TWO MILLION HOMELESS.

land towns have suffered great damage.

Dyke in Danger

The Gongogawa, a great dyke on the Tongogawa river, is in danger of collapse. The authorities are using every means at hand to prevent the great dam from caving in and loosening millions of gallons of water from the already rain-sodden city.

Conditions in the capital are worse than during any great flood of recent times in Japan. The city has grown to such an extent that much of the lowland is built with brick or bamboo houses, inviting the destruction that is being visited on it by the elements.

All the low-lying districts have been flooded and the inhabitants, without food or shelter, are in desperate straits.

ROGUE RIVER FRUIT BEST.

every fruit section of repute in the United States. He awards to the Rogue River valley the palm of supremacy in the raising of high quality fruit.

"This is a wonderful valley," stated Mr. Dennis, "and your fruit is always in demand. No other section on the globe enjoys as splendid a reputation in England as does this valley. Your fruit arrives in England in the very best of condition and its quality is unsurpassed."

"Regarding prices for this year, I believe that they will be materially better than those received last year, as the fruit is of better quality. I am delighted with the valley. The fruit is in splendid condition, is uniform and gives promise of being equal to its quality in former years. The groves are beautiful."

"Medford is a wonderful little city, quite the finest I have yet found in America."

The firm of which Mr. Dennis is the head has the finest distributing system in England. They own warehouses in the four large seaports—London, Southampton, Liverpool and Glasgow, as well as warehouses and offices at Lenton, in the heart of the manufacturing district of England. The system for distribution which has been built up is elaborate and they do much the largest business of any similar firm in England.

Mr. Dennis was born near Boston, Lincolnshire, in 1855, and is the eldest son of William Dennis, J. P. In his 45 years he has already gone far on the high road to success and distinction. A Knight of the Red Eagle of Germany, and an officer of the Legion of Honour of France, he is a director of W. Dennis & Sons, Ltd., of the Dennis Estate, Ltd., and of other land companies. He is a member of the tariff commission founded by Joseph Chamberlain in 1904, chairman of the Lincolnshire agricultural railway rates committee and a member of the council of the central chamber of agriculture, and has on several occasions been asked to contest a seat for parliament.

BIJOU TONIGHT

A program of unusual merit will be given this evening, when the 3000 feet of motion pictures will be shown, each picture is a novelty in itself. Harry Blanchard, who has become a great favorite the past week, will be heard in new songs, making a feature of the song, "Asleep in the Deep," a song that takes a voice of unusual range to sing. He will also sing by special request, "Dear Old Girl." Mr. Blanchard has had the distinction of having one of the best-known singing teachers in Medford pronounce his voice perfect, and having complete control of every note.

The managers have on the road some of the most historical pictures ever shown of the past and present.
