

MISS CROSSMAN TO PLAY HERE

Celebrated Actress Booked for Medford on Night of July 13 for One Performance in Play Called "Anti-Matrimony."

Discriminating theatergoers who both enjoy and appreciate light comedy acting of a high order will soon have an opportunity to indulge their tastes in this direction, for the most widely discussed comedy of several years is to be seen in this city with no other than the charming Henrietta Crossman as the star.

The play is called "Anti-Matrimony" and is from the pen of Percy MacKaye, whose plays heretofore have attracted eulogues from the critics for their brilliance as well as their seriousness. In this case, however, the dramatist has demonstrated his versatility by turning into fun many of his favorite bits of philosophy. The result is a comedy full of wholesome fun, the whole idea in a nutshell being the demolition of an erratic doctrine by means of that most powerful weapon, ridicule.

Miss Crossman has not followed her sisters in art by looking across the Atlantic for her material. Under the able guidance of her manager, Maurice Campbell, she has selected a play dealing with an American subject and written by an American author. A clergyman's brother goes to Europe and brings back many strange ideas with regard to marriage. He wishes to abolish it and berates the nuptial knot as the Gordian knot. Miss Crossman as the clergyman's wife lays plans to apparently fall in with his idea and thus by finally getting him to the point of confidence ridicules him and makes him acknowledge that the whole thing with him is simply a pose and that at heart he doesn't believe a word of it.

Never in her whole career has Miss Crossman had a play like the one in which she is at present starring. All the graces and charm that have made her the foremost American comedienne are called into play in "Anti-Matrimony," the funniest comedy that has been written in years.

Miss Crossman comes to the Medford theater for one performance Wednesday, July 13.

W. C. T. U. LADIES HOLD LAWN SOCIAL

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. gave a lawn social Thursday afternoon at the residence of Miss W. S. Jones. The affair was a great success, over 60 of the W. C. T. U. ladies were in attendance. Mrs. Webster delighted the ladies with a reading, delivered in splendid style, and Mrs. A. B. T. Church of Grants Pass gave an address. Mrs. Church was state evangelist of Illinois before coming to Oregon. She spoke with much feeling and power. She referred to Francis E. Willard and said she was reaching more people now through the temperance work than she ever did when she was here in the flesh. She said it means something to live today, so our works will be going on and on after life has gone out, and yield one's self to the master so he can work his will through us. It means something to stand out for the right. She told how Jennie Cassady started the flower mission by wanting to do something for others, and she was an invalid and could not move, only her hands. How the thought came to her to make bouquets and write scripture texts and tie to it by a bow of white ribbon and send to other shut-ins and the prisoners—how it would touch hearts that could not be reached any other way. Her life is still going on and on around the world, and reaching out for souls that are in darkness. Wear the white ribbon always, she said. It tells the story, it preaches a temperance sermon to all who see it. Wear it for Christ and be faithful and loyal. Never was there such a year as this. Have great love for others that we will take hold of every opportunity and work for a clean state.

Light refreshments were served on the lawn.

KITCHEN UTENSILS.

What a Bride Will Need in Her New Home.

Furnishing a kitchen seems a costly and difficult task to the newly married woman who must purchase every spoon, pan, brush, etc., for use in her new home.

That baking pans, those for muffins, cake tins, kettles for boiling and dishes for baking must be provided she knows and notes them down cheerfully, and broom, dustpan, pail and mop she will also think of, but she is not likely to provide a short brush for the stairs nor a second dustpan, the latter to be held in reserve in the kitchen, for the one that is used on a greasy floor must not be put on carpets.

Soap dishes over the sink and a soap cage to hold the small pieces must be on the list. At least one dishpan and a drainer are necessary, while a dishcloth and certainly six towels are indispensable.

A colander, a small and medium sized strainer, a double boiler, a frying pan and one deep kettle for fat, a broiler for fish and another for steak are among the necessities. Dishes for putting away food in the refrigerator will be needed, as will a rolling pin and board, and if desserts are to be made small molds must be bought.

A mat to put on the floor in front of a sink is a necessity, not a luxury, for this is a place that is often wet, and the floor cannot be kept clean if the wood is soaked all the time. A wooden roller and towels for it must be part of the equipment. A poker, coal hod—two of the latter, one used for ashes, the other for coal—will be needed, and possibly a shovel for coal will be necessary; also two or three chairs, a table and a cover for it and a lamp if electricity is the lighting agent, for economy must be practiced in the lighting of a house.

Wooden spoons and tin ones, large and small knives, forks, etc., may be bought in large numbers. Butter paddles for balls are wanted to make that table commodity look attractive. An ice pick, one garbage can or perhaps two and a brush and shovel for the sink are also necessary.

Even the tiniest laundry brings the need for clothespins, line and basket, as well as washboard and boiler, although in apartments where the water is very hot the tin cooker is not always required.

A young housekeeper whose new cook makes constant demands upon her for utensils will find after careful inquiry as to the reason for these requests that the woman is not asking for fancy articles, and so she should do her best to supply all pans, etc., that are needed every day.

The Fascination of Skiing.
In Norway skiing is a means of getting about as well as a fine sport during a great part of the year. And in our own country where the weather conditions are propitious smart society women are going in for the fun of locomotion on these funny looking Norwegian skates. The costume illustrated is one to be worn by a girl in Canada this winter, where she expects to be one of a large skiing party.

To Avoid Wrinkles.
When carrying several blouses in a suitcase place them all on a padded coat hanger so that the width of the blouses will run along the length of the suitcase. In this way the crease from folding will come at the waist line and will not be seen when the blouse is worn. The hanger will be found useful at the journey's end, since the blouses will be hung on it during the visit.

To keep a plaited skirt fresh looking baste all the plaits in place before packing. This will obviate the necessity for pressing it at the end of the journey.

Throughout the trunk or suitcase lay a roll of crumpled tissue paper within the fold of every garment to keep the sharp crease from forming and save your paper for the home journey if you are a provident being.

ROGUE RIVER VALLEY CANAL COMPANY

FRED N. CUMMINGS, Mgr

Every day last week visitors saw the peaches at the Fish Lake ranch, raised by irrigation in the very heart of the so-called desert; berry bushes fairly breaking with their burden of fruit, and vegetables as big and healthy looking as any market gardener could wish to raise.

Those who knew the great possibilities of irrigation, and in the past year have boosted for irrigation in the valley congratulated us upon the splendid showing, and those who had doubted were convinced.

The Rogue River Valley has everything a little more favorable for the raising of fruit than any district in the country, but the rainfall is not sufficient for the best results. A little more water when it is needed is the certain assurance for bountiful crops and irrigation furnishes this assurance.

The Rogue River Valley Canal Company's system is the largest system of irrigation in the Rogue River Valley and when completed will irrigate 55,000 acres of orchards and undeveloped orchard lands through 389 miles of main canals and laterals.

The water storage of the system is located at the foot of Mt. McLaughlin where the waters of Fish Lake and Four Mile Lake are impounded by huge dams that will conserve the pure mountain water from the melting snows, and deliver it through the system of canals to serve the orchardists, and raise the bumper crops that will make the Rogue River Valley the best and most famous fruit district in the world.
