INTEREST IN STANDARD CASE

of Ohio was dissolved to the time of completion of the present organization. The part played by stock exchanges and the issuance of "liquidating certificates" which were exchanged for stock in the present holding company, the government alleges, was the subject of many of the questions asked from the bench. From these questions, attorneys here believe that the decision will go into this phase of trust organization very fully.

"Trust-Buster" Frank B. Kellogg began his argument for the government late today. John G. Milburn, of counsel for the Standard, completed his defense of the Standard's methods and Kellogg assailed the argument ironically.

GENERAL STRIKE CALLED

strikes which will involve forty-nine western and southern railroads will be announced today to the committee of railroad general managers.

President Carter of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen was in session with the executive committee of the brotherhood throughout the night.

Decision at Midnight.
The decision to strike was reached at midnight by the general federation board of western railroads of the brotherhood organization after Chairman Nixon of the manager's committee finally had refused the employees demands.

Apparently the only hope of prevention of a strike of railroad firemen

EZRA MEEKER STARTS OVERLAND TOMORROW

Aged Pioneer of 1853 Will Follow the Long Trail Once Again for Purpose of Erecting Additional Monuments.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 15.—Although eighty years of age, Ezra Meeker, pioneer of 1853, will tomorrow morning begin an ox-team journey over the old Oregon trail, his objective point being Independence, Kansas. The start will be made from The Dalles and the two faithful oxen which drew Meeker's "prairie schooner" over the trail four years ago, are shod and ready for their second long overland journey.

When Ezra Meeker made the 2,200 mile trip the first time he was seeking a home in the wilds of Oregon. In 1906, the pioneer returned over the long road as a labor of love. He wanted the exact course of the Oregon trail to be staked and marked, that its traditions might not be lost. At that time he succeeded in establishing two monuments at prominent points.

His present trip for the purpose of erecting additional monuments in the shape of sections of galvanized pipe, bearing the lettering "Old Oregon Trail, 1843."

venting the strike is that of federal intervention.

The railroad officials have telegraphed a request to Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Labor Commissioner Neil to act as mediators under the Erdman act.

Question of wages and two working rules are the rocks on which the opposing sides have split.

Working Rules the Cause.
The railroad managers are willing to arbitrate the wage question but not the working rules. These they hold to be matters of discipline and not debatable.

One of the rules provides for promotion of firemen from seniority in service while the other is a demand that the firemen shall have a representative on all employees committees involving engineers' grievances.

On the other hand the unionists demand arbitration on the rules question.

The men are demanding a general increase of 12 1/2 per cent in wages. Lines Affected.

The principal lines affected by the strike order are the Santa Fe, Chicago & Alton, Burlington, St. Paul, Rock Island, Colorado Southern, Great Northern, Illinois Central, M. K. & T., Northern Pacific, Oregon Short Line, O. R. & N., Frisco, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

If the brotherhood carries out its strike order, the second big railroad strike within six months will be recorded.

Switchmen's Strike.
The switchmen of the northwestern roads went out several months ago and are still on strike.

It is estimated that their action has cost the railroads $10,000,000. It affected but few roads, however, when its scope is compared with the extent of the proposed strike of the firemen.

The walkout of the firemen will affect 140,000 miles of trackage and half the track mileage of the United States.

Later in the day the brotherhood officials received telegrams from Knapp and Neil asking if their proposed mediation would meet with the approval of the brotherhood.

A Week of Grace.
OAKLAND, Cal., March 15.—"I do not believe that a strike will be called on the Pacific coast until the various chairmen of the Pacific coast committees return from Chicago ready to assume command of the situation," declared Frank C. Avanson, secretary of the grievance committee of the western division of locomotive firemen today.

Avanson declared that he received no instructions from Chicago as yet but he was expecting to hear from General Chairman D. W. Carn of the western division at any time.

San Francisco Will Suffer.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—In case of a strike of railroad firemen

MAUD POWELL AT THE MEDFORD TONIGHT

It would be idle to write such words as "brilliant technique," "skillful bowing" or "unusual ability in double stopping;" tack them to Mme. Powell and then stop there. She is as far above such mundane phrases as the wild flower on the mountain top, placed there by nature, is superior and more divine than the proud lily tended by the gardener in the valley below.

It is particularly pleasant to know that this celebrated violinist is a native American—one of us. She shows it not only in her winning stage personality, but in her good sense in selecting such a representative program. There's a dash of Celtic in her blood, and this must give her the poetry and fine sentiment so marked of a wandering race. It is also noteworthy that her's is not an inherited art—not bought with somebody else's money, but bestowed to her as a talent to be answered for, and tempered by hard, faithful study. How many years no one but she knows. Her violin tone is what may be called the Powell tone—it has such a peculiar, warm, musical color. Her technique is so wedded to her art that in her case it is difficult to say where technique begins and art ends. She plays on a favorite Guadagnini violin, for which she paid many thousands of dollars, and it probably has more than a money value.—The Morning Oregonian, Portland, Ore.

WILL EXPLAIN THE OPERA AT MATINEE

Manager Hazelrigg Will Give Free Matinee and Fine Points of Grand Opera to Be Seen Here Soon.

It is the intention of Manager Hazelrigg to give a little matinee free to those who wish to become familiar with the opera at which time he will give a little talk on the plot and characters in the opera and play over the principal themes so that people not familiar with these productions will go to the opera house the night of the performance with a thorough knowledge of the text and the principal musical themes.

There is no entertainment more enthralling, Henriot, directors of the Applegate opera, those who do not like grand opera are simply those who do not understand it. There is first the text with which one should be familiar in order that they may give closer attention to the music.

The two operas to be given here by the Lombardi company are tragedies. The plot of Cavalleria is laid in a small town in Sicily and deals with the peasant class, as the name indicates, the rustic cavallier. The time is Easter morning, and by the way some of the most beautiful Easter music occurs in this opera that has ever been written. The cause of the tragedy is an old love quarrel, which has its fatal ending on Easter day.

Il Pagliacci means in English, the clown. The plot is laid in Italy and represents a troupe of strolling players who were playing the old pantimimic play of Columbine. This play is supposed to be a comedy but is made tragic by the husband who played the part of Punchenello, finding out the perfidy of his wife just before he goes on to the stage and the comedy graduates into a tragedy.

the dainty dishes you may prepare in an Electrical Chafing Dish

The ease and convenience with which so many delicious dishes may be prepared in an electrical chafing dish make a strong appeal to the young wife as well as the seasoned housekeeper.

She has found that a chafing dish affords not only a quick and economical means of preparing impromptu repasts, but also that it enables her to prepare on the dining room table many dishes that supplement and round out the bill of fare previously prepared on the kitchen stove.

If you do not possess one of these useful articles, or are using one of the old style alcohol burners, come in and see the new General Electric chafing dish. No fuel is required, consequently there is no flame, smoke or soot to get against. It can be used in any room where an electric lamp socket is available. It is sanitary, convenient and safe. It is handsomely designed and finished, and makes an ideal gift.
