"I'm interested, because I have a collection of plaster hands at my house, and there's one with a long little finger that the candle girl noticed. Is her cousin's little finger really very long?"

"It's pretty long," said Bonneton. "I used to think it had been stretched in some machine. You know he's a wood-carver."

"Bonneton," continued the detective mysteriously, "I don't know whether it's from her dream or is some other way, but that girl knows things—that she has no business to know."

"Then, briefly and impressively, Coquell told of the extraordinary revelations that Alice had made not only to him, but to the director of the Sante prison. She possessed of dangerous knowledge, and I want to know where she got it. I want to know all about this girl."

Bonneton shook his head. "We know very little about her, and the queer thing is she seems to know very little about herself. I believe she is perfectly honest. Anyhow, her cousin is a stupid fellow. He comes on from Brussels every five or six months and spends two nights with us—never more, never less. He eats his meals, attends to his commissions for woodcarving, takes Alice out once in the afternoon or evening, gives my wife the money for her board, and that's all. For five years it's been the same. I've noticed she's nervous just before his visits and sort of sad after them. My wife says the girl has her worst dreams then."

"I have it!" Coquell exclaimed presently. "Tell me about this man Francis?"

"Francis?" answered the sacristan in surprise. "Why, he helps me with the night work here. He takes two meals with us a day."

"Ah! Do you think he would like to make a hundred francs by doing nothing? And you would like to make 500?"

"Five hundred francs?" cried Bonneton. "Don't be afraid," laughed the other. "When do you expect the wood-carver?"

"He'll be here next Wednesday."

"Next Wednesday," reflected Coquell. "He always comes when he says he will?"

"Always. He's as regular as clock-work."

"And he spends two nights with you?"

"Yes."

"That will be Wednesday night and Thursday night of next week?"

"Yes."

"Good! Now I'll show you how you're going to make this money. I want Francis to have a little vacation. He looks tired. I want him to go into the country on Tuesday and stay until Friday."

"And his work? Who will do his work?"

Coquell tapped his breast. "I will take Francis's place. I'll be the best assistant you ever had, and I shall enjoy Mother Bonneton's cooking. None of them will know me. You won't know me yourself."

"Ah, I see," nodded the old man wisely. "You will have a disguise."

"I shall come on Tuesday. When do you want me?"

"At 6 o'clock," answered the sacristan doubtfully. "But what shall I say if any one asks me about it?"

"Say Francis was sick and you got your old friend Mathieu to replace him for a few days. I'm Mathieu!"

"You wouldn't get me into trouble, M. Paul?" he appealed weakly.

"Papa Bonneton," answered Coquell earnestly, "I have never shown you anything but friendship? When old Max died and you asked me to lend you Caesar I did it, didn't I? And you know what Caesar is to me. I love that dog."

M. Paul held out his hand frankly, and the sacristan took it with emotion.

"That settles it," he murmured. "I never doubted you."

"Then it's understood. Tuesday, at 6, your friend Mathieu will be here to replace Francis." The detective rose to go. He moved toward the door.

"Oh, I forgot about the dog. Tignol will come for him Tuesday morning with a line from me. I shall want Caesar in the afternoon, but I'll bring him back at 6."

"All right," nodded the sacristan. "He'll be ready. Au revoir until Tuesday."

"Things are marching along," smiled Coquell some minutes later to Papa Tignol as they rolled along toward the Eastern railway station. "You know what you have to do. And I know what I have to do. We meet Tuesday at noon near the Auteuil station beneath the first arch of the viaduct."

Coquell had certainly chosen the busiest end of Paris for his meeting with Papa Tignol.

Their rendezvous was at noon, but two hours earlier Tignol took the train at the St. Lazare station. And with him came Caesar—such a changed, unrecognizable Caesar! Poor dog! His beautiful, glossy coat of brown and white had been clipped to ridiculous shortness, and he crouched at the old man's feet in evident humiliation.

"It was a shame, old fellow," said Tignol consolingly, "but we had to obey orders, eh? Never mind. It will grow out again."

Leaving the train at Auteuil, they walked down the Rue la Fontaine to a tavern near the Rue Mozart, where the old man left Caesar in charge of the proprietor, a friend of his. It was now a quarter to 11, and Tignol spent the next hour riding back and forth on the circular railway between Auteuil and various other stations. He did this because Coquell had charged him to be sure he was not followed. Finally, after an amusing adventure, he met Coquell, who had disguised himself so cleverly as to deceive even Papa Tignol himself. Going to a room in the Rue Pousin, Coquell changed his disguise very materially, while Tignol gave him the latest news from his mother, who sent word that she was praying for his safety. Tignol later went out and procured the dog Caesar. The men then walked in the Bois toward Passy, and Coquell recounted important discoveries he had made in Brussels regarding Groener, the woodcarver.

ORDINANCE No. 328.
An ordinance assessing the property adjacent to and benefited by the eight-inch lateral sewer constructed along West Eighth street for the cost of constructing the same and providing the manner of carrying said assessments into full effect.

The city of Medford doth ordain as follows:

Section 1. Whereas, the council did heretofore provide by ordinance for the serving of the owners of property adjacent to and benefited by the construction of the lateral sewer hereinafter described to appear before said council and show cause, if any, why said property should not be assessed for the construction of said sewer, and did fix a time for hearing any such protests, which notice was given in accordance with said ordinance more than ten days before the beginning of the construction of said sewer, but no protests against said construction or assessment of the cost thereof was made by anyone and said sewer was, by said council ordered constructed.

And whereas, the cost of the construction of said sewer has been and hereby is determined to be the sum of $356.40.

Now therefore, the said city doth ordain and declare that each parcel of property described below is adjacent to and benefited by that certain lateral sewer eight inches in size, constructed on West Eighth street from Elm to Washington street and that the proportion of said cost of said sewer which each of said parcels of land is the amount set opposite the description of each such parcel below, that each of said parcels is actually benefited by the construction of said sewer, and that said several amounts represent the proportional benefits of said several parcels from said sewer. And each of said parcels is hereby assessed the amount set opposite its description below for the construction of said sewer.

ASSESSMENTS FOR AN EIGHT INCH SEWER ON WEST EIGHTH STREET, FROM WASHINGTON STREET TO ELM STREET.
Assessment No. 1.—Bullock, Lot 5, block 1, Highland Park addition to the city of Medford, Oregon; frontage 141.44 feet on the north side of West Eighth street, and described in Vol. ... county recorder's records of Jackson county, Oregon; 141 feet, rate per foot 63 cents, amount $89.10.

Assessment No. 2.—H. H. Croft et al., Lot 11, block 1, Highland Park addition to the city of Medford, Oregon; frontage 141.44 feet on the north side of West Eighth street, and described in Vol. ... county recorder's records of Jackson county, Oregon; 141 feet, rate per foot 63 cents, amount $89.10.

Assessment No. 3.—H. H. Croft et al., Lot 1, block 3, Highland Park addition to the city of Medford, Oregon; frontage 141.44 feet on the north side of West Eighth street, and described in Vol. ... county recorder's records of Jackson county, Oregon; 141.44 feet, rate per foot 63 cents, amount $89.10.

Croft et al., Lot 8 block 3, Highland Park addition to the city of Medford, Oregon; frontage 141.44 feet on the north side of West Eighth street, and described in Vol. ... county recorder's records of Jackson county, Oregon; 141.44 feet, rate per foot 63 cents, amount $89.10.

ORDINANCE No. 327.
An ordinance assessing the property adjacent to and benefited by the six-inch lateral sewer constructed along West 12th Street for the cost of constructing the same and providing the manner of carrying said assessments into full effect.

The City of Medford doth ordain as follows:

Section 1. Whereas, the Council did heretofore provide by ordinance for the service of the owners of property adjacent to and benefited by the construction of the lateral sewer hereinafter described to appear before said council and show cause, if any, why said property should not be assessed for the construction of said sewer, and did fix a time for hearing any such protests, which notice was given in accordance with said Ordinance more than ten days before the beginning of the construction of said sewer, but no protests against said construction or assessment of the cost thereof was made by any one and said sewer was, by said Council ordered constructed.

And, whereas, the cost of the construction of said sewer has been and hereby is determined to be the sum of $724.50.

Now, therefore, said city doth ordain and declare that each parcel of property described below is adjacent to and benefited by that certain lateral sewer six inches in size constructed on West 12th Street, from Newtown to Peach, and that the proportion of the cost of said sewer which each of said parcels of land should bear based on the benefits derived respectively by said several tracts of land is the amount set opposite the description of each such parcel below, that each of said parcels is actually benefited in the amount set opposite its description below by the construction of said sewer, and that said several amounts represent the proportional benefits of said several parcels from said sewer.
