

FAREWELL TOUR OF BUFFALO BILL

Will Be as Complete in Every Way
as His Farewell Tour of Europe
—Due Here Next Saturday, September 24.

Colonel W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) announces his intention to retire personally from the public arena. He will bid adieu from the saddle to his patrons in every city visited. The commencement of the farewell tour was inaugurated at Madison Square Garden (the temple of amusement so long a point of interest to the New York public and visitors that is soon to pass away) with a most sensational success.

Colonel Cody's farewell tour of the continent will be as complete as his farewell tour of Europe. Each and every prominent city and town will be visited.

The experience of Buffalo Bill on the plains covers the era when the Louisiana Purchase was almost unsettled and the state of Texas and the western possessions acquired from Mexico were passing from the state of savagery to their grandly developed prosperity. In middle manhood he was a conspicuous figure in its real history. For thirty summers and several winters in the larger capitals, with the exception of a few intermittent Indian campaigns, he has been actively engaged in an instructive depiction of that once strenuous and picturesque epoch. This work has been recognized as marking a new departure in the shape of realistic entertainment. Its travels have been so extensive in Europe and America that it has become as familiar as it is popular.

Recognizing the changing conditions and the approach of Father Time, the old scout has decided to retire from the onerous duties and anxieties coupled with his personal appearance and supervision. To do so while still active and energetic he believes wiser, so that he may devote more time to his other interests in the west. These embrace promising agricultural, oil, coal mining and gold claim lands. The inroads that time has made on his old associates, both red and white, naturally assists in his coming to this conclusion.

The seductive influence of rural life has won him, as he says, "back to the land, back to the mountains, back to the valleys and plains, back to the occasional camp life, under freedom of the range, where the clock points to no hour for the opening overture for the performance to begin." On the coming visit of his Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East the old scout will bid us goodbye.

JUDGE COLVIG WILL RESUME WHERE HE LEFT OFF

(Valley Record.)

Hon. William M. Colvig announces that he will address the people of Ashland in behalf of his candidacy for the republican nomination for state senator at 8 p. m., Monday, September 19. This is his first political talk in Ashland since the one he delivered on the occasion of his changing from the democratic to the republican parties in the second McKinley campaign. It will be remembered that Mr. Colvig had gotten along in his discourse at Chautauqua assembly hall to the point where he gave a graphic description of himself tied to the democratic jackass. At this point the fire alarm sounded and everybody bolted from the building and left Mr. Colvig still hitched to the democratic emblem. Bill is as democratic as P. T. Barnum, and his posters announce that he wishes to have citizens of every political party to be present, also all candidates for offices at the coming election are invited to participate in the meetings. No doubt they will all be there.

As far as the public knows, Bill has only fraternized with the republican and democratic parties, and incidentally with two extinct organizations, the populist and free-silver republican parties. Whether he will draw the "color line" on the socialist or prohibition parties the poster does not say, though a free reading of the invitation seems to include all comers. As there is no extra charge for seats, there should be a full house present to see the political warhorse complete his job of extricating himself from the democratic donkey. This feature alone will be lots of fun for the children.

A store should be advertised as regularly as it is opened for business. A merchant who wouldn't close up for a while now and then "to save running expenses" shouldn't stop advertising now and then "to save expense."
