

Miss Mary Harriman, Her Fiance and Rejected Suitor.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Harriman, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, to Charles Cary Rumsey brings to light a romance of interest. Society has been sure that Miss Harriman would marry Robert W. Goelet, as he was the choice of Mr. Harriman, who made him his traveling companion on his tours of the country. But Miss Harriman met Mr. Rumsey, who is a sculptor of promise. For four years Mr. Rumsey, who is thirty years of age, a golf and polo player as well as an artist, has been quietly paying court to Miss Harriman.

DICK FERRIS IS WILLING TO GIVE MUCH FOR FIGHT

Says He Will Take Big Mill Off Hands of Gleason and Rickard and Will Pay Them $200,000—Will Pull It Off in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 17.—If promoters Rickard and Gleason are discouraged over their apparent inability to secure a battle ground for Johnson and Jeffries, Dick Ferris is willing to give the promoters $200,000 and take the fight off their hands.

When it was reported here that it would be impossible to stage the battle at Emeryville, Ferris declared he would go after the fight. He is willing to work in conjunction with Rickard and Gleason to bring the fight here, or make the venture on his own responsibility.

"If the fight cannot be held at Emeryville," Ferris said today, "it should come to Los Angeles. I stand ready to let Rickard and Gleason out with a big profit if they want to turn the thing over to me.

"So far as a battle ground is concerned here, there would be no difficulty. I could put the fight on either at Vernon or Arcadia, and I am certain there would be no interference bugaboo."

Ferris further declared that he will make an actual offer to Rickard and Gleason the moment he is informed officially that the Emeryville plans are off. He managed the recent Los Angeles aviation meet and appears to be sanguine of the financial success of his plan should it carry.

EMERICK EXPLAINS HOTEL MOORE BAR OPPOSITION

Opposition to the Hotel Moore license, states Councilman Emerick, is based upon the fact that the bar is not operated in connection with the hotel, but separately, in another building, and that there is but a far-fetched connection between the two.

"If the bar was in the same building and run as an orderly high-class hotel bar, there would be no opposition," states Mr. Emerick. "Nor would there be opposition if the bar got rid of the disorderly element that frequents it and annoys the neighborhood. The city cannot afford to police this place alone, and if ten cents was the minimum price of drinks there it would probably bar this hobo element. I voted for another saloon alongside because the additional license would provide funds for policing the west side."

MILLIONS VIEW DEAD EX-KING

English army, formed an impressive border for the funeral cortege as it passed along.

Course Only Mile Long.

The course was only a mile in length, but apparently the greater part of London's population had gathered to view the spectacle. The catafalque, covered with black and purple draperies, surmounted by the crown and scepter of England and surrounded by draped English flags, was started from the palace at 11:30 o'clock and arrived at Westminster hall at noon.

As the gun carriage, bearing the coffin, moved slowly along company after company of soldiers came to present arms while the colors slowly dipped in silent salute. No sound was heard from the crowded streets save the rumble of the heavy gun carriage wheels, the clatter of horses' hoofs and the light noise of carriages bearing the royal family of the English empire and the head of the British government.

Royalty Follows.

Alexandra of Denmark, the queen mother, widow of King Edward, rode in the first carriage, accompanied by her mother and the dowager empress of Russia. King George V. and the members of the royal household followed.

Then came officials of the army council, members of the army headquarters-staff, the board of admirals, field marshals and assistants.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, commissioner for the United States, was not in the procession today. Neither was any of the nine visiting European kings. Roosevelt and the visiting monarchs will appear in the final funeral procession Friday.

Services Held.

When the coffin arrived at Westminster the archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by Canon Wilberforce, conducted a short service. In the course of the services the combined Westminster royal chapel choir impressively sang several anthems.

At 1 o'clock the services had ended. The body lay in state from 1 to 4, when it was viewed by those invited by members of parliament. After 4 o'clock the public was admitted and thousands took advantage of the opportunity to file by the coffin.

Great Crowd Present.

So great was the throng at Westminster that this evening it was estimated by the authorities that one million and a quarter people had viewed the body during the day.

Pickpockets reaped a great harvest, in spite of detectives. Many were arrested.

The police have issued a warning to all persons to leave their valuables at home on Friday, as pickpockets are assembling here from all parts of Europe and America.

The decision of Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria to attend the funeral of King Edward brings the list of monarchs who will be in the funeral procession up to ten.

IRATE MOTHER GIVES MINISTER HEAVY BEATING

Pastor Gets Drubbing at Hands of Fiance's Mother—Woman Alleges Man Did Not Treat Her Daughter Properly.

VANCOUVER, Wash., May 17.—Rev. C. M. Smythe of the Methodist Episcopal church at Ridgefield, who was badly beaten several days ago by Mrs. C. N. Lane, the mother of Smythe's fiancee, is reported to be much better today.

Smythe is confined to his bed as a result of beating, and for hours at a time he has been delirious.

The beating took place after a church meeting Friday, when Mrs. Lane alleged Smythe had not treated Miss Lane properly.

The irate mother waited outside the church door, and when the minister stepped out she struck him over the head with a club. Her son-in-law, Rock Soden, then grasped the preacher's arms while Mrs. Lane continued to beat the helpless clergyman over the head until he was unconscious.

Both were arrested and fined for the assault.
