"LADY WITH THE RED HAIR IS NO MYTH," SAYS TOM LAWSON

Declares He Knows Identity of Titan Haired Beauty Who, According to Mrs. French, Nearly Lured Heinze to Ruin.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—"I cannot imagine a more interesting national episode than the one which would bring the 'lady with the red hair' and her storehouse of national and international scandals into the limelight," said Thomas W. Lawson today, declaring that he knows the identity of the Titan-haired beauty who, according to Mrs. Lillian Hobart French, nearly lured F. Augustus Heinze to ruin.

The mysterious woman who induced the prospective opponents of several financiers to tell her secrets which brought about their ruin; the unknown siren who cheated a "trust-owned" United States senator, and who allayed an international scandal at Washington over the sale of an island to the United States, was first mentioned by Mrs. French, who is suing Heinze for $25,000. Lawson, who, at the time, was in a position to know, declares that the lady with the red hair accomplished greater feats than worming official secrets from ambitious millionaires for the benefit of a powerful coterie.

"She has been a mighty factor in state, federal and international affairs," said Lawson. "I remember the conference which Mrs. French tells of between Heinze, H. H. Rogers (now dead) and myself, and others at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. It was before I had broken with the 'System'. Heinze had held up the whole situation and was forcing us to settle.

"There was no hesitancy on the part of the 'system' gentlemen in using their secret agent—the lady with the red hair—whenever they found a susceptible man. Of her relations with Heinze I know nothing. "But I am surprised that the lady did not come before the public before, as she is a mighty factor in national affairs, and owing to her powers in a three days and nights' seance of politicians at a Union Square hotel, a few years ago, a federal senatorship was decided.

"Again in an international complication involving the sale of foreign island territory to the United States, in which an international scandal had started, this woman's blandishments smoothed the troubled waters."

Lawson further discussed the action of Heinze in forming the Amalgamated Copper people into a settlement during the copper war, and recalled a Waldorf-Astoria conference where $12,000,000 was paid to Heinze, whose control of the situation lay in his domination of the Montana state government.

HEAVY FLOOD LINCOLN, NEB.

Eight Inches of Rain Fell in One Night—Hundreds of Homes Filled With Water—Rescuers at Work in Boats.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 29.—East Lincoln became isolated by a flood today caused by a sudden rise in the waters of Antelope creek. The streets were submerged to a depth of five feet. The water entered hundreds of homes and the occupants were compelled to flee to upper stories.

Rescuers put out in boats to save persons caught in the deluge. It is feared that several lives were lost, but no fatalities had been reported at noon.

The weather bureau reports a rainfall of eight inches last night.

sociation.

The colonel's afternoon was a busy one. After the speech at the Auditorium he was scheduled to address briefly the special session of the Colorado legislature in the house chamber, and after that he rushed back to the Auditorium to speak before the Spanish War Veterans' association.

Tonight he will be the guest of honor at a banquet given by the livestock men. Fifteen thousand persons were in the hall when the first address was delivered.

Statue for Remington.

Roosevelt expressed his delight at the hospitality shown him by the people of Cheyenne. He said he had enjoyed himself there immensely.

He expressed his gratification over the movement started here today to raise funds for a statue to Frederick Remington at the national capitol. It was proposed that all money be transferred to Roosevelt as trustee and that Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, supervise the other details. Several hundred dollars already have been subscribed and checks given to Roosevelt.

Roosevelt insisted that tonight's dinner be informal. There are to be no spike-tailed coats or other marks of eastern convention. He wants simply to meet the boys and talk to them at a plain dinner, he said. He declared that it should be informal, as it would be more comfortable to eat in "everyday fashion."

The dinner will be the largest gathering of cattlemen ever dining together in Colorado. Twelve hundred guests will be present. This afternoon Roosevelt delivered his regular dinner speech.

Conservation.
Mr. Roosevelt said in part: "This country has shown definite signs of waking up to the absolute necessity of handling its natural resources with foresight and common sense. The conservation question has three sides. In the first place the needless waste of our natural resources must be stopped. It is rapidly becoming a well settled policy of this people that we of this generation hold the land in part for the next generation and not exclusively for our own selfish enjoyment.

"In the second place the natural resources must be developed promptly, completely and in orderly fashion. It is not conservation to leave the natural resources undeveloped. Development is an indispensable part of the conservation plan. The forests, the mines, the water powers and the land itself must all be put to use. Those who assert that conservation proposes to tie them up depriving this generation of their benefits in order to hand them untouched to the next, miss the whole point of the conservation idea.

"Conservation does not mean depriving the men of today of their natural rights in the natural resources of the land. All it means is that we of this generation shall use our rights so as not to deprive those who come after us of their natural rights in their turn.

In the third place, so far as possible, these resources must be kept for the whole people and not handed over for exploitation to single individuals. We do not intend to discourage individual enterprise. On the contrary we believe the men of exceptional abilities should have exceptional rewards up to a point where the abilities are used to the detriment of the people as a whole.

Water Power.
"Unfortunately the realization has come too late as regards many of the power sites, but many yet remain with which our hands are free to deal. We should make it our duty to see that hereafter the power sites are kept under the control of the general government for the use of the people as a whole.

"These should remain with the people as a whole, while the use is leased on terms which shall secure an ample reward to the lessees, which shall encourage the development and use of the water powers, but which shall not create a permanent monopoly or permit the development to the anti-social or to be in any respect hostile to the public good. The national government only has the power to do this effectively, and it is for this reason that you will find these corporations which wish to gain improper advantages to be freed from efficient control on the part of the public doing all that they can to secure the substitution of state for national action.

"If we are foolish enough to grant their requests, we shall have ourselves to blame when we wake up to find that we have permitted another privilege to entrench itself and another portion of what should be kept for the public good to be turned over to individuals for purposes of private gain.

"Remember, also, that many of the men who protest loudly against effective national action will be the first to turn round and protest against state action, if such action in its turn became effective, and would unhesitatingly invoke the law to show that the state had no constitutional power to act."

Forest Service.
Colonel Roosevelt here discussed livestock conditions and range conditions in Colorado. Regarding the forest service he said: "The forest service has enemies because it is effective. Some of its best work has been met by bitterest opposition.

"For example, it had done a real service in blocking the road against the grabbers of water powers, and again by standing like a rock against the demands of bogus mining concerns to exploit the national forests. I have always done my best to help the genuine miner. But it is equally important to enforce the law firmly against that particular danger which makes its living off the public through fraudulent mining schemes." Concluding he said: "From the standpoint of conservation the east has wasted much of its own superb endowment, and as an American, as a lover of the west I hope that the west will profit by the east's bitter lesson and will not repeat the mistakes of the east."

and to aid the Koreans financially and commercially on the other.

The Japanese policy of meeting force with impassive persistence was never shown to better advantage than in the annexation of the hermit kingdom. Viscount General Terauchi left Tokio for Seoul in the middle of July. He moved rapidly and after a short time had suppressed the vernacular papers and issued orders for censorship of cables. The public was permitted to know little of what was taking place at Seoul.

Climax Not to Occur.

The situation at Seoul was similar to that at Tokio, in the early days of the Russo-Japanese war. A number of correspondents, including several sent out especially for the purpose from Europe and America, have spent idle weeks here waiting for an exciting climax that apparently will not occur.

The correspondents have received the most cordial treatment, but have learned little. Viscount Terauchi's instructions were explicit upon the points of entertainment of the journalists and the suppression of news.

Two months ago the impatient Koreans and the correspondents as well
