

FOLK SPEAKS AT CHAUTAUQUA

Former Governor of Missouri and Candidate for Presidency Star Attraction at Ashland This Summer—Many Speakers Secured.

Among attractions booked for the Ashland Chautauqua this year are the following:

Joseph W. Folk, former governor of Missouri and candidate for president, will be the star attraction. He speaks for the need of the hour. Belongs to that group of men who thrill armies with their purpose. His words are battles. One in "the greatest quarter in America." Who are the others?

Brush, one of the few great magicians. Varied programs, good for "grown-ups" and others. If you don't like to laugh, see your doctor, then come.

Dr. J. M. Dean, Seattle-San Jose. "Greatest Bible teacher on the coast." Will have charge of the Bible study and give addresses.

Dr. D. F. Fox of Chicago is a favorite, east, west, north and south. Highly endorsed by Dr. Gunsaulus, Newel Dwight Hillis and other great men. "I say, do not miss his lecture, unless you have a grudge against yourself."—Bishop McIntire.

The Pasmoro Trio, San Francisco and Berlin. Miss Mary, violinist; Miss Dorothy, cellist; Miss Suzanne, pianist. "The finest trio in America," which means good enough for us. The fourth engagement at our Chautauqua proving their ability to "make good" in popular as well as the best classical music. Don't miss these concerts.

George W. Brewster, one of the brightest of California's young orators.

Professor Eugene Knox, elocutionist and reader, second engagement. You will like him as a teacher or on the platform. He is A-1 and will be with the assembly 11 days.

Mrs. Raymond C. Brooks, Walla Walla, soloist. Mrs. Brooks will be again welcomed to our assembly as she is kindly remembered as the "little lady with a wonderful voice."

Professor I. W. Larimore, physical director in San Diego Y. M. C. A., believed to be the peer of any man in the United States as a trainer of boys and girls. Separate classes. Present during entire session.

The Sadler company of Chicago, composed of Dr. William Sadler, one of the foremost physicians of that city; Dr. Lena Sadler, Anna G. Kellogg, a trained nurse, and Miss Sarah Mildred Willmer, a first-class reader, making a "whole Chautauqua except the music." Timely health topics treated in an intelligent, up-to-date, scientific manner. Don't miss these entertainments if good health is worth having. Endorsed by leading physicians.

Send for booklet and circulars for detailed information of the above, and also as to classes, Round Table, W. C. T. U. and Y. W. C. A. methods, music, price of tickets, reduced fares, camping, etc. Plan to come and stay the entire session, as in the opinion of competent authority, it might add years to your life.

HESTON WILL VISIT HIS OLD HOME IN OREGON

(Grants Pass Courier.) Martin Heston, a Grants Pass boy who won national fame in the football field while playing with the University of Michigan college team, will visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Heston, about the middle of the month. Mr. Heston, with his wife and little son, have left Detroit, where he has a lucrative law practice, and will arrive at Coles, Cal., on Monday to spend ten days with his sister, Mrs. Gillette, then coming to Grants Pass to visit another ten days. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Heston will go to Coles Sunday for a few days. Mr. Heston has many friends in the old town he made famous by his phenomenal record on the football field.

DEMONSTRATION SPRAYING FOR CODLING MOTH

(By A. L. Quaintance, in Charge of Deciduous Fruit Insect Investigations, Department of Agriculture.)

The applications were made with a gasoline-power sprayer mounted on low trucks, with a 4-foot derrick, using 10-foot bamboo rods and double nozzles. In the operation of spraying a pressure of about 100 pounds was maintained and between 4 and 5 gallons of liquid were used per tree at each application.

The sprayed trees were separated from the untreated check trees by two rows of trees which were also sprayed to act as a barrier and to prevent the overflow of codling moth which might breed on the unsprayed plat during the summer.

The picked fruit was packed in two grades, the first grade bringing $3 per barrel, the second grade $2 per barrel. The windfalls and culls were also sorted into two grades. Those above 2 inches were used for canning and sold for 60 cents per hundred weight, while those of the smaller grade were used for cider-making purposes and sold for 30 cents per hundredweight.

The total amount of spray applied to the 14 trees was 182 gallons, about 13 gallons per tree for the three applications, at a cost of about 2 cents per gallon, or $3.64 for the 14 trees.

The time required to make the applications was about one and one-half hours for each time, or about four and one-half hours for the three applications.

Two men and a team were used in the work, and the wage paid was 40 cents per hour for man and team, and 17.5 cents per hour for the additional man, making the cost of labor $2.59 for the four and one-half hours, the total cost of labor and material being $6.23. Allowing $1 for gasoline and wear and tear on the machine, there was a total expenditure of $7.23. Deducting this amount, together with $15.30 (the value of the crop from the untreated check plat), from $61.05 (the value of the crop from the sprayed plat), there is a net gain of $38.52 on the 14 trees, or $2.75 per tree for the sprayed trees.

Demonstration Spraying in Ohio in 1907.

(By A. A. Girault.) An orchard belonging to Mr. A. P. Roubush, a prominent farmer and fruitgrower of Owensville, Clermont county, Ohio, and one of the largest in that vicinity, was selected for this spraying demonstration against the codling moth. This orchard consisted of about 400 trees of such well-known varieties as Ben Davis, Rome Beauty, Grimes Golden, etc. The orchard was in sod; the trees were vigorous, from about 25 to 30 feet tall, and well shaped, but needed thinning. During the past two or three years they had been treated with not more than two applications of Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead. The codling moth was a well-established pest in this orchard, and the owner was discouraged over the difficulties which he had encountered in combating it.

The plat selected for this work consisted of a single row of 27 Ben Davis trees, 10 years of age, in the southwestern portion of the orchard, and adjoining an orchard of young trees; in the center of the next row to the northeast 10 trees of similar variety and age were left untreated for the purpose of comparison. Four stone, 2 pounds of arsenate of lead, applications of Bordeaux mixture and an arsenical were made, using 5 pounds of lime, 5 pounds of blue and 50 gallons of water. Spraying was done on the following dates: May 10, June 14, July 25-26, and August 15.

The tabulated results show that the four applications gave about 94 per cent fruit free from codling moth injury and trebled the yield in bushels, while the total marketable crop in bushels was more than twice doubled. In the checks the percentage of wormy fruit in the total yield was 46.38 per cent. The contrast between the treated and untreated trees at harvest time was marked, even to the casual eye, because the latter had been partly defoliated by various leaf-feeding insects, and the attack of the codling moth and plum curculio had been disastrous to the fruit yet remaining; whereas the foliage and fruit of treated trees were in almost perfect condition. The four treatments also prevented over 50 per cent of the injury of the plum curculio, which is a more serious enemy of apples in this vicinity than is the codling moth.

The four applications required 450 gallons of the mixture at a cost of $9.016 per gallon, a total cost of $7.20 for the Bordeaux mixture and poison. Adding the cost of labor for 2 men at $1.50 per day and a team at $2 per day for one and one-half days, which is $7.50, the cost of the whole operation was $14.70, or at the rate of $0.54 per tree. Placing the price of apples per bushel at $1, the net returns from a single unsprayed tree would be $1.31, a net gain of about 95 cents per tree. As will be seen from the table, the crop in this orchard was quite light. With a normal crop the percentage of benefit would have been much larger.

ASK REMOVAL OF REGIMENT

Citizens of Fort Lawton Pass Resolutions Following Series of Insults to Women by Colored Troops—Private Arrested for Assault.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 7.—Demanding the immediate removal of the Twenty-fifth infantry, colored, from Fort Lawton, following a series of insults to women which culminated Saturday night when a negro soldier entered the home of Mrs. J. W. Redding in Lawton Park and attacked her, copies of resolutions passed by indignant citizens of the Lawton district at a mass meeting last night were forwarded to each senator and representative of the state at Washington today.

The city council likewise adopted resolutions to the same effect. Copies of these resolutions were also mailed to Washington today.

In communications which accompanied the copies, Washington's congressional representatives are requested to take the matter up with the war department and seek to have the negro troops transferred to some other garrison.

Private Emanuel Bletzer, Company D, is under arrest at the fort, suspected of having attacked Mrs. Redding.

He is under strong guard, as there has been much talk of doing him violence on the part of citizens residing near the barracks.

Bletzer was identified as the man who attacked Mrs. Redding by her 9-year-old son, whose screams attracted aid and frightened her assailant away. The man is being held in solitary confinement. He declares that he is innocent.

The Twenty-fifth infantry is composed of most of the colored troops who were discharged after the Brownsville, Tex., shooting affair. A few of the original members of the company are still in the company.

ELHART TRACT SOLD TO CALIFORNIA BUYER

R. W. Guse of Redlands, Cal., has bought the Elhart ten-acre orchard tract in South Ashland, a fine property bearing diversified fruits, and in other respects well improved. Mr. Guse is now on the ground and his family is expected in the near future. He was here about three months ago looking over the valley, and as Ashland seemed a desirable place to locate in he concluded on his second trip to cast his fortunes in this locality, the result being that he has secured the Elhart tract, which he will proceed to materially improve along horticultural lines. The deal involved a consideration of $6000, and was negotiated by Grant & Staples.—Ashland Tidings.

EDEN PRECINCT ITEMS

Charles Terrell of Brownsboro was in Talent Thursday.

Mrs. Joe Rader of Medford visited their new home in North Talent Friday.

Miss Effie Mills of Phoenix was in Ashland Friday attending the carnival.

Mrs. Palmer Lawrence of Phoenix was among those who attended the rose carnival at Ashland.

Mrs. C. Carey spent the week end at Ashland visiting her daughter and taking in the operetta and carnival.

Mrs. Joshua Patterson of North Talent spent Friday in Ashland.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. McDonald were carnival visitors at Ashland.

Mrs. J. D. Copeland, keeper of the county poor farm, went to Ashland Friday for a day off, and to take in the rose and strawberry carnival.

Mrs. J. E. Roberts and daughter, Miss Lulla, were among those who attended the festivities at Ashland Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. John Robison of Talent was in Ashland last Friday taking in the sights.

The coming week will see the commencement of the berry harvest in North Talent. And it is expected that all kinds of berries in this part of the valley will be finer than usual. The crop is not a heavy one, but the quality is unusually fine.

C. Cary and Noah Chandler have begun the tearing down of the old barn across the road from Carey's.

Joe Rader will soon commence the erection of a modern bungalow near where the barn has stood.

Frank Oatman of the Campbell and Nye orchard came down to C. Carey's after tomatoe plants last Saturday, and he says the big well he has been having dug for irrigation purposes is a complete success, an abundance of water being secured.

We are sorry to announce the death of Delbert Terrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Terrell of Talent. Mr. Terrell had been suffering for some time with liver trouble and had been at a California sanitarium for treatment. He was brought home when no hope was held out for his recovery. About a year ago your correspondent wrote an article to the Portland

Journal on the raising of alfalfa in the valley. The piece was read by Mrs. B. F. French of Pentleton, Or., who wrote for more information, and the result is that Mr. and Mrs. French are now located on one of our fine dairy and garden places, in North Talent, having bought out E. Gibbs, and taken possession of the place, which is a good one.

The stores that do not advertise can't sell so cheaply as those that do—for they make fewer sales, and their per-sale profit must be larger.
