Half Million in Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The census bureau today announced the population of Cleveland, according to the federal census, is 560,663.

This is an increase of 46.9 per cent over the figures for 1900, and makes Cleveland the sixth city in the country in point of population.

HAWLEY'S FAITHFUL SERVICE.

CONGRESSMAN HAWLEY was elected through the direct primary law, yet he is opposed to the law which elected him and is the assembly candidate.

Mr. Hawley prints a list of the accomplishments of the Oregon delegation, insinuating that the results were his individual accomplishments, instead of those of the entire delegation, which also was elected by the direct primary.

Were Mr. Hawley's own accomplishments so small that he has to swell the list by adding those of the despised Statement No. 1 senators?

But why should Mr. Hawley crow so loudly over what "I have accomplished"? Isn't he supposed to deliver some goods for his $7500 a year and mileage?

Why does not Mr. Hawley add to the list his other accomplishments? Why does not he enumerate the number of times he came to the rescue of Uncle Joe Cannon in his battle with the insurgents?

Why does not Mr. Hawley enumerate how he stood in with the "gang" and voted for every measure advocated by the Aldrich crowd?

Why does Mr. Hawley not tell why he voted for the Payne-Aldrich tariff, which taxes poverty to swell the coffers of the rich?

Why does Mr. Hawley not explain why he voted the lead trust a protective duty of $42.50 on pig lead, when the cost of smelting a ton of lead ore is only eight dollars?

Guggenheim smelter trust a protective duty of $42.50 a ton on pig copper, when the cost of smelting is no greater than in other countries?

Why does not Mr. Hawley explain why he voted Aldrich's rubber trust such an increase of tariff that it is enabled to sell a $10 rubber coat for $20, and declare millions in dividends on watered stock?

Why did Mr. Hawley vote to double the duties on structural steel, so that the steel trust can further hold up builders?

Why did Mr. Hawley vote for higher tariffs on nearly all articles of general use in finished condition, so that the general public would be mulcted for the benefit of the trusts?

If Mr. Hawley has not faithfully served the "interests," no one ever did. Hence Mr. Hawley's campaign cry of "no interests to serve but the public interests" becomes simply campaign clap-trap, to fool the people.

DOLLIVER ON THE SITUATION.

IN DISCUSSING the political situation in the Independent, Senator Dolliver of Iowa states that the two great hoaxes of the past year were the discovery of the north pole by Dr. Cook and the revision of the tariff downward by the administration leaders.

Describing the making of the tariff, Senator Dolliver asks: "How long do we propose that these great interests, affecting every man, woman and child in the nation, shall be managed with brutal tyranny, without debate, and without knowledge and without explanation, by the very people who are engaged in monopolizing the great industries of the world, who propose to impose intolerable burdens upon the market place of our country, who do not hesitate, before our very eyes, to use the law-making power of the United States to multiply their own profits and to fill the market places with witnesses of their greed?"

Speaking of majority control, the Iowa statesman says: "It is a parody on our form of government to say that a body like congress shall be governed, not by a majority of the members, but by a minority of the majority party of its membership. But there are many who carry the doctrine further. They say the majority of the majority party ought to be dominated by the majority of a committee. They propose literally to release the intellectual capital of the congress by establishing a system of party majorities, until at length one man is delegated to say what congress shall do, and those who fail to fall in with that theory of government are not only to be put out of the fold by the party, but they are accused of treason against the fundamental principles of popular institutions."

This is Cannonism. It is also assemblyism. It is the theory of those who oppose direct legislation, of those who are fighting Statement One. It is the reactionary system of government. To perpetuate it, or rather to restore it, we have an assembly ticket in Oregon and an anti-Statement candidate in Jackson county.

THE WAIL OF JEZABEL.

THAT poor old Jezabel of journalism, the Portland Oregonian, is in the dumps. In spite of her every effort to belittle and ridicule it, insurgency is sweeping the country with a tidal wave.

The Oregonian has vigorously fought Poindexter. She has battled strenuously and lied persistently for Ballinger.
She has championed the assembly, which is largely her creation. She has led the attack upon Statement One and direct legislation, and now she is witnessing everything she has been contending for swept aside by the people.

Says the Oregon, dolefully: "Perhaps it is not worth while to try to do anything for the republican party, since the temper of the country obviously is that it shall be beaten, and beaten overwhelmingly and ignominiously in the current elections. The result in Maine foretells disaster in November in unmistakable terms. As Maine goes, so goes the nation."

In its analysis of the situation, the Oregonian hits everything but the true cause—the perversion of government for special interests, which reached its zenith in the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill—the disgust of the people with misrule and the awakening of the public to real conditions.

It is not a democratic triumph; it is an insurgent triumph—the insurgency of the thinking voters against existing abuses, and a most hopeful sign for the nation's future.

THE REAL ISSUE.

CAPTAIN M. F. EGGLESTON of Ashland, candidate for the republican nomination for representative, makes the clearest analysis of the political situation yet given in a few words. It is as follows:

"The people passed Statement No. 1 in 1904 by a vote of 66,285 for and 16,354 against it. Plainly it was an act of the republican party and it was designed to secure the election of that candidate for United States senator who received the highest number of the people's votes for that position at the general election next preceding the election of a senator in congress.

"It was not enacted to elect a republican, a democrat or a socialist, or a prohibitionist, but the person receiving the greatest number of votes. If the republicans of Oregon prefer a democrat for senator as their choice over the candidate of their own party, that is their privilege.

"I think the direct primary and Statement No. 1, which is a part of the primary law, have come to be the accepted law of this state. This is emphasized by the fact that in 1908 the people, by a vote of 69,668 for to 21,162 against, enacted that, 'we hereby instruct our representatives and senators in our legislative assembly, as such officers, to vote for and elect the candidates for United States senator from this state who receive the highest number of votes at our general elections.'"

This logic is unanswerable, yet we have a candidate for the senate who refuses to abide by the accepted law of the state, but places himself above it, in the desire to elect a partisan to office.

someone, somewhere

Of the thousands of people reading this paper there are at least a few who have an idea that they would like to engage in the Orchard business in a Real fruit country where the climatic conditions are ideal, both for trees and persons.

Of the thousands of places advertised to meet such conditions, very few can fill the bill when it comes to close investigation.

Of the very few that really can make good, the Rogue River Valley stands at the top. There is no spot on the globe that enjoys the Natural Scenic Beauty and perfect combination of soil and climatic conditions for apple and pear culture as exists here.

Of the many splendid properties in this vicinity none offer the advantages that can be secured in a selection of one and two-year-old trees, planted on the best of soil, that is offered in the subdivisions of the famous "Burtell Orchard." This block of young trees is being offered at $425 per acre on easy terms. Only two miles from Medford, about 100 feet higher in elevation than the City, splendid drainage, all tiled, land all one general slope, sub-irrigated, and immediately adjoining a block of bearing pears contain 33 acres which has produced thirty-one cars of fruit season of 1910.

GRAY, NOT LIND
FOR GOVERNOR

Editorial Writer on the Minneapolis

Journal and Former Mayor of St.

Paul Said to Be Choice of Democrats for Gubernatorial Race.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 15.—It was predicted here today that James Gray, an editorial writer on the Minneapolis Journal, and former mayor of St. Paul, will be the democratic nominee for governor of Minnesota instead of former Governor Joan Lind, who was nominated.

Gray, it was said, will be chosen by the state central committee at its next meeting. The leaders of the party have Gray's assurances that he will wage a vigorous campaign.
Gray had been endorsed by Lind, the convention nominee, who refused to run.

When Lind was in Portland, Or., recently he intimated that he would accept the gubernatorial nomination, and the semi-official announcement today that Lind really has withdrawn and Gray substituted is the inspiration for gossip among politicians who believed that Lind would finally consent to run.

TEDDY PLUNGES
INTO POLITICS

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—

Colonel Roosevelt will make his first political speech of the New York campaign at Riverhead today.
He will then go to Syracuse, where the campaign will be opened in earnest Saturday night. The colonel is scheduled to deliver the principal address of the Syracuse meeting.

Roosevelt is confident of controlling the Saratoga state republican convention. He is busy directing the framing of a tentative platform.
This, it is reported on good authority, will be distinctly progressive in character.

Concerning a report that he might yet accept the republican gubernatorial nomination, Roosevelt said to-day:

"The report is absurd. I have reiterated that I shall under no circumstances become a candidate for governor and my statement was final."

If there's nothing a want ad can help you to accomplish—you're leading too quiet a life!
