DR. F. C. PAGE HAS MANY TREES TO PLANT

Intends Planting Sylvester Patterson Tract, Regardless of the Weather—Carload of Trees.

"I intend to plant all those trees this season," said Dr. Page. "If the weather turns fair it will be an easy proposition. If the weather is foul, the trees will be planted, regardless of cost. The tract will be planted in the best commercial varieties of pears and will be cut up into tracts of approximately ten acres. The ten-acre orchard is the solution of the problem which will confront the growers of the Rogue River valley within the next few years. Ten-acre orchards with a family on each one of them will be the solution of the labor problem in the first place, and besides that, the ten-acre orchard or the five-acre orchard, cared for by its owner, will produce better fruit and more fruit to the tree than the big orchard, cared for by men who, however anxious they may be to advance their employers' interests, will not give the same attention as will the actual owner of the ground, whose livelihood and that of his family depends upon the crop."

One of the most elaborate and altogether delightful affairs of the week was the Washington tea and reception given by the ladies of the M. E. church Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. R. Ewbank. Pictures of Washington adorned the dining-room, living room and parlors, while a profusion of bunting in the national colors was used throughout the house and on the front piazza. An artificial cherry tree, having every semblance of being real, occupied the center of the parlor. In a cherry tree contest, Mrs. Whetsell won the first prize, a burnt wood hatchet, and Clarence Kellogg the second, a bunch of cherries. Mrs. W. Van Scoyoc in an antique dress, collar and apron, and with her hair puffed and powdered in true Colonial style, was a charming Martha Washington and sang a patriotic song, "My Own United States." Clarence Kellogg presided at the piano, rendering many light, dainty selections. The refreshments included cherry pies, hatchet-shaped cookies and fruit punch with cherries. Mrs. Van Scoyoc presiding over the punch bowl.

The committee in charge: Mrs. W. D. Allen, Mrs. W. C. Reagan, Mrs. W. R. Ewbank, Mrs. H. Metz, Mrs. Brainerd, Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. Conklin. Fifty-three ladies were served and the affair voted a success both socially and financially. In March Mrs. D. T. Lawton will be the hostess, while in April Mrs. L. B. Brown, who has just moved into her beautiful new home on Central avenue South, will receive.

The following are members of the Methodist Choral society, who will participate in the rendition of Gaul's "Holy City" at the M. E. church Wednesday night: Soloists: Mrs. Guy Childers, soprano; Mrs. W. M. Van Scoyoc, soprano; Harry Whitsel, tenor. Chorus: Soprano, Misses Manning, Rose Fielder, Minnie Corey, Fraley and Mesdames Coffeen, Belknap, Wines and Chidester; altos, Mesdames Simmons, Philbrook, Payne, Vogeli, Kellogg and Miss Callie Vogeli; bass, Messrs. Chidester, Alfred Ivy, Heidebrand, Clarence Meeker, Roy Martin, Coffeen, tenor, Messrs. Earl Conklin, Shandon, Floyd, Valentin, George Lindley, D. T. Lawton, Director, Forrest Edmeades. Pianist, Clarence Kellogg.
