TO HEAT COURTHOUSE BY USE OF HOTSPRING

Klamath County Planning to Spend $125,000 for New Modern Building.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Jan. 11.—A proposition is on foot to sell the present court house site and build a new court house close to the Hot Springs, which will also be near the depot. Quit claim deeds to the present site have been signed and will become effective on approval.

The Hot Springs company has agreed to donate five acres for the new site, to build cement walks around it, and to give a right to hot water in perpetuity, so that the building may be naturally steam-heated, which in itself will be a great annual saving.

If the scheme is consummated a modern building costing not less than $125,000 will be erected; and a company of local capitalists intends to build a $100,000 hotel on the old court house site.

Death Certificates For Dogs.
The veterinarian was bandaging the leg of a French poodle when the telephone rang, so he asked the visitor to take the message.

"Please tell the doctor," said a woman at the other end of the wire, "that King Charles is dead and we would like a death certificate right away."

The visitor transmitted the news of royalty demise, then added something about the "tomfoolery of getting a death certificate for a dog."

"It may be tomfoolery," said the veterinarian, "but a lot of people with pet cats and dogs are guilty of it. If a real King Charles was dead and I was making out a certificate to file with the board of health I should take no more pains than I shall for that family that has lost a dog. His age and the date of death will be recorded, and the disease that carried him off will be described in detail. Of course the owners of valuable animals are most likely to ask for death certificates, but very often the possessor of an ugly little cur that has crept into his affections wants one too."—New York Sun.

How to Hit.
With one swift, straight right to the jaw the little man had knocked the big fat bully out completely. Now he was boasting modestly about the matter.

"I learned how to hit," he said, "from Gentleman Jim Corbett. Gentleman Jim claims that in street fighting if you land one clean right you win. But few men know how to hit out straight and clean. They swing. And a swing is no good because it can so easily be dodged.

"To hit out with the right straight Hoxey—H. P. Anderson, N. J. Garrett, I. A. Pruett.

Sam's Valley—R. C. F. Astbury, W. N. Carl, James I. Fredenburg, W. W. Edgington, Horace Pelton.

Sterling—Ralph Jennings, Frank Crump.

Talent—E. D. Briscoe, D. W. Pence, Sharon Oliver.

Union—Miles Cantrall, Z. Cameron, Fred Kleinhammer, John Matney, C. M. Buck.

Watkins—A. D. McKee, Remy Phillips.

Willow Springs—F. W. Adams, J. W. Hicks, Fred Straub, F. W. Sifers.

and swift—this is how Jim taught me to do it. You step forward with your left foot toward the enemy. You hit straight out with your right arm as hard as you can, at the same time shoving your body forward and pushing off with the ball of your right foot as though you were going to shove the whole earth from under you.

"That is how to land a straight right. It is easy, and it wins every time."

Why He Gave Nothing.
"I've encountered many an excuse for 'sideslepping' the collection basket in church," remarked a Jersey commuter, "but the prize excuse came to me last Sunday out in our town. Next to me in church sat an acquaintance who had taken out a dollar bill, but when he saw the collector was a substitute for the regular brother he put the money back in his pocket. I taxed him with it good naturedly on the way out, and he was very frank.

"You needn't publish it," said he, "but I know that man pretty well. Now, I happen to owe him $5, and he's dunning me unnecessarily for it. I know him so well that I know if I put that dollar bill in the basket he'd find a way to abstract it and pocket it as part of what I owe him. And he'd really feel he was justified too. That's the way he's built, don't you see?"—New York Globe.

Rebuking a Greenhorn.
A whist expert discussed at a dinner those overconfident and foolish persons who think they can learn whist in a year or two.

"Such persons should be called to order," the expert said sternly. "I for one am always glad to see them called to order. A young greenhorn stood behind my partner during a game one night. At the end of the hand the greenhorn said:

"Why didn't you lead hearts? That's what I'd have done."

"My partner smiled and answered: 'Ah, but you, my young friend, have the world before you and none but yourself to consider. You have no wife and family dependent on you for bread, and if you lose heavily no one suffers but yourself. With me it is different; hence I led spades.'"

Necessity of Air Baths.
The conditions and conventions of our civilization demand frequent bathing. Any one suspected of avoiding a daily bath would quickly find himself persona non grata in decent society. It is popularly supposed that frequent bathing is essential to health. This is quite untrue. Much of the benefit attributed to the water is in reality due to the complete exposure of the skin to the air. The respiratory function of the skin is of high importance, and, although water may be dispensed with, closing the pores to air would result in speedy asphyxiation.—New York Medical Journal.

A Dreaded Contingency.
A young girl of fourteen was taking a trip on Lake Michigan in a small steamer. The lake was somewhat rough, and many were seasick. The girl sat in the bow and was unusually quiet for her. "Are you feeling sick, daughter?" inquired her father. "No; I don't think I am sick, but I should hate to yawn."—Life.

Blocking Him.
"Say, old man," began Borrowgus, "lend me your ear for awhile, will you?"

"My friend," replied Wise, shrewdly suspecting a touch. "I'd gladly lend you both of them; then I wouldn't be able to hear you ask me to lend you anything else."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Inconsistent.
She (pretty, but sedate)—I admire a man who holds fast to his ideal. He (a dandy)—But—but you won't let me.—Boston Herald.

It was an Irish philosopher who said the strangest things in some newspapers are the ones that are left out.

Answered.
Village Minister to crofter's wife)—Well, Kirstie, how's your husband today? Kirstie—He's just like yersel'. He has plenty to do, but he winna dae it.—London Answers.

Nature's Handiwork.
The dew upon the peach or plum is so delicate and so thickly set that one cannot touch the fruit with a needle's point without breaking the tender stalk, and yet the dew of the night covers the whole surface of the fruit and disappears in the morning, leaving the gossamer growth more orderly and beautiful than before. The dew covers every leaf of the giant oak, and the mighty tree drinks in the refreshing moisture to its thirsty heart through millions of pores, and the iron trunk that has withstood a thousand storms is made stronger by the gentle strength of the dew. The silent fall of the dew is caused and controlled by agencies of the most tremendous power. The same power which shakes a whole continent with its subterranean thunder is the same as that which encircles the finest filament of thistle-down with a coronet of dewy gems so small that they do not bend the delicate stalks with their weight.—London Globe.

A Hector Outhectored.
A publisher's reader at a literary club hectored a group of novelists.

"You chaps," he sneered, "must always be coining new words. Good English isn't good enough for you. In the last half dozen manuscript novels I turned down there were such horrible neologisms as 'he hoarsed,' 'he parroted,' 'they shrilled,' 'he glimpsed her,' 'it supremed,' and so forth. 'Faugh!'"

"Let me inform you," cried a novelist defiantly, "that your remark shows a pitiful ignorance on your part of our mother tongue. As for 'shrilling,' Tennyson writes: 'With petulant thumb and finger shrilling 'Hence!'"

"Chapman, the great Chapman, is an authority for 'parroted.' 'Glimpsing' has been used by Howells and Lowell, and 'supreme' as a verb may be found in Shelley's letters."—Washington Post.

The Chinese Burglar.
"The Chinese burglar is the most difficult to nab," declared Lecoq, the detective. "I might say he is impossible to nab. When this yellow scoundrel goes burgling he goes naked and covered with oil, and thus he is as slippery as an eel. But, you say, why not nab him by the pigtail, hey? The answer to that is that his pigtail is done up in a knot on top of his head and stuck full of needles and hatpins with the points turned outward. You often see a Chinaman in Pekin or Shanghai with his clothes stained with oil and with tiny red pricks all over him. He's been having trouble with a burglar."

Vegetable Suspension Bridge.
A remarkable suspension bridge spans the river Apurimac in central Peru. The ropes of this bridge are composed of pliable roots and vines, while the planks are made of branches. In the humid climate of Peru it would be by no means extraordinary if this vegetable bridge were one day to start growing.—Wide World Magazine.

The Court's Double.
"You say it was your 'double' that stole the chickens?"

"Yassuh."

"You know I gave you thirty days once for chicken stealing?"

"Ah remembah, sub."

"Well, this time you get sixty. That's the court's double."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Practical Considerations.
"My family tree"—began the titled suitor.

"I'm tired of hearing about family trees," answered Mr. Cumrox. "In the part of the country I came from a man's industry and consequence are measured by the size of the family wood piles."—Washington Star.

MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING AFFAIR GRANTS PASS

Man Found With Bullet in Temple—Will in All Probability Recover.

GRANTS PASS, Jan. 11.—A mysterious shooting affair occurred in the outskirts of this city last evening about ten o'clock at night in which Harvey L. Crump was the victim. He was shot in the temple, the bullet coming out just above the eye. He laid where he fell until about 2 o'clock this morning when he came to and made his way to a neighbor's house and was then taken to the hospital. There are conflicting stories. One that it was a case of robbery and the other that there is a woman at the bottom of the affair. He has refused to make any statement which lends to the belief to the idea that he is concealing something. The pistol was held so close to his head that there are powder burns all over the side of his face. The grand jury is in session and will undoubtedly fully investigate the matter.

TAKES RATTLESNAKE VENOM AS MEDICINE

ROCHESTER, Jan. 11.—Henry Hoefner, a retired druggist, who has been taking crotonin, or rattlesnake venom, for an advanced case of tuberculosis, completed his one hundredth dose of one-fiftieth of a grain and today came after a fresh supply. He was greatly improved in appearance, his cough much lighter, and he said that when he coughed it did not hurt him as it did before beginning the treatment. He was also much stronger. He is now sanguine that his cure will be effected.

Mr. Hoefner said: "I shall take doses of one-twenty-fifth of a grain from now on, and I shall also prepare the medicine in a different way. What I have taken was absorbed in sugar of milk and divided into powders. I find that the poison is likely to deteriorate when exposed to the air, so I shall take all future doses prepared with guaiacol, a distillation of beechwood, somewhat similar to carbolic acid, in a proportion of one to four. The guaiacol will, I believe, keep the venom at its full strength."
