This will give the bank a building 140 feet in depth and will give that institution ample room on the lower floor for their business. Howard Bros. are busy clearing the ground for the construction of their projected business block at the corner of Sixth and Central avenue. The outbuildings on the lot have been removed and as soon as suitable locations for the two dwellings on the premises can be found they will be removed and the excavation will commence in earnest.

ASK NEW JURY IN RAWN INQUEST

CHICAGO, July 22.—Accident insurance companies holding policies amounting to $105,000 on the life of Ira G. Rawn, railway magnate, today demanded another coroner's jury alleging that Foreman Hatley of the jury chosen to serve Monday is disqualified because of his friendship for the Rawn family. The life insurance companies announced that they would pay $40,000 insurance to Rawn's beneficiaries, no matter what may be the verdict of the jury. The funeral of the railway president will be held this afternoon.

POSTPONE RAILROAD RAISE TILL NOVEMBER

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—Following a conference today between Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Chairman Hooper of the Western Trunk Lines association it was announced that the proposed rate increases on western railroads will be suspended until November 1. This action is in accord with the desire of the commission to investigate the reasonableness of the proposed rate increases before they become effective.

INTEREST RATE STOPS SALE OF WATER BONDS

HOOD RIVER, Or., July 22.—Yesterday afternoon was the time set by the city council to open the bids for the municipal water bonds and when the time came but one bid, that of S. A. Kean & Co. of Chicago, had been received. These brokers offered a premium of $990 for the $90,000 issue, but in their proposal named the securities as bearing 6 per cent while the council advertised to sell 5 per cent bonds.

BOY, 21, ASKS $50,000 FOR HIS BROKEN HEART

Brings Breach of Promise Suit Against Heiress Who Refuses to Marry Him—Girl Laughs at His Protestations—Letters Shown.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The suit of Russell Griswold, 21, for $50,000 damages for breach of promise against Miss Helen Woodruff Smith of Stamford, Conn., heiress to several millions, was characterized as "blackmail" today by the young lady. Miss Smith freely discussed the suit as she was preparing to leave for a cruise on the yacht Viking. "Griswold published my letters to him, and they speak for themselves," she said. "They are letters from a patroness to a protegee kid—a mere boy. "I was only joshing in my letters, and if I mentioned love, it was only puppy love. I had no thought of marrying him and did not promise to marry him. "I wouldn't marry the finest man in the world, and this nasty little turncoat is hardly a man, is he?" Then followed several references to young Griswold in which the expressions "creature," "presumptuous little cad," "bounder" and "beggar" were features. "I educated and practically raised Griswold," continued Miss Smith. "He is a foolish boy and has been ill advised." Griswold today published more letters attributed to the girl. One of the extracts reads: "Be sure and destroy the evidence of my whereabouts and do not say I am here or anywhere. It were best to say, like Evelyn Thaw, that you 'don't know.' "I think I'll take a 'Golden Gate' or some other price drink. Maybe it will open the way to the 'sweet presence a good diffuser,' but thoughts affectionate so often occasion that presence that there will be nothing new about it except the drink Meiner Slegfried." Another portion of the letter reads "Ye Gods! Kid, just finished the job. It might have been the other way, but, thanks to your help, it did not finish me. 'Tis hard to kiss you, sweetheart, when the last kiss means goodbye." Later this occurs: "With this goes two handkerchiefs. Not for tears, but to wave when we're in sight; not to flirt with, but to repose in Ruzzie's pocket, to be used after soda and the like." Griswold when told that Miss Smith had caustically criticized him, exclaimed: "I expected that she would not like the thing to become public. Of course she is mad. But how about my feelings? She had no thought of them when she flatly refused to marry me after keeping me dangling after and adoring her ever since boyhood. She made me suffer; now let her suffer for it."

ARREST STOPS HONEYMOON

Jewelry Salesman Arrested for Felony Embezzlement While on Wedding Trip—Bride Kisses Groom Good-Bye at Prison Door.

PORTLAND, Or., July 22.—The honeymoon of William T. Anderson, a San Francisco jewelry salesman, was rudely shattered today by Portland detectives who arrested him on a felony warrant from San Francisco. Anderson was arrested at the Union depot. His bride of a few days, a petite blonde, kissed him goodbye at the jail door and then went weeping to a hotel to await the outcome of the trouble into which Anderson has been plunged. Anderson protested against arrest and asserted that he was not guilty of crime. He sent a telegram to a brother in San Francisco asking him to see Chief of Police Martin. Anderson was fashionably dressed and wore a number of diamonds. He refused to discuss his case here. SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—The police were notified this morning of the arrest in Portland of William T. Anderson, wanted here on a charge of felony embezzlement preferred by J. P. Woodson, a diamond dealer. According to Woodson, Anderson was employed by him as a salesman, and as such had entrusted him with a number of diamond rings. Becoming dissatisfied with Anderson's work, Woodson said he instructed him to come in and turn over the samples on Thursday night. Anderson failed to appear at the appointed time, and Woodson notified the police, who learned that Anderson had bought a ticket to Portland. The Portland police were notified.
