

YOUNG MAN SHOOT'S HIMSELF

Sick and Alone in Cabin in Southeast Corner of Jackson County, Joseph Brown Takes His Own Life.

Sick and alone in the cabin of a homesteader, named Oliver, three miles from Pokenama, in the very southeast corner of Jackson county, a week ago yesterday, Joseph Brown, a young man of about 39 years, with no known relatives, sat on a bed, adjusted the muzzle of a shotgun at his left breast, and attached a string to the trigger, which he pulled with his foot. The charged bored a frightful hole in his body and death must have been instantaneous. The tragedy occurred while Oliver had gone to Pokenama to get relief for the sick man, who had been suffering from hemorrhages of the lungs.

The coroner of Jackson county was notified and went as far as Trill, telephoning instructions from there as to the burial of the body in that vicinity at county expense.

Brown had worked for the Algomah Lumber company, operating the Pokenama mills, and after which he went to stay with Oliver on his claim for a while. He left no papers or information as to his history or relatives, the only word he dropped among his associates being that he had not heard from his folks for fifteen years.

TERROR SWEEPS PORTUGAL.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The downfall of King Manuel and the loss of the Portuguese throne was caused by a woman, Mile. Caby des Lisa, a French danseuse, according to a story told by high government officials here today.

Advices from the German embassy at Lisbon are to the effect that King Manuel flouted the woman in the faces of his followers and heaped jewels and money upon her so lavishly as to almost drain the Portuguese treasury. Manuel is alleged to have given her nearly a million dollars in jewels alone.

According to the story, he made no pretense of concealing his relations with his mistress. He lodged her at the palace and she accompanied him everywhere.

A Reveler by Night.

King Manuel frequently visited Paris, and it is reported that excursions to the underworld were features of these visits. Gaety marked the excursions, according to the officials telling the story here.

It was on one of these jaunts, it is said, that he met Mile. Des Lisa. Since then he has spent most of his time with her, neglecting the kingdom's affairs and disregarding the growing discontent of his subjects.

The king's personal extravagance and the extravagance of his mother and grandmother also added to the discontent, it is alleged.

Spain Ready for War.

SAN SEBASTION, Oct. 5.—The officers of the northern army corps are reported today to have received telegrams from Madrid ordering them to prepare for active service. The orders are taken as an indication that Madrid officials have advance information of the Portuguese revolution and are preparing to put down a similar rebellion in Spain by the most drastic measures.

Activity is noted in army circles throughout Spain and royalists are fearful that an uprising is imminent.

Couriers from Portugal assert that bloody fighting is in progress and that the revolutionists everywhere are attacking the royalists. The fighting which started in Lisbon has spread to other Portuguese cities.

England May Interfere.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Diplomats here believe that England is preparing to intervene in Portugal on behalf of King Manuel. King Edward was an ardent supporter of the Portuguese king, and it is believed that King George will follow his father's policy.

European royalty is fighting republicanism at every turn, and it is likely the monarchies will stand together, foreseeing that the effect of republican success in Portugal would be far-reaching throughout Europe.

who kept steadily on their course, passing under the draw. Martin had no way of stopping them, but he made a note of the occurrence in his "log."

Closing on Fiends.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—Finding the launch in Alameda creek in which 500 pounds of giant gelatine was carried from the powder works at Giant, September 23, the search for the three men who manned the craft was continued here today with added energy. The police believe they are closing in on the tracks of the men who may be responsible for the explosion which caused the destruction of the Los Angeles Times.

The nature of the clues furnished by Earl Rogers and Detective Burns, who are conducting the search about San Francisco bay, were not revealed by the authorities.

The police do not believe that the men who might have caused the explosion remained in Los Angeles after the charge was placed. They are of the opinion, however, that they were here for at least two days before the catastrophe.

Two men arrested yesterday as suspects are being detained.

Monument to Dead.

Plans are being considered today for the burial of nearly all the victims of the Times disaster in one large plot at Hollywood cemetery and to erect over their bodies a mammoth granite shaft upon which will be carved a record of the catastrophe in which they lost their lives, together with their names, constituting a Times "honor roll." The plan was suggested by General H. G. Otis, owner of the Times. He has offered to defray all expenses incident to the funerals and has asked the relatives of the victims for permission to erect the shaft.

Night Editor Churchill Harvey-Elder and J. Wesley Reaves already have been buried. The other victims will be laid away as fast as the work of identification can proceed.

More Bodies Found.

Another body, making a total of 16, was removed from the ruins this morning. It was identified as that of Grant Moore, a machinist.

Moore's body was the first recovered that was not charred beyond facial recognition. It was found near the north wall of the building. A handkerchief, clasped in both hands, was over the face. It is believed that he smothered before the flames reached him.

Four bodies were recovered during the night. Two of them were partially identified as W. G. Tunstall, a linotype operator, and Charles Haggerty.

All lie at the morgue awaiting burial.

The commission of dynamite experts appointed by Mayor Alexander to examine the ruins in behalf of the city probably will be able to pass upon the explosion today.

The excavators have almost reached the ground in the alley where the explosion is believed to have occurred. The experts then probably will be able to determine the nature of the explosion, giving the detectives further material to work with.
