

1000 TAXICAB DRIVERS WALK OUT, BELIEVED GREAT STRIKE FORERUNNER

President Gompers in New York to Take Personal Direction of the Fight—He States That All Other Drivers Will Be Ordered Out.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The forerunner of what is expected to prove the greatest traffic strike in the history of New York came today when 1000 taxicab drivers walked out in sympathy with the union employees of the various express companies.

The executive council of the unions affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters was in session today and the sentiment was to force industrial peace immediately by tying up every wheel in New York and vicinity.

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor is here to take personal direction of the fight. He said today that following the taxicab drivers, other drivers of passenger vehicles had been ordered to be ready to go out.

The first move of the strike committee will be to prevent the delivery of fuel, with the result that the factories, shops and stores will be without power or heat as soon as the supply on hand is exhausted. The tying up of the coal yards will inflict suffering on 2,000,000 persons in the poorer sections of the metropolis.

The labor leaders, it is said, intend visiting upon New York a series of strikes that will be similar to the "plagues of Egypt." If the express companies do not relent the delivery wagon drivers will follow the coal drivers, with the result that the business of the big department stores will suffer loss of thousands of dollars.

The mail-wagon drivers, it is predicted, will follow the delivery men, if the express employers are still obdurate. Then the garbage men and ash men will be ordered to quit work. This will only be as a last resort and the final card. Will failure to remove the thousands of tons of garbage from the homes of New York a great epidemic will easily get a foothold.

CRIPPEN GETS BRIEF REPRIEVE

Will Not Hang Tomorrow as Sentenced—Probably Will Be Executed November 23, Although Exact Date Has Not Yet Been Named.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The execution of Dr. H. H. Crippen for the murder of his wife was postponed indefinitely today. The order of postponement indicated that Crippen would be brought to the gallows probably on November 22.

Crippen originally was sentenced to be hanged tomorrow, at Benton-hill prison. The home office ordered the postponement of Crippen's hanging. It was later announced semi-officially that Crippen would be executed November 23, unless Home Secretary Winston Churchill pardons the condemned man or commutes his sentence.

Scotland Yard detectives today declared that the postponement was in no way connected with a report from Philadelphia that Mrs. Crippen was alive and in hiding, as the result of a plot to cause her husband's execution. The yard authorities said they had not heard the rumor nor had they heard that Dr. Munyon's offer of $50,000 reward for information leading to the whereabouts of Mrs. Crippen.

Arthur Newton, Crippen's counsel, in framing a petition for clemency, addressed to the home secretary, asked either pardon or commutation. It is not believed that Secretary Churchill will interfere with the mandate of the courts.

Crippen was overjoyed when he heard of the postponement, saying: "I believe that something yet will intervene to prove my innocence."

YOU ARE GROWING YOUNGER MOTHER

BANISH THOSE GRAY HAIRS!

Kill the Dandruff Germs—Stop Hair Falling

Thousands of mothers are looking younger.—Their gray hairs are gone. The natural color has come back, and with it a new growth of soft, glossy, luxuriant hair. Why should you look old before your time, when you can look years younger by using

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Dandruff Cured

Three applications removed all the dandruff and left my scalp clean, white and smooth. Wm. Croak, Rochester, N. Y.

It is Positively Guaranteed to Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color

If other "so-called" Restorers have failed, don't give up hope, but give WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY a trial. You run no risk. If it is not exactly as represented, your money will be refunded.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

MISS E. A. ROSS, Sharon, Mercer Co., Pa.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

CIRCULATION

Water has a tremendous circulation all over the earth, but when it runs through a meter, we begin to value it.

There is perhaps more juggling with the word Circulation than with any other in the language. Some publications count each man in the composing, press and mailing rooms and postoffice, then allow five members in each family to which the paper goes for each copy printed, and call that circulation. Others send out thousands of sample copies and call that circulation. Still others print and stack away three-quarters of their editions, and that is another form of circulation. But paid circulation—the kind that costs real money to the reader—is true circulation. No man places any particular value on the thing for which he does not pay, and this is especially true of papers and magazines. Nine-tenths of the samples go unread into the waste paper basket. Wherein is the value to the advertiser? On the other hand it is a psychological fact that a man will read through a magazine for which he has paid, even though it be neither interesting nor instructive, on the principle that he is getting his money's worth. Here lies the especial value to the advertiser in every paid subscription.

The first time there may be all sorts of reasons why a man buys an article, but the second time there is only one—he wants it.

In all lines of business the best proof that anything possesses virtue in itself is its continuous sale to the same persons year after year. If an article is unsatisfactory to the buying public a new field must constantly be sought for its exploitation and the old abandoned. The newspaper with a circulation made up largely of those who have been subscribers for years is extremely strong through this following. It shows that its energies are exerted on its editorial end, and the people read it because they appreciate it. This makes it the best of advertising medium. The newspaper which secures large numbers of new subscribers every year and does not get renewals exhibits splendid activity in its subscription, but not in its editorial department. As an advertising medium it does not compare with the former, because people place confidence even in the advertisements of publications which they have tried and not found wanting. The history of circulation growth of the Mail Tribune is not equalled by any other newspaper anywhere in a city the size of Medford, and is an example of a most healthy and consistent development. It is the official paper of Medford and Jackson county.

"When a man has goods to sell he generally goes where he can find customers."

When a man has goods to sell he generally goes where he can find customers. A real estate agent who would go down among the tenements to sell land at a thousand dollars a front foot wouldn't last long, neither would he succeed if he button-holed every individual on the street. He might strike luck, but he would waste an awful lot of energy. So it is if a man has anything to sell. He goes after people who are interested and can buy. He goes to the paper with a bona fide paid circulation—those which have the right kind of a circulation. None is wasted. The subscriber to a live paper reads the advertisements with as much avidity as he does the reading matter.

Tourist Hotels in Southern Oregon

To the Editor: Your criticism under date of Nov. 1, and entitled "A Neglected Resource," is well directed article towards the progress and further developments of this valley. You call attention to the fact that southern Oregon is not in a position to take care of the tourist travel for lack of good hotel accommodations.

No truer article ever was written in any newspaper and I congratulate you for making this statement. No one realizes it any more than I do.

I myself have travelled over a great area of Europe and left there not quite a year ago. I travelled through the very country to which you call attention, namely, Switzerland, where the hotel business is carried on on a tremendous scale. Besides I visited Italy, Hungary, Austria, Bavaria, Bohemia, over half of Germany, France, England and Scotland. Everywhere you find good hotels.

But, Mr. Editor, while you mention the facts about this enormous industry, you say nothing about the way these hotels are made to pay. A first class hotel maintains in addition to a splendid cuisine and excellent service an excellent orchestra, which sends sweet strains of music during the meal hours into the dining room and after dinner furnishes a beautiful concert in the large and commodious lobbies, where the people go, drink their black coffee, smoke their cigars and enjoy either a fine liqueur or a glass of wine or beer.

I studied the situation very particularly and could not quite figure out how they could afford to furnish this splendid amusement for the guest, so, on one occasion, I inquired for the manager and, after becoming acquainted, asked him point blank the question how they maintained such a fine orchestra, for which they seemingly did not charge. His answer was plain and to the point, namely:

"If we could not have the privilege to sell wines and liquors we could not only not have the orchestra, but we could not furnish the service in other respects we do furnish."

I did not stop with this man but spoke to two more managers of similar hotels and their answers were exactly the same.

Now, Mr. Editor, with my partner and other gentlemen who have the welfare of this valley at heart, I am largely interested in building an up to date hotel, namely Hotel Medford. It is fully our intention to have an orchestra that will be a credit to this town and for that purpose we have devoted the most valuable space to a lobby and a palm court, also a mezzanine floor. This portion of the hotel can not be maintained unless we have the privilege of selling wines and malt and spirituous liquors, and yet we are confronted with agitation for a state wide prohibition law.

I submit that you can not make a hotel pay which is to be run on a 1/2 first class scale without having the privilege of a bar. A hotel without these attractions is no attraction whatever to a tourist. On the contrary, it detracts, for the moment a tourist hears that he has to sit in his room or walk on the street to pass the time away he will stay away instead of come. A tourist wants to be entertained wherever he goes and does not want to be bored by solemn quietude and be made to think that he is in an awful good town when he is not.

Europe makes through the attractions which are offered, over one billion of dollars yearly out of tourists. America can do the same. Oregon is on the go-ahead; nothing can stop her, but prohibition will put Oregon back twenty years.

Trusting you will give this space in your valuable paper and thanking you in advance for your courtesy, I am, respectfully yours,

EMIL MOHR.

REPUBLICANS TO AID R. G. SMITH

ROSEBURG, Or., Nov. 7.—An audience of 250 people at the courthouse listened to a stirring address by Hon. Robert G. Smith of Grants Pass, democratic candidate for congress, and a shorter address of an advisory character by Hon. Harry Lane, ex-mayor of Portland. Mr. Smith flayed his republican opponent, W. C. Hawley, numerically, showing by his record in congress that he was an abject tool of Speaker Cannon and proving by his own evasive and ambiguous statements and his conduct in the present campaign that he was afraid to either take a definite stand on any of the leading issues or meet his democratic adversary in joint debate.

Mr. Smith's speech was characterized by many who heard it as the most vigorous yet delivered during the campaign, and among those who went forward at the close to shake his hand were several republicans, who pledged him their votes at the coming election. Hon. O. P. Coshov introduced both speakers. The meeting was preceded by music by the Roseburg band.

"Democratic candidates are being abused," said Mr. Smith, "because they are associating with republicans, one in particular, Senator Jonathan Bourne. I am a former republican and I don't feel disgraced at being on the democratic ticket. True, the democrats have allied themselves with members of the opposite party, but it is with such republicans as have become weary of boss rule."

The speaker then launched off into an assault of the abuses of the tariff system, declaring them to be the fountain source of all commercial and political corruption. He cited the records to show that Congressman Hawley supported the iniquitous Payne-Aldrich bill and quoted him as saying with pride that he (Hawley) was an "assistant whip," or, in other words, a lieutenant of Joe Cannon.

Hawley Stand-Stiller.

"Mr. Bowerman refers to Bourne as a 'stand-stiller.' If this is true," continued Mr. Smith, "then Mr. Hawley must be a 'stand-stiller.' Mr. Hawley points with pride to the appropriations he secured for Oregon, but he fails to tell you that he got these slices from the 'pork barrel' only after he had bent the knees to Cannon and voted as he was ordered to vote. I want to say to you right now, if I am elected you'll not get a cent of money from congress if I have to surrender my individuality and self-respect.

While I was at Drain the other night, Mr. Hawley, unknown to me, was at Yoneda. I would have given $50 to have known it at the time. There are some very pertinent questions I wish to ask him."

Card of Thanks.

I desire to express to my many friends my sincere thanks for so faithfully helping me through the Mail Tribune contest, which enabled me to win two of the valuable prizes; and also to express my thanks to the Mail Tribune. Ever wishing you success, I am, sincerely yours, IDA BEERS, Woodville, Or.
