GOING BACK TO DO MILITARY SERVICE

PORTLAND, Nov. 23.—Preferring three years of military service and a visit home to their free-lots in the United States, twelve Austrians who have been in America for periods ranging from six to twelve years are enroute to New York today, whence they will sail for Europe. Peter Radovitch, who acted as the spokesman, said that they had left Austria without the usual government transports, which are only granted to men who have performed military service. While in America they have been employed in railroad camps most of the time.
