FORCE OF GRAVITY.

How It Would Affect Man's Weight on the Celestial Bodies. If the planet Mars be really inhabited the people who live there must be an exceedingly agile race. The average weight of a man is about 140 pounds, but the force of gravity on Mars is so much less than on the earth that the 140 pound man would weigh only fifty-three pounds if he were transported thither. With such light weight, and still retaining the same strength, an individual would be able to run with the speed of an express train, go skipping over ten foot walls and do various other extraordinary things. On the moon a man would be even lighter. But on the sun our 140 pounder would have his troubles. Instead of being a sly individual he would weigh in the neighborhood of a ton and three-quarters. He would probably have the greatest difficulty in raising his hand, for that member would weigh about 300 pounds. According to scientific computation, a man who on earth weighs 140 pounds would on the other celestial bodies weigh as follows: The moon, 23 pounds; Mars, 53 pounds; Venus, 114 pounds; Mercury, 119 pounds; Neptune, 123 pounds; Uranus, 127 pounds; Saturn, 105 pounds; Jupiter, 371 pounds, and the sun, 3,871 pounds.—Chicago Tribune.

A SAD STORY.

The Misfortune That Came With a Terrible Tumble. Fowling is now very little practiced in the Shetland Islands, although many eggs are secured annually. Many thrilling stories of fowling adventures are told by the Shetlanders. A man who had undertaken to climb a certain steep cliff was neither very experienced nor very brave, although he boasted of being both. He pushed up hard, however, briskly without looking behind until he had got up about 150 feet, when he stopped to breathe. The pause was fatal to his self possession, and he called out in tones of terror, "Men, men, I am going—I am going." But he still held on for a little and it was not till he had shrieked many times "I am going" that he did fall headlong. His comrades, having thus been warned, moved the boat out of the way so that the poor fellow came sheer down into the deep water. Mighty was the plunge, but at length he rose to the surface, when of course he was instantly caught hold of and dragged into the boat. After many gasps and much spluttering of sea water from his mouth his only remark was: "Eh, men, this is a sad story. I have lost my snuffbox."—Sketches and Tales of Shetland.

The Last Ditch.

When William, prince of Orange, afterward William III. of England, was elected stadtholder of the United Netherlands in 1672 and found himself in the midst of war with England and France he was asked by the Duke of Buckingham whether he did not see him impending over his country. "Nay," he answered. "There is one certain means by which I can be sure enough to see my country's ruin. I will die in the last ditch." And, rejecting all terms of peace, he checked the invasion of France by opening sluices and flooding every tract of land, drove them from Holland in 1674 and made honorable terms with England and finally after varying effort brought the war to a successful close by a treaty with France in 1678.

AMERICAN OFFICER SPENDS THREE DAYS IN JAP LAIR

TOKIO, Nov. 11.—After three days spent in a Japanese prison at oil, charged with using a camera in the proscribed district, Captain Frank J. Miller of the United States army, stationed in the Philippines, was released today. Miller was within the three-mile limit at Moji when arrested, but explanation of the films in his camera failed to disclose pictures of the fortifications, so his release was ordered. Miller said he was not aware that cameras were forbidden in the district in which he was arrested. Captain Miller is on leave of absence from his station in the Philippines.

HOME METHODS IN THE FACTORY. Every one knows what would happen if a housewife put down her fruit and jellies by simply pouring them from the kettle into the jars and allowing them to stand with loose covers. Her fruit would soon ferment and spoil. Cooking fats are just as liable to spoil, yet most manufacturers of lard and other cooking fats pack their products in tubs or loose-covered tins, exposed to air, dust and odors. Cottolene, however, is packed in pails of special design, sealed absolutely airtight, so that the makers guarantee Cottolene to remain indefinitely as sweet and as fresh as the day it was made.

PORTLAND, Nov. 11.—The beach game for the Beavers, scheduled to Sunday, November 13, has been postponed on account of the coming rain fall, which has metamorphosed the recreation park into an A-1 duck pond. Although several of the Beavers are anxious to make tracks for other times they have unanimously agreed to remain in Portland a while longer as they want to give the local fans a run for their money.

A Total Eclipse of Lard Troubles

Cottolene LARD
Lard is the fore-runner of indigestion. The hog-fat soaks the pastry through and through, fills meats inside and out with a thick, unhealthy grease that the digestive juices cannot penetrate. The result is a call on the doctor whose advice is to go on a diet and avoid all rich food. You can eat pies, cakes and all kinds of pastry if they are cooked with Cottolene, for it is a pure, healthful, vegetable-oil product that contains no trace of hog fat, and does not make food the least bit greasy. From Cottonfield to Kitchen—human hands never touch the oil from which Cottolene is made. The result is that when you buy Cottolene you get a cooking fat upon whose purity and cleanliness you can absolutely rely. Made only by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY

The girl was returning from school when she was attacked. She freed herself after a desperate struggle. She is under the doctor's care.
