A MODERN SCALPER.

The Little Comedy That Was Played Between the Acts.

A little comedy between acts enlivened things at a Broadway theater one night last week. A middle aged man accompanied by his wife sat directly behind a pretty young girl and her escort. At the end of the first act the middle aged man went out for "fresh air." He came back bringing the smell of the fresh air and gay spirits with him. His wife gave him a startled glance, and like a flash her hand went up to his vest. There dangling from the top button was a bunch of brown, curly puffs. There was a dynamical second as the wife held the puffs in her white gloved hand and looked at them. Now she was not a jealous wife—just a common sense little woman, ready to meet an emergency. She looked at the heads about her. The pretty girl's back hair looked as if a piece had fallen out. The wife leaned over to the side away from the girl's escort and whispered. The girl slipped a hand down and back, and the wife stealthily laid the bunch of puffs which her husband had carried away on his vest button in the owner's hand. The latter kept them concealed, gently and artfully reached up, plinned them into place, and escort, watching the rising curtain, was none the wiser. —New York Times.

ROOSEVELT IS CHAIRMAN

the state committee, citing letters from Roosevelt himself declining the chairmanship.

Then omission of the former president was the signal for a bitter attack on the colonel by Abe Gruber, a delegate. Gruber's remarks was the signal for the animosities of the delegates in both factions to break forth, and they cursed and cat-called each other, so that the speaker scarcely could be heard and the voice of Roosevelt, who rose and stated that the attack on him might proceed, was drowned in the confusion.

Curse Each Other.

Balotting on the temporary chairmanship began at 2:30 p. m. Albany county led off with 28 votes for Sherman.

Delegate Hicks presented the name of Colonel Roosevelt as temporary chairman.

The motion to elect Roosevelt temporary chairman brought Abe Gruber to his feet with a bitter arraignment of the colonel. The Roosevelt men hissed and cat-called as the attack continued. The delegates of the two factions openly cursed each other.

Teddy's Face Flamed.

Roosevelt, his face aflame, raised his hand and shouted:

"Gentlemen, keep quiet. Let him talk. Each side should have a chance. Give them a square deal. Better order."

"Twelve years ago I warned the republican convention," cried Gruber, "against turning the White House into a shooting gallery. The advice was unheeded and since then the man who has ever since been shooting has seen the party divided, candidates defeated and business depressed."

"The apostle of Darringer practice, while president, abused Judge Humphrey for rendering a decision which to this day has been unrevoked. When Haywood and Moyer were tried the same shooter sought to influence the jury by holding up these leaders of labor as undesirable citizens."

CADETS ON STRIKE

though Burt was operated upon the next day in the hospital.

After the open break by the cadets at mess Saturday night, Captain Logan forced the corps to leave the mess hall at "double quick" and it is said forced the cadets to repeat the double quick for an hour thereafter. Sunday the cadets again refused to eat, Captain Logan repeated these tactics and kept them drilling until some of them nearly dropped from exhaustion and hunger, according to the report circulated outside of the academy.
