FREE LIBRARY GROWS IN FAVOR

During October Nearly Seven Hundred Books Were Drawn—New Copies Are Added to Shelves, But Many More Are Needed.

Medford's growing need and demand for books is making itself known. For the month of October, 691 books were drawn, and the list of those holding cards is being increased by an average of five or six new names every day the library is open. Friday afternoon 94 books were drawn out and on the Friday preceding 114. Patrons of the library frequently remark: "The books you have here have been ably and evident that you need a great many more with which to meet this growing need." A number of new books have just been ordered, and the following have been recently received:

Reed (Myrtle)—The Shadow of Victory.
Lawdow (Mrs. Balloo)—Studies in Wives.
Thayer (John Adams)—Aster.
Scott (LeRoy)—The Shears of Destiny.
Dorset (G.)—A Successful Wife.
Wauke (Frank A.)—The Landscape Beautiful.
Vernon (Max)—In and Out of Florence.
Lagerlof (Selma)—Story of Gosta Berling.
Sinclair (May)—The Creators.
Reid (Jane Brewster)—The Owl of St. Ursula's.
Mancie (Elizabeth Hamilton)—Four Epochs of Life.
Palme (Albert Bigelow)—The Ship Dwellers.
Morris (Gouverneur)—The Voice in the Rice.
Cutting (Mary Stewart)—The Inforeseen.

You believed that "dead stock" to be salable when you bought it. Probably it was—and is. Concentrate a little advertising on it—and, in a week, forget that it ever worried you.

FALSE WEIGHTS ARE PLENTIFUL IN BUTTE

BUTTE, Mont., Nov. 19.—As a town where false weights flourished among various dealers in foodstuffs, Butte is a notch, according to P. S. Holbrook of the bureau of standards of the department of commerce and labor today.

Holbrook is touring the western states making investigations to ascertain the extent of the employment of shortweights by dealers.

Speaking of his discoveries in Butte, Holbrook said:

"The shortages are enormous. In fact I never saw anything like it in all my experience."

Attell-Moore Go Put Off.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Attell-Moore fight, scheduled to take place here next week, was postponed today until November 29, in order to give Attell more time for training. The postponement was granted at Attell's request. The featherweight champion declared he was a bit "off his feed."

Attel ascribes his condition to too much work and attributed this to his failure to whip Frankie Conley decisively in their recent bout in New Orleans.

REMINISCENCES OF 1851.

It was in the fall of 1851 or early spring of 1852 that gold was first discovered in the Rogue River valley. It was found on a little creek in paying quantities by a man named Jackson, who called it Jackson creek, close to where Jacksonville, the seat of Jackson county, is located today. Siering creek was located by Mr. Siering later. That proved rich and built up Jacksonville.

In 1851 there was no sickness on the plains, but in 1852 there was a big immigration and people died by the hundreds of cholera, all owing to the fact of their not taking the precaution of providing themselves with a bottle of Perry Davis' pain-killer. In Chicago during the summer of 1849, when the epidemic was raging, there were 30 deaths in one day. I was taken with the cramps one day; I took a big jolt of Perry Davis' pain-killer, laid down on a lounge and went to sleep and waked up in the evening feeling as frisky as a young colt.

In the spring of 1852 a big immigration from the Willamette valley went out to what is today called Josephine county. There was no county then, no sheriff or tax collectors, but a happy, happy people. The valley and villages settled up very rapidly, many coming up from around Portland and that section.

Dave Birdseye, Colonel G. W. T. Vault, Captain Angel, the Millers and many whose names I have forgotten. C. C. Beekman is the only one left whom I know of from Yreka. My dear, good friend, a banker today, rode the first pony express from Yreka to Jackson.

It was in the summer of 1850 that James A. Pinney, in company with his father, left Iowa and crossed the plains to California. Later Mr. Pinney drifted up into southern Oregon, Jacksonville, just as the Rogue river country began to settle up. He ran a pack train to Crescent City, on the coast, for some time.

In the summer of 1854 he joined a volunteer company of 90 men and 50 packs under command of Captain Jesse Walker, B. F. Dowell and others, to go out on the plains to escort in emigrants. They started out east via Klamath and Gouse lakes and through the Modoc country, were out all summer and helped many people who were short on rations, and saved many a family from being massacred by the treacherous redskins. Jackson sent out a second train with provisions, the most humane expedition ever gotten up by the good people of Southern Oregon. For his summer's work Mr. Pinney received the magnificent sum of $50 from the territory.

In the early spring of 1863 J. A. Pinney, Uncle Dirk Trøgaskus and Ruf Johnson left Jackson for the north with three pack trains of 20 mules each—69 mules and a bell horse. As this was the biggest train ever on the road, it created quite an excitement through the Umpqua and Willamette valleys. Arriving at Portland, they all shipped on the steamer for the upper country. At Umatilla they loaded with general merchandise for the basin country. Mr. Pinney stopped at Idaho City, started building stores, of which he built three, and sent his train back after more goods.
