Joe Whitney has just returned from Portland, where he purchased a large stock of instantaneous gas lights to sell in connection with the boiler insulators and fireless cookers.

Mr. Whitney says that the company he represents have perfected an electric fireless cooker and he will have a sample on demonstration here the first of the week.

Mrs. C. H. Hart would like to see all her old boarders, as she has returned from California and has just opened up the dining room.

A comparison of our teas and coffees with other lines is all we ask. Southern Oregon Tea & Coffee Co. Phone 3303.

Wednesday a valise which had been found near the Union Meat company's plant was turned over to the baggage master at the Southern Pacific depot. When found, the valise, although not locked, had been cut open, and nearly all the contents abstracted. A clothes brush and some papers were all that were left inside. The papers consist of letters addressed to R. B. Staub at Ashland in reference to his application for membership in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and also a blank application for admission in that order. Evidently the valise had been taken at some other point than Medford, and was rifled and thrown away here.

John A. Larson of Prospect and his daughters, Misses Lucy and Anna, were in Medford Wednesday on their way to Grants Pass, where Mr. Larson has business. Mr. Larson was formerly in business in that city, but for the past several years has taken to the simple life among the tall firs of the Prospect section, which he finds much to his liking. The young ladies will go to San Francisco shortly to spend the winter with their grandmother and to attend school.

R. E. Doane of the Cascade Coal company left Thursday morning for Los Angeles, Cal., on business connected with the company. He will be absent about a month.

F. H. Hopkins of Central Point was a Medford visitor Wednesday. A reception to the ministers and their wives and to the public in general will be given by the members of the Christian church in honor of their new pastor, Rev. Matlock. A fine program has been arranged and among the many fine selections, the solo of Mrs. Ed Andrews will well be worth the trouble of attending. A good time is assured all and a cordial invitation to the people of Medford is given to attend.

W. P. Benn and wife arrived Wednesday evening from Fairbanks, Alaska, to visit Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Miller and probably locate here.

Mrs. A. S. Rosenbaum was a Jacksonville visitor Wednesday.

L. E. Hoover of the Yakima Valley nursery has a nice lot of Bartlett pears that it will pay you to see if you are looking for something good.

W. W. Traux of Eagle Point was here Wednesday transacting business with Medford merchants.

D. G. Millett of Ferndale, Or., and C. W. Swain of Pendleton, Ind., are among those persons who have been attracted by the resources of southern Oregon and are here looking over the field.

Hon. H. von der Hellen of Wellen is in the city today (Thursday) attending to business matters.

T. E. Pottenger, who has developed into a full-fledged farmer since his removal to the Applegate section, is in Medford today renewing old acquaintances and attending to business matters.

P. S. Easterday, president of the Columbia Bridge company, which has the contract for the construction of the county bridge across Rogue river at Woodville, has been here for several days looking after the progress of the work.

Edmond Peile of Trail was in Medford Wednesday on business.

George W. Brown of Jacksonville spent Wednesday night in Medford.

W. E. Wilson of Eugene is here looking over the country.

Mrs. Minnie Smith, C. E. Owen and E. A. Smith of Ashland were Medford visitors Wednesday.

G. W. Burnett of Myrtle Creek, Or., is in Medford on a business trip.

A. W. Elam and wife of Fruitvale, Col., are among the recent arrivals in Medford.

William Bray of Ashland was a Medford visitor Wednesday.

J. G. Stevens of Brownsboro was doing business in Medford Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Reidel, who recently acquired a fine tract of fruit land near Gold Hill, were in Medford Thursday on business.

Mrs. J. De Schenck spent the day Thursday in Jacksonville, the guest of Mrs. E. J. Kubli.

Welborn Beeson, the Talent orchardist and nurseryman, was in Medford Thursday. Mr. Beeson and some friends made a hunting expedition to the head of Little Applegate during the last days of the hunting season and Mr. B. was fortunate enough to bag three deer in a pile with four shots in considerable less than four minutes.

Ira Dodge of the Oregon Orchards Syndicate returned Thursday morning from a business trip to Portland.

Mrs. Jo Russell and Miss Fannie Cunan of Jacksonville were visitors in Medford Thursday.

J. C. Hall, Charles Young and Orin Murphy returned this week from a hunting trip to the Elk Creek section. They had good luck and captured several fine deer.
