You may form mental impressions of the sort of people hunting work in this city today by reading their want ads,

YOUR NEXT POSITION may advertised today.

The next furnished room you'll live in is probably advertised in another column. Look for it among the want ads-if it's something that ought to have been advertised. Write for interviews to those work-hunters whose ads impress you most favorably. To know instantly whether an ad is really important to you is a fine sort of business ability,
