CORPORATION TAX NOT MEETING PREDICTIONS

Yield for Year Likely $22,000,000 Instead of $25,000,000 as MacVeagh Expected.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Corporation tax receipts for this year are going to prove a disappointment to the treasury. The estimate now is that they will reach $22,000,000 as against $25,000,000 thought probable by Secretary MacVeagh in December, and much larger amounts by officials having the collection of the tax in charge. The minimum estimate is based on the character of returns on which assessments are now being made; it may be increased somewhat, but not likely to any material extent.

From one district which it was thought would yield $3,000,000 revenue but $750,000 will be collected, and from another from which $1,750,000 was expected only $500,000 in assessments have been made. The estimate is that the city of New York will yield $3,500,000.

Because of the popular interest in the tax collections, the treasury, beginning May 1, will announce daily the payments on that account. Only small amounts have been paid so far for the double reason that the assessments are not collectible until June 30 and corporations are availing themselves of the use of tax money until that time. Then, too, the uncertainty as to the decision of the supreme court on the constitutionality of the law operates to delay payments. Assessments to date on account of the tax aggregate $19,145,476.

WILL FENCE ALONG MEXICAN LINE

Government to Erect Barrier to Keep Mexican Cattle From Bringing Cattle Pests Into United States.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—A barbed-wire fence with which to keep out the Mexican cattle tick is a queer expedient for which the bureau of agricultural permission. The fence needn't be made of mesh small enough to keep out the insects.

But there must be a barrier to keep the tick-infested Mexican cattle off Uncle Sam's territory. Otherwise American cattle growers find their herds full of the pests.

The bureau asked congress to grant an appropriation to do the fencing clear along the international border line wherever natural conditions do not constitute an impassable barrier for cattle.

SAID HE WAS A STEER WOMAN LASSOES HIM

Ropes Man and, Using Water Plug for Snubbing Post, Holds Him Until Police Arrive.

PUEBLO, Col., May 7.—Because he announced that he was a "rip-snorting roarin' Texas steer," and a plucky woman lassoed him as a result, a man who gave the name of John Jones is in jail here today awaiting trial on the charge of disturbance of the peace. "Jones" toured the residence district late yesterday and his peculiar antics frightened a number of women. Finally he arrived at the home of a ranch bred woman, and announced that he was a "rip-snorting, roarin' Texas steer." Without more ado the woman secured a clothesline and acceded the "steer" proper western treatment, by lassoing him. She then tied him securely to a water plug and kept him there until the police arrived.

If some of today's "To Let" ads had not been printed, some of today's ad readers would say still longer in unsuitable homes. Haskins for Health.
