FROM THE SUNNY SOUTH LAND.

Among the many gifts that Nature has lavished on the South none is more valuable than her gift of the cotton plant. In the soil, warmth and sunshine of the South, the cotton plant attains its highest perfection. Formerly, only the white, downy lint of the cotton boll was preserved, but today, from the kernel of the cotton seed is pressed an oil which, when refined, compares favorably with the purest olive oil. From the choicest of this oil of the cotton seed is made a cooking fat called Cottolene. In efficiency, purity and wholesomeness, Cottolene far exceeds the fat of the hog, and it has well been named, "Nature's gift from the Sunny South."

Cement Sewer Pipe Best by Every Test

The following letter gives the result of experiments and tests of cement pipe in Portland, Oregon's leading city, where the pipe is extensively used:

Portland, Ore., Oct. 21, 1910.—Mr. A. P. Allen—Dear Sir: Your request for an account of cement and clay pipe test held in Portland June 23 at hand.

A test was made to determine the relative merits of cement pipe and clay or so-called vitrified pipe, for the benefit of the mayor, city engineer, city council and public in general at Finnigan and Hattou's plumbing shop, June 2, 1910, in the city of Portland, Ore. Three lengths of cement pipe and two lengths of clay pipe were placed under water pressure with the following results: Cement pipe stood a pressure of 72 pounds per square inch without percolation or breakage, or the entire city water pressure at that place. The cement pipe was then placed under a water pressure by using a large force pump and broke at 110 pounds pressure per square inch. To that point there was no percolation. The first pipe broke at 5 pounds per square inch. The pipe leaked badly and the second at 18 pounds.

Pieces of cement pipe were placed in a 10 per cent solution of sulphuric acid and a 10 per cent solution of nitric the previous day. After being thus treated for twenty-four hours, showed no decomposition or effect of the acid in any way. Iron filings were then placed on a piece of cement pipe and sulphuric acid poured on them. The filings were quickly eaten by the acids, but in no way affecting the cement pipe. The test was conducted by Mr. Scroggin, a former engineer of the city, and Mr. James B. Kerr, an attorney of the firm of Carey & Kerr, Portland, Ore. The city engineer, Mr. Morris, expressed himself as greatly pleased with the test on cement pipe and recommends it highly for sewer purposes.

The mayor and city council were convinced by the tests given that cement pipe was suitable for sewers, and it is now used in all parts of the city for sewer purposes.

The cement pipe used in this test was made by the Portland Glazed Cement Pipe Co. of Portland, Ore.

The clay pipe used in this test was made by the Oregon & Washington Sewer Pipe Co. of Portland, Ore.

Yours respectfully, C. H. BULLEN.
