So Says Pupil of Great Writer— Says Tolstoi Wished to Do Away With Titles and Property Ownership, While Wife Opposed Him.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 19.—Count Leo Tolstoi left his home because of the unreconcilable sociological beliefs of himself and the countess, according to Anton Cherbak, publisher of a Russian newspaper, pupil of Tolstoi and leader of the local Russian colony.

Cherbak studied under Tolstoi for years and was an inspector in one of Tolstoi's clinics in Russia. He spent many months at the home of the aged philosopher.

"The Countess Tolstoi is a countess," he declared, and her mother love for her eight children is greater than anything else to her. She wants to keep her titles and her estates for her children, while Tolstoi doesn't believe in titles and such property ownership.

"Tolstoi's friends are the peasants and the students—his wife's, the great and the title. It is not wise to entertain great people and peasants in the same house. To seek the simple, Tolstoi went away."

Takes Wager, Wins Health.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 19.—A bet of $5 that he could walk from Rochester, N. Y., to Seattle rewarded W. L. Boyd with a complete cure for consumption from which he had been suffering. Boyd passed through Boise yesterday en route on the last lap of his journey, which will be by way of Portland.

Accepting a wager to walk three-fourths or more across the continent, Boyd gained the small sum of money and 80 pounds in weight, as well as a perfect bill of health. After arriving in Seattle he will take the train back to Rochester, where, after receiving the congratulations of his friends, he will return west to make his home.

CAMERA TO HEAD OFF CUPID'S DARTS

"Mashers" Have Been Very Busy in Postoffice at Denver—Authorities Will Snap Men in the Act and Tell Them to Move Along.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 19.—The camera as an antidote for the wounds of Cupid's barbs will be tried by the federal authorities of Denver, who recently have been greatly disturbed by the omnipresence of the tiny gods of love in the lobby of the postoffice. Complaints of young women and young men also who of necessity must visit the postoffice that they were being "mashed" led to the decision.

Officials say there are at least half a dozen persons of both sexes who make it a practice to hang about the postoffice, ogling those who come and go. Photographs of these in various affectionate poses will be secretly taken, then the "mashers" will be shown their pictures and told to go away.

HUNTING GOOD IN KLAMATH COUNTY

KLAMATH FALLS, Nov. 19.—The shooting season has been at its best for two weeks. Several hunting parties have come in from Portland and California cities. In every instance the members of the parties succeeded in bagging the limit. The local birds are still in the marshes, and the northern birds have been brought in by the recent rains.

The excellent hunting found in Klamath county is one of the assets of the country. It affords sport and recreation for the local people and brings in many outsiders who leave considerable money with local business houses. There was recently organized in this city a rod and gun club. It is likely that this organization will recommend a number of changes in the game and fish laws for Klamath county.

CANADA WILL NOT YET MODIFY NAVAL AGREEMENT

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 19.—It is stated in ministerial circles today that there is no foundation for the story published in eastern papers to the effect that the government proposes to modify its naval policy as a result of recent political events.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues say they are satisfied that while there is undoubtedly considerable opposition to the navy policy at the present moment it will pass away when the people learn that they are being misinformed by nationalist orators.

In his speech from the throne today it is said Earl Gray will announce that contracts will be let at an early day for the eleven other vessels provided for in legislation at the last session of parliament.
