

"THE CITY" TO BE SEEN TONIGHT

Play in Which Clyde Fitch "Came Back" Is Offering Tonight at the Medford—Is Gripping Drama—Great Second Act.

"The City," Clyde Fitch's great drama, will be seen at the Medford tonight and no doubt will prove a great attraction.

"The City" is the play with which Clyde Fitch "came back." After turning out "Nathan Hale" and "Barbara Frietchie" and one or two other plays with body and sentiment, Fitch degenerated into that long series of bright and chatty, but rapid comedies of manners with which his name is most often linked. So the critics, dear amiable creatures as they are, all told Fitch that it was beyond his ability to write a play with any real emotions or any real blood in it.

Fitch took up the deft and wrote "The City." The emotion and the red blood is there; some folks may think in even too generous a measure. It is not a play that children should witness. It gets too uncomfortable close to topics that are not discussed in mixed assemblages. There is no one obvious moral. Rather you may draw for yourself one of a half dozen good ones. Its psychology is deep; it is elaborate with emotion, with genuine human nature and with sympathy.

Second Act Great.

What makes the play grip its auditors so is its great second act. It is all action, and the best of action; there is thrill upon thrill; events pile upon one another with bewildering rapidity, and by the time the curtain goes down the audience is literally in a cold perspiration, gripping its seats and gritting its teeth to keep from crying aloud. The act is 40 minutes of masterful melodrama, and when it is over the actors and auditors alike are nerve frizzled and limp.

It is in this second act that there occurs the famous expression of profanity, never heard upon the American stage until Fitch wrote this play. Boston pronounced the line blasphemous and censored out. No other city has taken that view, because the line, daring as it is, does not jar as something inappropriate; it fits exactly with the scene; it is positively just what the young man who utters it would have said under the circumstances.

NEW MOTOR SUPPLY HOUSE ORGANIZED

Medford now has a complete motor supply house. With the opening of the Pacific Motor Supply Co., in the St. Marks' building on the west side, Medford is on the map as far as supplies or accessories for all kinds, classes and makes of automobiles. The room next the Rogue River Electric Co. building has been leased by the new company and a complete stock of accessories are now on display.

Every automobilist in the valley will welcome this new enterprise and wish them success. Heretofore it has taken a lot of time to send for many things that could not be procured here and now all the time and bother is cut out and all any autoist has to do is to call at this supply house and purchase what he wants at the same price he would have to pay in either Portland or San Francisco.

You are invited to call on the new firm and if they do not carry what you need they will surely be pleased to stock the same, provided, of course, that there is demand enough to warrant their so doing.

A. C. Howlett.

In the hurry and rush of business in my last I omitted to chronicle the most important event in the life of our railroad agent, Oscar Wright, and that was his marriage to Miss Eva Moore on the 17th inst. in the county seat. After their marriage they took rooms at the residence of James Jordan. The ladies of the town gave them a genuine charivari, and after wishing the young couple a long and prosperous journey through life they bade them good-night.

Charlie Thomas, who is engaged hauling for the Crater Lake road workers, has moved his family into the house vacated by his mother.

A. B. Zimmerman, one of our merchants, has commenced the erection of a house near his store for his family residence.

Among the rush of business there seems to be a complete lull in the political world, and if it was not for the notices of an election that have been posted we would hardly know that there was to be an election.

The P. & E. Railroad company are pushing on their work now during this pleasant weather as fast as they can. Mr. McDonald, the boss bridge builder, says that they will finish the bridge across Cat Tail by the 24th inst. and they have one more large bridge to build and some small ones and the work will be done to Butte Falls.

They have already commenced work on the depot building here and the curious ones are asking, "What has become of the new town where the wise ones were going to have the depot, etc.?"

Amos Bellows returned from Alaska a short time ago and is visiting his relatives in these parts.

Roy Cobble, the young man who accidentally shot himself while playing with a revolver, is getting along finely—can walk around without a crutch or cane.

Ray Willets, the mail contractor, who runs between here and Prospect, has so far recovered as to be able to carry the mail again.

There is the greatest demand for teams here that was ever known.

John Higginbotham of Big Butte came out last week for a load of corn.

Mr. Jewell, the fish hatchery man, came out and went to Medford last week, leaving his team here.

John Edsall and William Perry also came out, left their team and went to Medford on the cars.

Elvin Abbott, who is living with his mother on her farm near Hawk's sawmill, came out and spent the night here, taking back with him a part of their winter supplies.

Mrs. Cole, mother of one of the engineers on the P. & E., came out last week with her daughter-in-law, to visit her son and family, who have a room at the Sunnyside.

C. P. Briggs and E. Wheeler of Butte Falls came out Friday on the stage, went to Medford in a rig from the Sunnyside stable to attend a meeting of the stockholders of the Butte Falls-Medford Telephone company that was held Saturday.

Carl B. Neal and F. L. Carlson also came out from Butte Falls at the same time.

H. E. Kootz, who has charge of a crew of men on the government reserve, on the Crater Lake road, came out last Friday and went on to Medford. Mrs. George West came out with him from Prospect and took a room at the Sunnyside hotel. Mr. Kootz reports that they are getting along fine with the work this pleasant weather.

Butte Falls Items

Professor Wright, after attendance upon the institute has returned and resumed his school duties.

Professor Miller of the unsurveyed, was visiting in town during the week and reports everything progressing in his section and that his health is much better.

Roy Obleigh shot himself with a .22 caliber gun while fooling with it as he was sitting down. He was taken to Eagle Point and is under the care of Dr. Holt.

Howard and Amos Oughton, who left this point for Texas to join their father have returned here to reside, not liking Texas, and not finding conditions as good as in Oregon.

M. C. Mahoney sustained a painful injury to his left hand by having it come into contact with the nut at the sawmill.

Mrs. R. Bradshaw and children have gone to the valley for a visit with her friends.

Miss Edith Graham has returned from Grants Pass and Medford where she has been in attendance upon the teachers' institute.

Several strangers have been in town of late looking around for investments.

Joseph Geppert and Horace Geppert have returned from the hills and they were successful in bagging several fine deer.

William Gerig, V. P. of the P. & E. railway has been here looking over the railroad situation and thinks that by November 6 the train will be running into Butte Falls, as work is nearly done on all the large bridges and the smaller ones will not require much time. He is arranging for sites for several proposed railroad buildings and is anxious to push matters ahead before the wet weather sets in.

D. T. Richards has sold a lot to Messrs Ford & Wright for business purposes and these men will build a business house on the lot very soon.

Dr. Stewart, who has been visiting Portland and other points, has returned to his home.

J. P. Hughes will be the first merchant shipping goods over the P. & E. railroad to this point as he has a large lot of freight ordered shipped to Cameron, from which point he will transport it by wagon to his store in Zutte Falls.

J. P. Patton took Mr. Gerig and Mr. Mills down along the line of the railroad on Thursday to inspect the conditions there and to prepare for the early advent of the railroad.

Rev. Mr. Jones has returned from Medford, having gone there to meet his wife and son, who have returned with him and will soon be domiciled in the Presbyterian manse which is nearly completed and ready for occupancy.

Mrs. Ben Frelenburgh and family have taken up residence for the winter in their Butte Falls home where they will remain until spring and then return to the farm for the season.

WILD MAN ROAMS APPLAGATE HILLS

Officers Seek Milton Carter, Revengeful, Half-Witted Child of the Forest, Who Is Far More Savage Than Civilized.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Milton Carter, a half wild, half witted fellow, who roams the woods of the Applegate, on a charge of larceny. He is more savage than civilized; speaks with difficulty and very brokenly, and lives largely by his gun. His head and neck is covered with long hair, and about all one can see of his face is a pair of deep set eyes. He has long been considered harmless and a great many small thefts by him have been passed over, but of late has been a serious menace to the farmers of the Applegate.

Within the last month he broke into the headquarters of Forest Ranger Horace G. Whitney and stole a quantity of provisions, a valuable compass belonging to Uncle Sam, Whitney's commission, and other valuable papers, and his clothes. His half wittedness is shown by the fact that he immediately told everyone he met that he is a forest ranger and game warden and exhibited Mr. Whitney's commission to prove it. Several burglaries of cabins have been traced to him where he has stolen provisions and guns. He seems to have a mania for stealing all the rifles he can get his hands on. Several deputies are watching up the Applegate for him, and while the settlers have reported seeing him once or twice, they have not been able to find him.

He is possessed of a good deal of woods cunning, always goes armed, and as he has no regard for the law, may prove a hard man to handle when found. Farmers of the Applegate hesitate about giving information about him as he is revengeful and they fear him.

The advent of new stocks in a local store is always a news event of real interest to all people to whom that particular store is at all important.

Jack Can't Race.
SHEEPSHEAD BAY, N. Y., Oct. 25.—John Arthur Johnson may be champion of the world, but unless he shows more speed than he did in the first heat with Barney Oldfield, automobile racer, Oldfield's laurels will be safe.

'Time's Flight Turned Backward' SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss
COUNTY OF MONROE } ss
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Sworn to before me this 26th day of July, 1908.
