DON'T BE A BEAR

IT IS stated that the guiding motto of J. Pierpont Morgan, most famous of American financiers, has been the advice of his equally famous father, James S. Morgan, "Don't be a bear on America. Remember one thing always. Any man who is a bear on the future of the United States will go broke. There will be many times when things look dark and cloudy in America, when every one will think that there has been over-development. But remember, yourself, that the growth of this vast country will take care of it all. Always be a bull on America."

Morgan has faithfully followed this advice and today is "It" in America.

And what is true of America as a whole, is much truer of the Pacific coast, which fate has destined for the greatest future of any section of the globe, which nature has showered with resources exceeding those of any known land.

The fortunes made and to be made on the Pacific coast, in Oregon, in the Rogue river valley, and in Medford have been and will be made by those who have faith in the future and back their faith with enterprise and industry.

Don't be a bear on the future of the Rogue river valley or of Medford. You'll go broke if you are. Its growth will take care of it all, if you do your share in aiding its development.

Don't be afraid of our development. As yet the resources have scarcely been touched. A hundred times the present population can be supported and yet not equal that of older countries. Do your share in tapping this potential wealth.

No calamity howler ever succeeded. The future depends entirely upon the optimism of the community and its faith in itself and its future, and hence upon every person in it. Medford has got the ball started; her citizens should pull together, keep it going, and soon it will roll of its own momentum.

Don't be a bear on Medford or you'll go broke. Always be a bull on Medford.

KINGS OF THE APPLE WORLD.

ONCE again the Oregon apple has demonstrated its superiority over the apples of the world.

For two years in succession, the Oregon Spitzenberg has captured sweepstakes at the Spokane National Apple show.

A year ago, Rogue river valley apples won chief honors at Spokane. This year, Hood river apples win them.

But while Hood river was winning at Spokane, Rogue river was winning at the Canadian apple show at Vancouver, where Newtowns captured first prize.

And Rogue river valley Newtowns from Ashland, the only carload exhibit from this section, won second place at Spokane, where Hood river, with several cars, won first, on account of superior pack, the different scores being 988.1 to 983.7 with a perfect score of 1000.

These national apple shows have conclusively demonstrated the pre-eminence of the Oregon apples as grown in the two great apple belts—Rogue river and Hood river. These two sections are without a rival in the world when it comes to producing the perfect apple, and the Rogue river without any rival for growing perfect pears.

The judges at these national apple shows are world famous pomological experts and their decisions cannot be questioned.

The Rogue river valley congratulates the Hood river valley and the two sections will work together to keep the prizes in Oregon. All we have to do is show what we have. The world cannot beat Oregon in apples.

MURDER MYSTERY WANTED TO SOAR EIGHT YEARS OLD 10,000 FEET UP

New York Police Find Trunk in Which Is Body—Indications Are That Crime Was Committed Many Years Ago—Covered Up Since.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Confronted with an eight-year-old murder mystery with the supposed murderer five years missing, New York detectives today began unraveling the circumstances surrounding the finding of a human body in a trunk in a West Fifty-fourth street tenement house last night.

Until an autopsy is performed the sex of the murder victim cannot be determined, but outward appearances indicate that it was the body of a woman.

The trunk, hermetically sealed, zinc lined and sprinkled with chloride of lime, formed a vault and effectively mummified the body, which had been hacked to make it fit into the 3x3-foot coffin.

The police are seeking W. Lewis, a teamster, who left the trunk with its present holder, Philip Meagher, seven years ago. Lewis owed his room rent and Meagher stored the trunk in the basement until yesterday, when it was opened to see if it contained anything of value.

The detectives traced Lewis' movements about New York until five years ago, at which time they learned that he went west. Circumstances bearing his description are being prepared and will be sent throughout the country.

Newspapers found wrapped around the body were dated April, 1892, and reports of women who disappeared in New York during that month have been investigated.

That Ambition Is Responsible for Death of Aviator, States Widow—Wilbur Wright Greatly Moved by Tragedy Johnstone Reckless.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Ralph Johnstone, widow of the aviator killed at Denver yesterday afternoon, started for Kansas City today to attend the funeral of her husband. Before leaving she said that Johnstone's ambition was to attain an altitude of 10,000 feet, and that he had hoped to establish records at Denver. Johnstone made his first aeroplane flight last May.

Wilbur Wright was greatly moved as he discussed Johnstone's death. "Ralph was a fine fellow," he said, "clean-cut, honest and straightforward. His only weakness was that he would not permit anyone to beat him; he was dissatisfied with equaling another's achievements; he wanted to excel. When Johnstone and Hoxey started for Denver I lectured them good, and they promised not to take any foolhardy risks.

"One trouble with Ralph was that he would not keep within the limits of safety. Instead of making a turn in ten seconds, which would be safe, he would make it in five, thus risking his neck.

"The boys, especially Ralph, are not sufficiently experienced to realize that they must keep on the safe side. Ralph was the 'quickest' pupil we had, but he took many chances and many times my heart was in my mouth while watching him."

How to Stop Drinking.

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, sometimes once a year and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauches, and then—break it.

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and he must have treatment that will cure this condition. Orrine is sold under a positive guarantee to cure the drink habit or the money will be refunded. Can be given secretly.

Write for free booklet on the Cure of Alcoholism to the Orrine Co., 632 Orrine bldg., Washington, D. C. Mailed sealed. Orrine costs but $1 per box. Sold in this city by Leon B. Haskins, 214 E. Main st.
