

MULKEY ESTABLISHES JUVENILE COURT

Ralph Buckman, Lloyd Wolcott, Homer and Ural Reynolds, aged 16, 11, 9 and 11 years respectively were arraigned before District Attorney Mulkey, Monday, and charged with being incorrigible. The elder boy, young Buckman, was committed to the reform school.

The three younger ones were allowed to go on the parole system and are required to report to the district attorney every Saturday with a card from the teacher of their grade in school, showing constant attendance and good conduct.

"I have found this system to work very well in other places in the country," said Mr. Mulkey, "and am hopeful of further good results. As these boys in school and keep them there. See that they are at home after school, for which the parole system provides, and you have eliminated a lot of youthful rascality and minor depredations."

YOUTH MAY DIE OF FOOLHARDY WAGER

BOMBAY, Nov. 15.—Chapters have been written upon strange bets and some foolhardy things done as the result of them. At a little khana on the balcony of Green's restaurant in Bombay a few nights ago a young sub-editor of the Times of India, named Knox—the son of Sir George Knox the chief justice of the Allahabad high court—100 rupees that he dare not jump over the balcony on to the nearest tree and slide down to the ground—Knox at once won his bet, a mad attempt, seeing that the trees in the compound are only of the soft Papaya variety. Results, Knox' arms were broken and the patient is still in danger of completely losing the use of his right arm.

A store must make it pay for reading its ads. If it did not, the cost of its advertising would be thrown away. For if the ad pays you it pays the store—not otherwise.
