The Art of Happiness

MRS. POTTER OF THIS CITY IS DEAD

Mrs. A. Pottinger, wife of Alexander Pottinger, died at the family residence Sunday morning at 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Pottinger was a native of Ohio, having been born in Sommerville, that state, 68 years ago on the 19th of September.

Two children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Pottinger, both of whom survive the mother, both being residents of Medford. T. E. Pottinger and Mrs. George L. Davis. The aged husband, Alex. Pottinger also lives to mourn the death of his faithful wife.

The services will take place from the family residence at 1 o'clock Tuesday. The body will be laid to rest in Odd Fellows cemetery.

The Nat theatre has an exceptional strong bill on tonight. In fact the Nat theatre has made arrangements to show all the best pictures obtainable and of the very latest make.

Those who attended our show Saturday and Sunday night cannot help admit that the pictures entitled "Jes a Plain Dog," and Little Dolly could not be surpassed anywhere. Our aim is to please the public. Do not miss the pictures tonight. Come once and you will come again. Admission 10 cents. Good music.

Mrs. G. S. Schermerhorn, who was operated on last week for appendicitis, is rapidly recovering, her case even doing better than was hoped for by the operating physicians.

Henry M. Klingensmith, a recent arrival from Grand Forks, Nebraska, has purchased two acres of land near Central Point and will enter the culture of strawberries. Mr. Klingensmith is an old berry raiser from the state of Nebraska, and knows how.

FUEL FAMINE.

If the railroad men should go on a strike on the 10th there would be a fuel famine in Medford inside of a week. You had better get a few tons of coal while you can. Three cars now here. Buy or phone Burridge the drayman.

Wood for Sale.

Cordwood and stovewood, hard and soft, in any quantity. A. Slover, city scales at Main and Pit streets, or telephone Main 2981.

THE NEW YEAR'S ISSUE.

THE MAIL TRIBUNE'S New Year's issue will be compiled by local experts and edited by its own staff.

The advertisements will be solicited and prepared by its own staff. No foreign promoter will have any part in the making, or carry away any part of the proceeds.

The edition is designed to serve as an advertisement of the resources, progress, development and growth of the Rogue River valley. It will serve to call attention to this section and its possibilities, and being up-to-date, will be most reliable.

Merchants each year waste a considerable sum of money for the benefit of the traveling or local advertising gaffer. They receive no returns for the money thus invested.

Money spent in advertising in the Mail Tribune not only brings results, but it goes to support an institution creditable to the valley, helps support a considerable payroll, and helps to make possible one of the best newspapers published in any small city—Medford's best advertisement, for all places are judged by their newspapers.

TOO MUCH RED APPLE.

JOHN M. SCOTT, assistant general passenger agent, returning from the east, utters a word of warning regarding Oregon advertising in the east.

"Oregon is giving too much attention to apple-growing to the exclusion of its numerous other worthy industries," said Mr. Scott.

"People in the east are gaining the idea, and erroneously, that we don't produce anything but apples here. They haven't been told that Oregon is one of the greatest grain, small fruit, timber and livestock states in the union."

"Our constant exploitation of the apple industry, with the high prices that of necessity prevail for good apple orchards, is actually scaring away the settler of small means. In our enthusiasm over the apple we have woefully neglected some of the resources that are entitled to their proportion of attention."

Mr. Scott is correct. We do pay too much attention to the apple, even in the Rogue river valley. We all want the fruit-grower, but we do not want him to exclusion of other settlers.

There is as much or more opportunity here for the lumber manufacturer and for the miner, than is for the fruit grower. We are shipping in yearly hundreds of cars of lumber, with immense forests at our doors. We are importing hundreds of thousands of fruit boxes, with the best of material a few miles away. We are importing coal, with immense coal deposits within sight of the city.

With a record of nearly fifteen million dollars' yield from our placer mines, with practically all the ground to the west of the valley carrying color, with hundreds of gold bearing quartz veins, scattered to grass roots and none scientifically developed, and but few producing, with a million dollars' worth of work done to open up one of the greatest copper mines in the country, and hundreds of copper prospects, the number of men and the amount of capital employed in mining is ridiculously small.

Granite and marble quarries, live deposits and a hundred other natural resources invite the developer and Rogue River valley should make its appeal for them as well as for its red and yellow apples and its golden pears.
