

IDELL I, QUEEN OF APPLE SHOW CROWNED; ELABORATE CEREMONY

Proclamation Points Out Fact That It is Well That a Season of Festivity and Happiness Should Preval in Honor of Great Harvest of King Apple.

SPOKANE, Nov. 15.—"My faithful subjects: This testimonial of the loyalty of my people to their sovereign affects me deeply. I am cognizant of the honor accorded to me and I shall do my utmost to deserve the confidence of my people and to merit the approval of my associate, King Apple, and his dependents."

With these words Idell I, queen of the third national apple show, which was formally opened yesterday assumed her reign shortly after 8 o'clock last night. Her royal majesty, who is Miss Mary Idell Ide of Colville, Wash., in private life, was attended by a full court, the prime minister being Governor Hay of Washington, who read the following royal proclamation:

"Nature has bountifully blessed our empire in the harvest time. From the highlands and tree valleys and from distant parts of the domain are gathered here the wonderful products of our favored orchards. Where once the arid desert gave no promise of fertility and where once the primeval forest was untouched by the hand of man now finds the soil giving forth life and nourishment to the growth of beautiful fruit."

"It is well that our subjects should assemble on this occasion for a season of festivity and happiness. This autumn holiday deserves full measure that we may rejoice in our prosperity. Let music, mirth and joy abound; let happiness and contentment be present in this harvest home, and may all our subjects feel the enthusiasm of the hour as we celebrate King Apple's third great festival throughout the week."

The queen's coronation ceremony, conducted with all the pomp and formality of the period of Louis XIV, was one of the most ambitious spectacles ever presented in this part of the northwest. The queen was attended by her prime minister, councillor, ladies of honor, courtiers, heralds, guards, flower girls and pages in the court costume of the time, the music being by a military band of fifty players. The state armory was decorated with royal purple and a profusion of flags, banners and flowers, flanked by pyramids of the choicest apples in the domain.

A fanfare of trumpets announced the arrival of the royal party, the band playing Meyerbeer's "Coronation March" as Idell I and her suite advanced to the throne in the center of the platform. Following the formal announcement by the councillor, there were several trumpet blasts by the heralds, after which the prime minister advanced to the throne and, facing the audience said:

"In all lands and in all ages the coronation of a monarch has held first interest for loyal subjects. Here in the land of the most favored of all fruit, it has been deemed appropriate that a queen should be crowned to commemorate a year of prosperity."

"Your majesty," the prime minister added, turning to the queen, "the faithful subjects of your empire are here assembled from all the precincts of your vast domain to do homage to your liege lord, his royal highness, King Apple, and to place upon your brow the diadem which symbolizes the wealth, power and intelligence of a great people, owing and swearing allegiance to the fair sovereign of such high estate."

"I am privileged by the power vested in me to crown thee queen of the apple kingdom and to proclaim thee sovereign mistress of the favored land, wherein are established the noble houses of Winapa, Spatsoultz, Jonathan, Newtown Pippin, Rome, Beauty, Wagener, McIntosh, Red, Delicious and many other royal estates."

At this point of the ceremony the queen arose from her throne and knelt at the feet of the prime minister, who continued:

"I crown thee queen of the apple empire."

The prime minister placed the crown on the brow of the sovereign, saying: "All hail, Queen Idell I!"

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Parliament reassembled today and transacted routine business, although many of its members declare that the country is on the verge of a political upheaval. Premier Asquith is expected to announce this evening the full program of the liberals, and also is expected to announce that he will call for the dissolution of parliament November 23, after the passage of urgent measures.

U. O. MAY SEVER RELATIONS WITH AGRICULTURISTS

Rough Treatment Following Annual Football Game Is Resented by University Boys—Farmers Started to Abuse Crippled Student.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Nov. 15.—The manner in which University of Oregon rooters were treated in Corvallis last Saturday after the football game will probably result in the severing of athletic relations, at least temporarily. Such action is recommended by William Hayard, trainer and physical director of the university. The question will come up for consideration at the next faculty meeting, and undoubtedly all athletic relations between Oregon and O. A. C. will be cut off.

The trouble started when some of the O. A. C. students attempted to take a rooster's hat and arm band from W. Cooley. Cooley could not resist the attack because he is a cripple, and has to walk with crutches. Because some of his classmates went to his assistance they were struck by O. A. C. students. A fight immediately followed. Harold Bean, son of Judge Bean of Portland who is a junior in the University of Oregon, was struck in the head and rendered unconscious. Before any Oregon students could come to his assistance his hat and arm band were stolen.

Two O. A. C. students forgot themselves so far as to spit on two Oregon girls. Miss Cornelia Pinkam and Hazel McNeir of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority went to the game in a trolley. As they were leaving the game two O. A. C. students attempted to grab the pennant with which the carriage was decorated. Because the driver kept the offenders at a distance with a whip, these students spit on the above mentioned young ladies.

Just before the excursion train left for Eugene another fight started. President Campbell tried to pacify the crowd, but his words were hissed at by the O. A. C. delegation.

Elmer Hall, a freshman attending the University of Oregon from Baker City, was struck across the face with a necktie as he was walking along the street. Partially blinded by the blow, he struck all O. A. C. students within reach, but before any damage was done he was stopped by Louis Pinkham, assistant coach of the football team.

Harry Porter, a Medford student attending O. A. C., is known to be one of the aggressive participants in the first fight.

COUNT BONI TO WOO MISS MORGAN

Such Is Report But Close Friend Declares That Anna Has No Intention of Engaging Herself to Frenchman—Countess Warns Her

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Countess Tallyrand, formerly Anna Gould, today denied that she had asked the vatican to annul her marriage with Count Boni de Castellane in order to have a Catholic ceremony performed and ecclesiastically legalize her marriage with the Prince de Sagan.

Discussing the rumor that Count Boni hopes to wed Anna Morgan, daughter of J. P. Morgan, the countess said: "If the report be true, I suggest that Miss Morgan see my sister Helen and learn something about Marie Castellane."

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Elizabeth Marbury, closest friend of Anna Morgan, commenting on the Paris report that Count Boni de Castellane seeks an alliance with the house of Morgan, to recoup his fallen fortunes, said today: "Miss Morgan has no intention of becoming engaged to the Count de Castellane."

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—The singing of questionable or suggestive songs has been ordered by Chief of Police Steward.

Steward is particularly disgusted with certain apparently popular songs that have to do with dances with peculiar names. He will not compromise either the songs or dances in Chicago.

The chief's order to the patrolmen was to warn any person heard singing the songs that have been marked with official displeasure and if the singer persists, to arrest him or her.

FAIRBANKS MAN MUSHES 800 MILES TO WEDDING

DAWSON, Y. T., Nov. 15.—Allan Rowe has arrived here after mashing behind a team of dogs 800 miles from Fairbanks. He made the dash to wed Mrs. Anna Lawrence, who lives at Forty Mile, near Dawson. With Rowe came Harold Maistrom of Tacoma and two other men.

Rowe weighed 203 pounds at the start and lost only 30 pounds. He has won the title of champion fat man Marathoner of the north by his feat.

SPOKANE IS AFTER 1911 NATIONAL GRANGE

SPOKANE, Nov. 15.—More than 200 commercial organizations in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana have pledged their support to the Spokane chamber of commerce in its efforts to capture the national grange convention in 1911 for this city. R. J. Maclean, secretary of the association, also has advice from chambers of commerce and commercial clubs in other northwestern states that they will prevail upon their delegates to vote for Spokane. When the national convention opens at Atlantic City, N. J., tomorrow to remain in session ten days, every delegate will be personally solicited to give the next session to Spokane and representatives from most of the states west of the Mississippi river will boost for Spokane. The selection of the place for the 1911 gathering is in the hands of a special committee composed of two members from each state. C. B. Kestley, master of the Washington state grange, will present Spokane's invitation. He is now at Atlantic City.

GRANTS PASS, Nov. 15.—Among the heavy sales last week of Rogue river valley apple land were 19 acres belonging to J. B. Wolverton, four miles down the river. F. O. Griffin is the buyer, and will use the place for a commercial orchard. Another large sale consists of a 500-acre ranch sold to Dr. Charles T. Swanson for $10,000. This tract has five acres in bearing orchard.

Thirty acres of apple orchard land down the river was sold to Roy J. Baker, whose brother is cashier of a local bank.
