

APPLE MARKET DECIDEDLY WEAK

Northwestern Fruit Exchange, market bulletin No. 39, Portland, Or., Nov. 3.—The market is inactive and decidedly weak and is altogether in buyers' favor. Shipments from all over the northwest are very heavy and a great deal of the fruit is shipped by concerns having practically no facilities for wide distribution, which concentrates the offerings in a few of the larger markets and causes a generally weak tone to prevail. We are avoiding these markets as far as possible, and are pounding the trade all over the country with special reference to the small and medium size markets—but there seems to be plenty of fruit to go into and in consequence orders or offers are hard to draw. Jonathans continue to be a "Joah"—they are simply not wanted, and require low prices in order to move them. We would quote the market for strictly fancy Jonathans at the most desirable sizes at $1.25 top; the fancy grade, 1 to 1 1/2, choice, 75c to 90c. Spitzenbergs also continue to be hard to move at prices we have been asking, viz., $2 to $2.15. We cannot too strongly urge upon shippers everywhere at a time like this, to exercise unusual care in grading and packing their fruit. Nothing will contribute to market demoralization more than the shipment of ordinary or poor fruit. Remember, there is a tremendous supply of fruit of this kind produced in the eastern districts, and it is sheer folly for the northwestern to expect to compete with this kind of fruit with the heavy handicap of carriage charges. It will be understood, in submitting this report, that the Northwestern Fruit Exchange is at all times a "bull" influence and we are fighting day and night to give the trade confidence, encourage them to buy and to hold up values. We are simply presenting the facts because they are facts. The facilities of the exchange are fortunately extensive and adequate, and as a consequence the exchange suffers far less from adverse conditions than if the reverse were true.

These light lunches, well cooked and nicely prepared, are a joy and a satisfaction. The improvements in the service at the
