

Grand Opera Tonight

Lambardi Grand Opera Co.
Appears Tonight at the Medford—Greatest Musical
Event of the City.

Tonight Medford will be treated to the greatest musical event in her history, when the Lambardi Grand Opera company will appear at The Medford.

The two operas to be presented will be "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci," both of which are without equal in point of interest and dramatic situations.

The seat sale has been tremendous and Manager Hazelrigg is delighted with the patronage given him, making it possible for him to guarantee $1000 to the company.

Every seat in the body of the house has been sold, but there remains a number of gallery seats, all of which have been reserved, which are as good as others for grand opera.

SULTAN TRY TO KILL SELF

Now a Complete Imbecile, Subject to Frequent Outbursts of Murderous Fury, Endangering Lives of His Attendants.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 5—Former Sultan, Abdul Hamid, is becoming a very serious worry to the Turkish government, according to frank admissions from high official sources.

If he would die an unquestionably natural death the government would be delighted.

Although ravaged by disease, almost to a skeleton, he still lingers, however. And there is the gravest fear that he will do some violence to himself for which the government will be blamed.

Nor is he at all safe for his attendants to handle. He is now a complete imbecile but subject to frequent outbursts of murderous fury during which he seems determined to kill whoever approaches him.

Some of the government officials think a mistake is being made in keeping him in such strict seclusion, arguing that much of the sanctity which still attaches him in the minds of the masses would evaporate if it were known into what an object he had degenerated, not to mention the fact that in case of accident to his person the government would be less likely to incur responsibility than through any mischance in his mysterious villa at Silontika. It is objected to publicly however that the sympathy likely to be aroused for his condition might react unfavorably upon the present regime and that there would certainly be constant plotting among the reactionaries to get him into their possession, in which case political trouble of a violent nature could not be avoided throughout the country.

Physicians who have examined him are generally agreed that he is suffering from cancer of the stomach and has but a short time to live. They also express the opinion that his mind must have been unbalanced for a long time before his deposition.

Death of Pioneer Lady.
Miss Jemima Hannah, sister of Joseph Hannah of Beagle, died at her home on March 31, and was interred in the Antioch cemetery April 1.

Miss Hannah crossed the plains with ox teams in 1862 when a young girl. She was 60 years of age.

NEW PURCHASER OF BAKERY LEVANTS

John Claussen, who purchased the Medford Bakery & Delicatessen last week, has apparently departed for other climes. At least he could not be found Monday at any of his usual haunts.

C. Reinken, who first opened the store and who afterward sold it, subject to a mortgage to B. Wetzel, who in turn sold it, still subject to the mortgage to Claussen.

Mr. Reinken was naturally interested in the matter and when he heard of the sale came to the city to inquire. Claussen refused any satisfaction and forced him to leave the store. That was Saturday.

Since closing-up time Saturday night Claussen hasn't been visible, around the delicatessen on C street and Mr. Reinken is taking steps to protect his interests.

Grants Pass Has Third Bank.
GRANTS PASS, Or., April 5.—The Josephine County bank, recently organized, has purchased the lease held by the Sabin Drug company and will soon open quarters at the corner of G and Sixth streets. This will give Grants Pass three banks.
