Hermann Case Continues in Portland -J. D. Mann is Put Upon the Stand and Examined.

PORTLAND, Jan. 19 .- Members of the jury turned proescutors in the Binger Hermann case today and gave minutes. This added to the pertient questions which Colonel Worthington land, already in bearing and ready the state land board, in regard to the to begin paying back the cost price Leavenworth, Kan, asked of George G. Brown, clerk of at once. action of the old state land board under transactions, added the only spice to the morning session of the court.

J. D. Mann was put on the stand to show that he had taken the acknowledgements to a large number of notify was placed on file. the applications for school lands for George Sorenson during 1901. He testified that Sorenson had taken him down to his office on Front and Stark streets one evening and there had introduced a largenumber of men to ing for a contract for the city print- he continued lightly. him, "who looked like saloon bums" and that he had sworn them to blank applcations for school land and that at the same time he had made out blank assignments of the same lands in favor of Sorenson.
