

Whereas, A co-operative store has been urged upon the F. A. & I. U. of Josephine county; and

Whereas, The Dean Bros., of Grants Pass, proprietors of the Red Star store, have in all instances identified themselves with our movement; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this alliance that Dean Bros. are doing better for us than we can do for ourselves in the same capacity, and that as far as practicable, we hereby pledge our patronage to them, and ask every alliance brother and sister trader in Grants Pass to give the firm their patronage.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Dean Bros. and another to the Southern Oregon Mail.

C. H. BASSE, Pres.

J. T. WISNER, Sec'y.

SHASTA SCENERY.

Coaches Now Running Over the Scenic Route of Mount Shasta.

A Sacramento paper states that travelers over the Shasta scenic route of the Southern Pacific company have been provided with two elegant observation cars, to be attached to the regular passenger trains running between Redding and Sisson.

The scenery along that stretch of the California & Oregon branch of the Southern Pacific's lines is admitted by all who have traveled over the road to be the grandest most picturesque on the Coast. That portion of the route between the Sacramento valley and Oregon is traversed by day-light, and while it is a grand sight under ordinary conditions it will be determined that tourists shall be able to enjoy it under the most favorable circumstances.

A few weeks ago an order was received by H. J. Small, superintendent of motive power and machinery, Sacramento, for the construction of two comfortable observation cars, to be attached to the trains over the Shasta scenic route. The construction of these cars has been considered more than mere elegance. The finish is plain, and there is no upholstery of any description employed. Each car is 50 feet long, and has five openings on each side. These openings are about eight feet long, so that every passenger in the car will have an unobstructed view of the beautiful scenery along the route.

Shasta and Siskiyou counties are becoming favorite points of travel among tourists, while the many summer visitors in that region of natural grandeur are attracting great numbers of health-seekers and others. The new tavern of Castle Crags, at Lower Soda Springs, on the bank of the Sacramento river, which was opened to guests only a few weeks since, is crowded to its utmost capacity.

All through that region are mineral springs, natural wonders and magnificent effects of nature that have not surpassed on the continent; and as the years pass by Mount Shasta will become a point of annual pilgrimage by every man and woman in the state in quest of health, recreation or rest.

General Weaver on Pinkertons.

Gen. J. B. Weaver starts out well on his presidential contest with the following statement:

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 6.—General Weaver, the nominee of the People's Party for president, reached Des Moines this evening from Omaha. He was visited this evening by a reporter and was asked if he had any statement to make concerning the Homestead riots. He said:

"I regard the situation throughout the country as very grave, and I have been very busy since I came here, in endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the present strained relations between the corporations and their employees, between wealth owners and wealth producers, continuing much longer, they will run into frightful disaster. When Rome was near her fall, the wealthy barons had their braves, our corporate barons have their Pinkertons."

They are an armed body of cruel mercenaries and a menace to the peace of society and the lives of the people. At their bidding bloodshed follows close upon the heels of corporate tyranny. They must be suppressed, and the terrible economic conditions which have spawned this cruel army of thugs upon the country must be changed at once, or the Republic must give away to corporate despotism.

"The frightful condition of affairs in Pennsylvania will strike the whole country like an alarm bell at midnight. Public sympathy will naturally be with the men struggling to exist upon their wits, and for their wives and little ones."

A PIECE OF VILLAINY.

The Dastardly Attempt of Cowards to Injure the People's Cause.

A short time since the press of capitalism, and especially those sheets which are supporters of the Republican party, published a lie sent out from Iowa with the purpose of damaging the reputation of an honorable man and through him the People's cause. A fair sample of the heading given the article by the editors of the money king's press is "An Alliance Man Arrested for Stealing."

The Iowa Farmer's Tribune gives the facts in the case as follows:

One of the lowest, most unprincipled, contemptible acts ever stooped to by mortal man was the arrest of Lion A. Westfall and a few other farmers near Sargeant Bluffs, on the charge of larceny of stuff washed down the Missouri by the recent flood that did such damage to Sioux City. The charge is utterly without foundation, save that Mr. Westfall and his neighbors did all in their power to rescue property that was taking a free trip to the Gulf of Mexico, and were so successful in their efforts as to be able to return many dollars' worth to the owners.

The arrest had its inception in the inimitable brains of political opponents, and was made with no other end in view than the publication by every old party paper in the country of the highly colored reports prepared and sent out for the purpose of nullifying Mr. Westfall and the reform movement, and the real facts in the case as follows:

Walter Strange, a drunken, boozier and a rich English landowner of Woodbury county, who is also a protégé of the Sioux City Journal, and who was a Republican candidate for mayor of Sioux City last spring, but was defeated by the citizens' candidate through the efforts of the citizens of both parties, was the man chosen by The Journal to arrest Mr. Westfall. But Strange, fearing a big damage suit, got a worthless fellow and employee of his to file the information against Mr. Westfall, and then tried to get Mr. Westfall not to appear in the case; but, fearing that the matter was a species of blackmail, Mr. Westfall appeared and found only Mr. Journal reporter waiting to write up the case in the interest of the vilifiers.

A subpoena was sworn out by Mr. Westfall and the arrested farmers for the scapegoat complainant, but he could not be found until the hour for the trial had expired, and the case was dismissed.

The facts in the case are that the recent flood had swept hundreds of dollars worth of property onto the sand bars of the Missouri river south of Sioux City. Mr. Westfall's farm lies four miles south of the city and he and his hired men joined with the neighboring farmers in removing the property to their farms along the banks of the river, where it was claimed by the owners. The full owners, Mr. Westfall turned over what property he had rescued to the city government, the Sioux City and Northern railroad, and the lumber companies of Sioux City, who were the principal losers in the flood, and are well satisfied with their treatment by Mr. Westfall and the rest of the farmers, and had nothing whatever to do with the arrests, but regard them as an outrage upon the community, for the arrests stopped the work of rescue and the June rise has now come and swept fully one-half of the property down the river, which is a total loss. The whole transaction shows to what depth the old party journals will stoop in the coming contest. The Sioux City Journal is a great newspaper corporation and claims to make $20,000 a year; its editor, George D. Perkins, whom Mr. Westfall came so near defeating for congress, is drawing $5,000 a year from the government, and yet when a subscription is passed around in Sioux City The Journal subscribes twenty-five dollars and sells, on account of the flood, 2,000 extra copies; yet it has time and money to spare to destroy the reputation of a private citizen like Mr. Westfall simply because it fears his influence in the coming contest, when Editor Perkins will again be a candidate for congress. But Mr. Westfall will again take the stump and try not to swallow the Missouri flood, but to wipe out the Republican plutocracy of the Eleventh district of Iowa.

Cyrus W. Field Dead.

Cyrus W. Field died at New York a few days ago. His death had been expected for some time.

CYRUS W. FIELD.

Mr. Field's patent of nobility was made eternal and irreversible on the 27th of July, 1866, when the first message was dashed across the Atlantic ocean.

The laying of the Atlantic cable was due to Mr. Field's indomitable pluck. Recent events in Mr. Field's last days are painfully familiar to the general reader. His wife died Nov. 25, 1891, and soon after the firm in which his son Edward M. was a leading member went to wreck. Much of the father's fortune was swept away and he died almost penniless.

The National Mining Congress.

The national mining congress at Helena, Mont., has finished its labors. A long series of resolutions was passed to be sent to the United States congress. The first of the resolutions is as follows:

We declare that the responsibility for the billion in the silver dollars now coined being of less intrinsic value than the billion in the gold dollars sent solely with those who demanded silver and forced the people to accept the laws of 1876 and 1890, by which free coinage of silver has been denied, and the purchase of bullion by the government in the lowest markets of the world substituted instead, and declare our unqualified conviction, based upon sound economic principles and the actual experience of the world between 1876 and 1890, when the relative increase in the production of gold in the United States and the rest of the world far exceeded the relative increase of silver over gold during the last decade, that recoinization of silver by the United States at the existing ratio will speedily restore the intrinsic value of the silver dollar to that of the gold dollar.

Our resolutions condemn the government for debasing silver, because the question of bimetallism the most important before the country, and favor the use of every effort to thwart the plan for the adoption of the single standard. Another set of resolutions bore upon the presidential election, urging the representatives of silver states to defeat if possible the success of any candidate not avowedly for the white metal. Among other subjects touched was the World's fair, emphasis being laid upon the necessity of a good timing exhibit, and the wisdom of keeping the gates open Sundays.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Gladstone's party will have a majority of fifty in the next parliament.

Russia has accepted the invitation of the United States government to send delegates to the international monetary conference.

Bishop Laffache, of Three Rivers, has made an attack on the Chinese in British Columbia. He says unless immigration of Coolies is stopped Canada will be ruined.

The Argentine torpedo boat Rosales, en route to Cadiz, Spain, to participate in the Columbus celebration was wrecked 200 miles off the coast of Uruguay, near Cape Polonio.

In the midst of the English elections the London Times surprised its readers by saying many complimentary things of the United States. This attitude toward America is quite the opposite of the Times' usual caustic criticisms.

The American relief steamship Leo has arrived at St. Petersburg. The city presented Captain Caines of the Leo with a massive silver trumpet. A large gold lined silver cup was presented to the first mate. Rev. T. Dewitt Talague responded to the address of welcome.

The eruptions of Mount Etna are rapidly increasing in violence. Several villages and a number of dwellings have been destroyed. All the craters are active and one is ejecting a continuous stream of lava several yards deep and very wide. The stream presents the appearance of a river of fire. It is bound to ruin much property. Another crater is hurling incandescent rocks to an immense height, while the edges of the third crater threaten to crumble. Mount Etna now has eighteen openings, nine of which are active. The lava is flowing in the direction of Nicolosi at the rate of fifty yards an hour. It has already passed the lava deposits formed by the violent eruption of 1886.

Judge Harris of Fresno has handed down an important decision in the matter of county deputies. Suit was brought by W. S. Budger, deputy county clerk, against Thomas P. Nelson, county treasurer. After the decision of the supreme court in the case of Dougherty vs. Austin, the treasurer of Fresno county refused to pay warrants for deputies' salaries. Thereupon the board of supervisors employed deputies to do the clerical work at an agreed price, and when the work was done the supervisors allowed the bill. The auditor drew the warrant for it, but the treasurer refused to pay it, hence suit was brought, and it was to-day decided that the treasurer must pay for the work done. This, for the time being, settles the deputy trouble here.

Gold Coin and Debt.

The money plank of the Republican party is plainly expressed and undisguised. It is that all the debts of the world shall be paid in gold. There is in the whole world $3,000,000,000 of gold. This is all in the control of banks and money lenders. The interest and discounts on debt amount annually to more than all the gold in the whole world. Now, who will tell us how the debt is to be paid?—Nonconformist.

WARRING WORKMEN.

HOMESTEAD AND COEUR D'ALENE UNDER MARTIAL RULE.

The Presence of Troops Restores Peace. Soldiers at Coeur d'Alene Ordered to Shoot Down Anyone Attempting to Destroy Property.

Since the arrival of the militia at Homestead, Pa., the iron workers have been very quiet.

The 4,000 workmen in Carnegie's mills at T. S.burg and the plant at Beaver Falls have struck. The men say they will not go to work until Frick receives a committee from the Homestead workmen.

The fires have been started at the Homestead mill and a number of non-union men are at work. The locked out men say the non-union men will not be allowed, but Pinkerton men must remain away. Boycotting all of Carnegie's productions is the weapon of the strikers.

The union men say the works will never run with non-union labor. The men are silent and keep to their homes most of the time.

The congressional committee appointed to investigate the strike and the Pinkerton system has concluded its inquiry as far as the strike is concerned. Mr. Frick, of the Carnegie company, testified that the cause of the proposed reduction in wages was over production. He also gave data showing the wages earned by the employees. Burgess Luckin testified for the workingmen.

Early in his talk the tariff cropped out and he was cross-examined scathingly. Luckin testified that the average wages of steel workers were about $35 per month.

The Pinkerton inquiry will not take place at Pittsburgh, but will be held elsewhere. It is intimated that the committee will recommend the passage of a compulsory arbitration law.

BLOODSHED AT COEUR D'ALENE.

Non-Union Miners Shot Down—Federal Troops Restore Order.

A battle occurred at the Frisco mine and the Gem mine at the town of Idaho, between five and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning, between union and non-union miners. The fight lasted for several hours. Four men were killed and about twenty wounded. Among the killed are Gas Carlson and Harry Cummings, union men. The other two were guards at the mine. The wounded, as far as learned, are: John Ward, of the Gem, shot through the arm. Hutch Campbell, union man, hit by a rifle on the head. J. W. Sankroger, non-union man, shot through the hips. Sam Peters of Tacoma, non-union, shot in the head; will recover. The Frisco mine was blown up during the strike and is a complete wreck. After the mill was blown up the non-union men of Frisco hung out a flag of truce. Hostilities then ceased and about sixty men surrendered. The men are now under guard at the mine and six o'clock in the morning