FRATERNAL AND OLD LINE LIFE INSURANCE IN OREGON

SALEM, Or., June 25.—State Insurance Commissioner Sam A. Kozer has gathered statistics showing the life insurance business in the state. There are 30 fraternal life insurance companies doing business under the lodge plan, with a total membership of 59,904. The income of these for 1909 was $918,231.74, while death claims of $589,933.15 were paid. There are 37 old-line companies operating in the state, collecting during the same time, $2,388,438.97 in premiums on 55,058 policies, and paid in losses and return premiums $831,037.49. While the cost of old-line insurance in the state for the year was far greater than that of the fraternal, the latter carry insurance in excess of that of the old-liners to the amount of $11,879,000. An effort is being made throughout the United States by the insurance commissioners to secure legislation that will place the fraternal rates sufficiently high to make their safety beyond question, and to this end uniform legislation is planned in all the states.
