TWO SURVIVE ANZY WRECK.

under the water.

Happened Suddenly.
"The passengers did not have time to become panic-stricken, I suppose, but they all realized that they were going to die, for the cry that rose as the ship began to settle was awful. It seemed like just one wall. After that I remembered nothing. Yesterday morning I regained my senses. I was lying on a beach. Nearly all that day I wandered, the details of the wreck becoming more and more vivid hourly.

"Then I knew that I probably was the only survivor, and that I should get the news to the people in France as soon as possible. I saw a town in the distance and walked toward it. It was this town of Cudadela, and I told the French consul what had happened before I lost consciousness again."

Bladez' report was the first news of the wreck that had been received. He lay unconscious for hours after he told the mere fact that the liner had foundered with all aboard.

Relatives Besiege Office.
MARSEILLES, France, Feb. 12.—Hoping against hope for news of relatives or friends who are aboard the wrecked French trans-Atlantic steamship company's liner Cranzy, hundreds of anguished persons besieged the company's offices here today.

Half crazed with grief, they attempted to wreck the offices. A riot was prevented by a strong police guard. The liner foundered yesterday off the island of Majorca.

Two Survivors.
Marcel Moal, an Algerian customs officer, and a passenger named Bladez were the only survivors.

There were 87 passengers on the ship when she foundered, in addition to the several members of the crew. It is almost certain that 155 persons lost their lives.

Moal has been taken to a hospital on the island of Binorca. His mind his given way under the terrible strain, and he constantly raves of the awful scene that followed the wreck, and the cries of the doomed men and women.

The wreck occurred in Liosa Passage, (one of the most dangerous places in the Mediterranean, the water in the channel is 100 feet deep. Three years ago the liner Ville de Rome sank in nearly the same spot.

Explosion on Board.
PARIS, Feb. 12.—The officials of the French trans-Atlantic Steamship company announced that the Chanzy disaster was due to an explosion on board the vessel, instead of to the injuries she received when she struck the rocks in Liosa passage.

They declared that had it not been for the explosion she would have been able to reach the shore before she foundered.

TO VOTE ON GRANT.

gin actual construction at once. The plant at Ontario shows the way we do business. The franchise was granted us last year in February and on March 18 we began construction, finishing a $60,000 plant by July. The Medford plant will be double the capacity of that at Ontario.

"Our plans are to manufacture gas from crude oil, to lay 25 miles of main that will cost $100,000 and to supply 9,000,000, the plant will be sufficient for a city of 30,000 people, as we are convinced that Medford is going to be a large town."

MAKES $12,000 IN SEVEN YEARS WORK
Lands Here Seven Years Ago With $1800—Has Increased It to $12,000 and Hasn't Stopped Yet.

W. H. Rainsford, who about a year ago purchased some 23 acres of the old Arbstrong place north of Jacksonville, has just sold the south half of the property, comprising 11 3/5 acres to W. F. Rau for $15,000.

The land embraced in the sale is set to young fruit trees and even at the price paid is a good buy.

Mr. Rainsford reserves the northern part of the "Rainsford Ranch," including the house and other buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Rainsford will leave shortly for New York and will visit England upon returning. Upon their returning they will make their permanent home on the reserved part of their ranch.

NO DECISION IN HERMANN CASE

the conspiracy continued their cooperation to any time within three years before the indictment, and did any overt act within that time, the parties then will be deemed subject to prosecution."

Judge Wolverton instructed the jury that it was not necessary to show that persons engaging in a conspiracy derived benefit from such action in order to make the conspiracy complete. He outlined the duties of a commissioner of the general land office and said that it would be very possible in the course of work for an official to make errors which would not be culpable. At the same time, he stated, an official, while apparently performing his duties, might have an evil purpose.

If it were shown that the defendant promoted a conspiracy, the court said, he himself would thereby become a conspirator. The judge defined a "conspiracy" at considerable length, showing it is sufficient that a mutual understanding has been reached between two or more persons in order to complete a conspiracy.

NOW LISTEN!

Unless you get into line within the next few days the best small tracts in the

Snowy Butte Orchards

will be sold and you will not be among the fortunate purchasers.

Why do you not close a contract for one of these tracts at once? They are going fast and the man who does not take this opportunity by the forelock will not live twelve months until he will regret his short-sightedness of today.

IS THERE ANYTHING WRONG?

Is there anything wrong with an apple orchard which will produce annually a $35,000 crop of fruit?
Is there anything wrong with a pear orchard which last season produced a $17,000 crop of fruit?
Is there anything wrong with those ten-acre tracts of 4-and 2-year-old pear trees? Don't they look good to you?
Is there anything wrong with that entire Snowy Butte orchard? Don't it all look good as an investment?
There is nothing wrong with anything, or anybody, but you, and you will get right when you have inspected this orchard tract. Just say to us that you would like to see what we have to offer and we will gladly show you. Show us an inclination to get interested and we will show you the best orchard proposition in Southern Oregon. The roads are pretty good now, and we have plenty of carriages.
